Violent crime in U.S. drops, but overall rate the same

WASHINGTON (AP) — Violent crime declined in virtually every section of the country last year, but a surge in thefts in some big cities prevented the overall national crime rate from falling, the FBI reports.

Preliminary statistics for 1976 show no change from the previous year in the number of crimes reported to state and local police. It marked the first time in five years that the crime rate did not increase.

The number of murders across the country dropped 10 per cent, and a decline in the murder rate was reported in every population category and in all geographic regions.

The FBI issued the report today.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell called the statistics "an encouraging sign for the criminal justice system and for the public."

But he added, "We must not ease our efforts in this struggle, because the incidence of crime still remains far too high."

Though the overall rate held steady and violent crimes declined, stealing rose 5 per cent nationally and by much higher percentages in some cities. In Houston a startling 42 per cent increase in larceny and theft was reported.

The FBI compiles the figures from data submitted by more than 9,000 law enforcement agencies. The statistics cover only the murders, rapes, robberies, assaults, burglaries, thefts and motor vehicle thefts reported to police.

Other studies have indicated that many crimes never are reported to authorities.

The FBI keeps no national statistical summary of such crimes as arson, fraud, embezzlement and other white-collar offenses.

The preliminary report includes actual crime figures for 166 cities with 100,000 or more residents and percentages for the nation and for various population and geographic regions.

The final 1976 report due in the fall contains the raw figures for the nation and more detail about the nature of the crimes.

Of the seven crimes measured, only the category of larceny and theft reflected an increase. It was up 5 per cent from the 1975 figures. The category includes shoplifting, pursesnatching, thefts of bicycles, and thefts of such items as CB radios and stereo tape decks from automobiles.

Larceny increased the most — 10 per cent — in cities of one million or more. The increase hovered around 5 per cent in smaller cities. Larceny rose 12 per cent in the Northeast and from 1 to 3 per cent elsewhere.

Houston's 42 per cent increase in larceny — from 39,309 cases in 1975 to 55,845 last year — apparently was unmatched in any other city. The rate of increase was nearly twice that of New York, where the number of cases rose from 188,832 in 1975 to 232,069 last year.

The rise in big-city larceny, and in some locations burglaries and vehicle thefts as well, left some cities with overall increases in their crime rates.

The figures showed a 15 per cent overall increase in Houston, 13 per cent in New York, and 20 per cent in San Francisco.

But the overall rate declined 9 per cent in Chicago and Washington, 8 per cent in Philadelphia, and 1 per cent in Los Angeles and Detroit.

The four categories of violent crime — murder, rape, robbery and assault — dropped 5 per cent nationally. Robbery, like murder, was down 10 per cent and assault edged down by 1 per cent. But the number of rapes held steady overall, and slight increases in rapes were reported in suburban and rural areas and in the South and West.

Nationally, burglary declined 5 per cent and motor vehicle theft dropped 6 per cent.

Arms control pact collapses

Two more survivors succumb

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — Two survivors of the jumbo jetliner collision died during the night, raising the death toll in aviation's worst disaster to 577.

There were 323 Americans among the dead, according to airline sources.

Meanwhile, a Dutch investigator admitted that the KLM airliner that collided with a Pan American jet as the Dutch plane was trying to take off had not been cleared for takeoff. But he claimed the American plane should not have been on the runway where it was hit, a claim Pan Am disputed.

One of the survivors died on a U.S. Air Force plane taking 53 of the 71 persons who escaped from the fiery collision to the United States. The other, Col. Mervin Waters of Petaluma, Calif., died at midnight in a Santa Cruz hospital.

The bodies of the dead were laid out in a hangar at the edge of the Santa Cruz runway where experts were working 18 hours a day identifying them and preparing them for shipment home. Officials said the repatriation could not begin until Sunday.

The admission that the airport control tower had not authorized the Dutch plane to take off came from Franz van Rejsen, head of the Dutch Civil Aviation Authority's team investigating the collision. He said the taped conversations between the tower and the two Boeing 747 jets showed the KLM pilot had been given preliminary clearance but not final clearance to take off.

"But the KLM plane started, which is not in accordance with normal procedure," the investigator said in a statement. "We presume there was a misunderstanding in the KLM cockpit regarding the position of the Pan American plane on the runway."

Van Rejsen said the American plane was told to pull off the main runway onto a parallel taxiway at an exit called "C-3" and was beyond that point when it was rammed by the Dutch plane. But the Pan Am spokesman said his airline's plane "did not reach C3."

The Santa Cruz newspaper, quoting sources it said heard the recording of the traffic between the tower and the planes, gave this account of the final conversation:

KLM plane: "Ready for takeoff."

Tower: "Maintain position."

Tower to Pan Am plane: "Have you left the runway?"

Pan Am: "No."

Tower: "Do it, and advise when the runway is clear."

A Spanish official said there was one final instruction on the tape before the KLM plane began its fatal takeoff run:

Tower to KLM: "Stand by. I will call you for takeoff."

AT BURN CENTER

A survivor of the tragic crash of two airliners in the Canary Islands is wheeled into the famed Brooke Army Burn Center at Fort Sam Houston today as the victims were brought to U.S.

Brezhnev rejects American concepts

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S.-Soviet talks on a new nuclear arms control agreement collapsed today when the Russians rejected American proposals for a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told a news conference that Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev rejected the American concepts.

Vance said Brezhnev "examined our two proposals and did not find either acceptable.

"They proposed nothing new on their side," he said.

Vance said he and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would meet again in May to see if the talks could be resumed.

"I am disappointed," Vance said, "that we failed to make progress in what I consider to be the most essential" of the issues between the superpowers.

Vance denied the rejection had hurt over-all U.S.-Russian relations.

City police rescue burglary suspect felled by tear gas

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

Pomona police using tear gas and wearing masks pulled an unconscious burglary suspect from a fumes-filled northside liquor store shortly after dawn this morning.

The man, identified as Donnelly Haggerty, 20, of 1189 Ashfield St., was taken, still unconscious, to Pomona Valley Community Hospital for treatment of the effects of the gas. His condition this morning was termed serious.

A second suspect also was arrested. He was a 17-year-old Pomona youth who was not identified because of his age. Police said they found him on the roof of the store.

Lt. Chet Thomas said the incident began just before 4:30 when they received, a report from an alarm company that there was a burglary in progress at Frank's Liquors, 588 E. La Verne Ave. Prior to the arrival of the officers, the company reported more alarm activity indicating that someone was inside.

Shortly after they arrived, officers found the teen-ager on the roof and arrested him. They also discovered that someone had entered the building through a 16-inch vent on the roof.

Officers said they made several efforts to persuade whomever was inside to come out, but he did not. They decided to use tear gas.

Thomas said they first obtained permission of the store owner for the use of the gas, and then fired several cannisters inside. In the meantime, a fire department engine company was summoned as well as an ambulance crew.

When the first rounds of gas failed to drive out the man, officers resorted to a more powerful type, but still he failed to exit the store. During that period officers said they could hear the man inside, coughing.

Eventually, officers Larry Kidney and Michael Bouse entered the store. They said that at first they had trouble locating the man because of the fumes and the darkness. But Kidney finally spotted him lying in a rear storeroom, unconscious.

Kidney and Bouse were examined at the hospital, and returned to duty.

Survivors arrive in U.S.

FT. SAM HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Fourteen badly burned survivors of history's worst airline disaster ended a painful fourney today as they were taken to the burn center at Brooke Army Medical Hospital here.

Twenty-six other returning survivors of Sunday's runway collision between two jumbo jets in the Canary Islands remained on the U.S. Air Force C141 Starfire to fly to El Toro Marine Base in California. Most of the Americans involved in the tragedy were from California.

Ten survivors had been taken off the plane when it arrived early today from the Canary Islands at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey. Another American died aboard the flight.

The burn victims taken off here were rushed to the Institute for Surgical Research after their plane landed at nearby Kelly Air Force Base shortly before 7 a.m.

An ambulance bus backed up to the huge rear-cargo doors of the giant aircraft, and 12 persons, covered with bandages and blankets, were put into the ambulance on stretchers. Teams of specialists followed procedures learned during the Vietnam war in moving them to the burn center in the main building of Brooke Army Hospital.

Two other survivors who could walk were taken to the hospital by automobile.

Conditions of the survivors were not announced immediately. A hospital briefing was scheduled later this morning.

Pan American identified the latest victim, who died aboard the mercy flight, as Isabel Lord of Long Beach.

Hopes dashed

Second call confirms crash victim's death

By MAE TATE

Hope was a flickering shadow for Raymond Behee and his family.

After the Montclair man cried tears of joy about his wife, Hazel Behee, being alive, an overseas call brought tragedy again.

Mrs. Behee was indeed a fatality of the crash of two jumbo jet airlines this past Sunday.

Behee, his children, Dale, Bob and Cynthia, countless relatives and friends received word Tuesday that she was alive, that a mistake had been made in placing her name on the death list. They were told that their wife-mother was in critical condition in the Canary Islands, but they expected her to be transported to the U.S. Army Burn Center in San Antonio, Tex. when she could take the trauma of travel.

The second call came shortly after 10 a.m. today. It was not good news. The second report of the passing of a loved one struck hard, tears and sobs racking the voice of the daughter.

The hope was only a flicker.

Two local water districts will penalize customers

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Two local water districts, which supply most of the valley's needs, today announced they will start penalizing customers who fail to conserve water from now on.

The announcement follows on the heels of a decision by the Metropolitan Water District Tuesday to cut deliveries by 10 per cent as of April 1 and to slap a 100 per cent penalty on those who fail to stay within their qoutas.

The penalties will be passed on to wholesalers by the MWD. The two local wholesalers — Pomona Valley Municipal Water District and the Chino Basin Municipal Water District — will, in turn, charge their customers.

Pomona is the only local city which will not be effected by the cutback and the surcharges.

Jim Lundie, manager of the city's water department, said Pomona is in an "extremely fortunate position. We have our own wells, and we only use a very small amount of MWD water."

He explained that the valley's rainfall is normal this year and therefore "we have access to more water right now than we had in 1976."

He said last year the city imported only 2.6 per cent of its water from the PVMWD. The rest came from local wells and from the San Antonio Canyon reservoir. Lundie said the canyon now has more water than it did last year when there was a shortage of rain.

The city last year used 26,874 acre feet of water, of which about 697 acre feet came from the MWD.

But elsewhere in the valley, the conservation measures are expected to be felt, particularly in irrigation of lawns, and in the use of baths and showers.

The PVMWD said it supplied 27,303 acre feet of water to Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Walnut, Diamond Bar, Rowland Heights, Glendora and Covina last year.

The CBMWD said it bought 11,647 acre feet of water from the MWD for its users in Chino, Ontario, Upland, Montclair, Cucamonga and the rest of the West End.

Both will be trying to cut their purchases by 10 per cent, although the cutbacks may not be reflected in the over-all figures.

This is because the MWD will make allowances for water to new homes, and both sides of the valley have shown very heavy growth in the past year.

The MWD announcement Tuesday was anticipated by the local district. Stan Kawa, manager of the PVMWD, said a week ago that his directors as well the board of the MWD were considering such a proposal.

The cutback affects virtually all water users in the Southland. While it starts with the MWD it will be passed on the individual users through the use of meters.

It is the second curtailment announced by the MWD to aid drought stricken regions of Central and Northern California. The MWD earlier announced it will not use Central Valley water this year so that farmer in the north could have a larger supply. But since the valley has an alternate source from the Colorado River, that curtailment had no effect on quality only on quantity.

Central Valley water is much better than the Colorado Water.

New major discovery: rings around Uranus

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say they have made the first major structural discovery in the solar system in nearly 50 years — rings around the cold and mysterious planet of Uranus.

Until now, Saturn was the only one of the nine known planets encircled by rings of space particles.

"The possibility of the rings had been vaguely speculated before, but the discovery caught everyone by surprise," Dr. James Elliott, a space researcher at Cornell University, said of the discovery announced today at a news conference.

Elliott and his co-workers were studying the stars March 10 around Uranus, the seventh planet from the sun, when they suddenly spotted the thin rings.

The team was working in an airborne laboratory 41,000 feet aloft. The aircraft, operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center here, was flying over the southern portion of the Indian Ocean when the abrupt sighting was made.

Elliott said the airplane was far enough south to be within the shadow of Uranus and far enough into the Earth's night hemisphere to provide the right combination for observing the heretofore unseen rings.

The rings went unnoticed earlier, he explained, because the light reflected from the planet is usually so bright it obscures the lesser reflections off the rings from viewers in most parts of Earth.

He said the five rings are similar to the famed rings around Saturn, but are much thinner. He named them after the first five letters of the Greek alphabet, alpha, beta, gamma, delta and epsilon.

"We don't know why they are so thin," he said in an interview. "They are only a few miles thin, and the thickest one is 30 to 60 miles. Saturn's rings are thousands of miles thick.

"We can't really tell what the rings are made of," he said. "One good guess would be some type of ice. One theory about Saturn's rings is that they are made out of snowballs.

"We still have a lot of data analysis to do," he continued. "We want to figure out what they are made of and work with other astronomers."

One possibility, he said, is that the rings are composed of material present during the formation of solar system that never coalesced into moons or are remnants of a moon.

Elliott said he would be particularly interested in discerning dust between the rings, which might support the moon speculation.

He also said the discovery of the rings could have a major impact on current knowledge of Uranus.

Presently, scientists believe Uranus is four times larger than Earth and has a surface temperature of 300 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. It is 1.7 billion miles from the sun.

The last major scientific discovery in the solar system was the planet Pluto in 1930.

RINGS DISCOVERED

Ames Research Center released this drawing in connection with an announcement that rings orbiting the planet of Uranus, first major structure in the solar system to be found since discovery of the planet Pluto in 1930, have been identified by Cornell University researchers flying aboard the NASA-Ames Research Center Kuiper Airborne Observatory.

Riverside housewife, San Jose businessman

Two named to agriculture board

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Riverside housewife and the director of a San Jose surplus food agency have been named to the state Board of Food and Agriculture.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. announced Tuesday the appointments of Judith Orttung, 38, and Paul Growald, 29, the first public members of the board, which advises the governor on farm policy.

The two members of the general public were added to the 13 farm-connected members by 1975 legislation.

The Democratic governor also named five new farm members, and reappointed James Kendrick, vice president of agricultural sciences at the University of California at Berkeley.

Mrs. Orttung, wife of a UC Riverside chemistry professor and mother of two young sons, is a director of the state League of Women Voters and is its air quality-transportation director.

She is a Republican, but says she hasn't been active in party affairs.

Mrs. Orttung said in a telephone interview that she is most concerned about the effect of smog on crops, the loss of prime farm land, and the drought.

Growald lives in Woodside. He is director of the Food Bank in San Jose, a non-profit, federally funded agency that collects surplus food for distribution by food provider agencies. The governor said Growald is not registered to vote.

Pilots' bodies ready for final journey home

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — In a military mortuary behind a cyclone fence, caskets bearing the remains of 11 American aviators from Vietnam wait for the last leg of their journey to a final resting place — a wait that in some cases began 12 years ago.

The bodies arrived in Oakland late Tuesday from Travis Air Force Base north of here. They had been flown to Travis from Honolulu.

Families across the country soon will get the flag-draped coffins of the 11, returned to the United States after a fiveman presidential commission met with Vietnamese officials in Hanoi earlier this month.

The bodies were flown to Hickman Air Force Base in Honolulu and were positively identified March 19.

A military transport plane broke through an overcast sky late Tuesday afternoon, rolling to a halt on a wind-whipped flight line at Travis, about 50 miles to the north of Oakland.

As a handful of military officials looked on, the rear doors of the C141 transport swung open.

One-by-one the aluminum caskets were carried by Air Force enlisted men and women to 11 waiting hearses in a quiet and simple ceremony.

Only one family, the wife and daughter of Air Force Lt. Col. Elwyn R. Capling, waited at the base — an installation where similar dramas were played many times when the war in Vietnam was raging.

Mrs. Capling stood in quiet composure, holding the hand of her 12-year-old daughter, Chris. The Caplings, from Chicago, ended a wait that began in September 1968 when Capling was shot down while flying a mission over North Vietnam.

There were no speeches. The 20-minute unloading ceremony was carried out in silence, except for the commands given an honor color guard each time a coffin was carried by on its way to a hearse.

Two Moonies decide to leave church after joining families

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With unexpected haste, two young Moonies have abandoned the teachings of Korean evangelist Sun Myung Moon, just days after their parents won temporary custody in a court fight.

The young women, Barbara Underwood and Leslie Brown, are among five young adults whose parents on Thursday won 30-day temporary custody of their offspring to have them "deprogrammed" from the controversial religion.

Their decision to leave Moon's Unification Church was announced Tuesday.

On Monday the state Court of Appeals agreed to hear the church's appeal from the the Superior Court ruling and ordered a halt to forced deprogramming pending a hearing, still not scheduled.

During the Superior Court hearings, the parents' attorneys claimed the church brainwashed young people into joining and raising money by street solicitations for the organization.

Word of the departure of the two members was greeted with disbelief by church spokesmen, who further charged that parents had defied the appeals court order enjoining them from enlisting the aid of deprogrammers. They asked the appeals court Tuesday to find the parents in contempt for disobeying the court's ruling.

Raymond Underwood, parent of one of the ex-Moonies, denied any deprogramming had taken place, saying his daughter had voluntary chosen to leave the church Monday after a weekend of "family activities" and intensive discussions with two close friends who earlier opted out of the Moon following.

"They were discussing fundamental issues about life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," Underwood said in a telephone interview from his home in Portland, Ore.

"There was no pressuring of anyone, it was just a good thorough-going discussion," said Underwood, an Oregon state assistant attorney general.

He said he had spoken with Dr. Thomas Brown, father of the other Moonie defector, who said his daughter also planned to leave the church. The Browns live in Westfield, N.J.

There were no hints of the other three Moonies — Jacqueline Katz, Janice Kaplan and John Hovard Jr. who were last seen Monday in a hasty departure from their San Francisco motel.

Two inmates at CIM found guilty in prison slaying

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

Two inmates at the California Institution for Men (CIM) at Chino were found guilty Tuesday of murdering another inmate at the prison Nov. 6.

A jury of seven men and five women deliberated 3½ hours before ruling them guilty of first-degree murder charges.

Judge Kenneth Ziebarth ordered inmates Richard Castro and Michael Sosa to return April 19 to West Valley Superior Court for sentencing.

They were convinced of fatally stabbing Peter LeClerc while assigned to CIM's Palm Hall, a security housing unit.

The trial was highlighted by the testimony of inmate Jesse Gonzales who reported the defendants used a sharpened pitcher handle and toothbrush to stab the victim.

Gonzales, who pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of accessory to murder, hinted that a conspiracy to kill LeClerc existed between himself, the defendants and other prisoners.

He testified he took part in the slaying by holding a towel over the guard's cage to obscure their visability while the defendants attacked LeClerc.

During the trial, Deputy Dist. Atty. Mary Fuller summoned a number of prison guards who testified to seeing LeClerc stabbed. Two guards said they saw the defendants standing over the victim.

Attorney John Palokovic, who defended Sosa, and Harve Schiffman, attorney for Castro, called several inmate witnesses who said they observed the defendants attempt to assist the injured LeClerc and LeClerc bump into them.

When LeClerc bumped into them, his blood got onto their clothing, they reported.

During his closing argument Monday, Palokovic called the jury's attention to Gonzales' claim that the weapons allegedly used by the defendants — never found by the guards — had been flushed down the toilets in the cells.

"How is that possible to flush a five to eight inch metal pitcher handle down a toilet?" he asked. "How did these weapons get off the tier. They had to have help," he argued.

The attorney argued that LeClerc died on the operating table by drowning in his own blood nine hours after he was stabbed.

Schiffman said the jury could draw two reasonable explanations. The first was the defendants could have killed LeClerc, and the second was that another inmate could have killed LeClerc from his cell.

One inmate besides the defendants had access, although limited, to LeClerc, said Schiffman.

"He could have reached through a cell food slot and stabbed LeClerc," he added. Schiffman said the location of the stab wounds would verify the theory that LeClerc was stabbed by someone other than the defendants.

State briefs

Polanski: I'm innocent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The scene might have come from a movie: famous film director Roman Polanski raced down a hallway pursued by cameramen and bright lights at his arraignment on rape and sex perversion charges.

"I have not much to tell you except that I am innocent," Polanski told reporters.

But in the courtroom where he was advised of the six felony counts against him, Polanski spoke only once to acknowledge his name. He agreed to enter a plea to the charges April 15.

The 43-year-old director, widower of murdered actress Sharon Tate, was indicted by a county grand jury of committing sex offenses on a 13-year-old girl.

Polanski was arrested March 11 after the girl's mother complained to police. She said she had overheard her daughter recounting the incident to a boyfriend.

Authorities said the mother had allowed the girl to pose for pictures that Polanski was taking for a French magazine, but had stipulated that the girl was not to remove her clothes.

Van Houten trial jurors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As Leslie Van Houten watched attentively, prospective jurors reminisced about their exposure to the Charles Manson trial.

Many said they remembered Manson. Few could recall Miss Van Houten, the defendant receiving a retrial on murder conspiracy charges.

"The only thing I know about it is the name Charles Manson, which has gotten crammed into my awareness by constant repetition," said one man during Tuesday's first round of indepth questioning. "His name has become something of a household word."

Another man declared, "I will admit I was a little bit prone to form an opinion on this fella Manson. He was one of the bad guys."

Eight prospective jurors admitted they were prejudiced against Miss Van Houten and were dismissed. They said they had formed opinions on the case from news reports and from a book, "Helter Skelter," written by former prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi.

Economically better off

SACRAMENTO (AP)—When last year ended, California was better off economically than most forecasts had predicted, the state Department of Finance says.

The Economic Indicators report issued for February by the department cited greater strength in employment, income and construction as reasons for the healthier picture.

These are some highlights from the report, based on figures from this January, which was released Tuesday:

—The state's index of leading economic indicators showed an 8.3 per cent gain over January 1976.

—Employment during the year climbed by 358,000, the strongest gain in over five years.

—Personal income in 1976 showed a 10.9 per cent gain over 1975, the largest increase in several years, the report said. The total was $154,520.

—Private housing starts increased 67 per cent over 1975 starts for a total of 220,600. The report concluded: "The construction sector was an area of immense strength in California last year."

—At the same time, the increase in consumer prices was the lowest in several years, 6.1 per cent.

State boundary dispute

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Eighty square miles of land in Nevada should not be given up by California "without a fight," a legislator says about reports of an incorrect Nevada-California boundary.

Also, an exception could be made in California's anti-gambling law to allow for any casinos incorrectly believed to lie in Nevada, said Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach.

The California Lands Commission reported last week that a survey error setting the boundary in 1850 put the line from Lake Tahoe north as much as one-third of a mile too far west — in Nevada's favor, in other words.

They said at least two casinos on Lake Tahoe's north shore would be located in California if the line were relocated.

Catholic teachers win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It took a two-day sit-in at archdiocese headquarters to do it, but striking Catholic high school teachers have won their demand to meet with Cardinal Timothy Manning.

Teachers' representatives were to meet with Manning today, said church spokesman Robert Boyle. The meeting would be the first since a federal mediator suspended talks so that teachers could negotiate with Orange County Diocese officials in a related strike.

On Monday, more than 30 teachers took over the chancery in Los Angeles, vowing to stay there until the church agreed "to bargain in good faith with the union chosen by a majority of the lay teachers."

Veterans' discharges

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some 15,000 Vietnam veterans in Southern California are eligible to have their less-than-honorable discharges ugraded under a program anounced by the Defense Department.

Patrick Wood, president of the local chapter of the Center for Veterans' Rights, said Tuesday that the program applies to those who received a general or dishonorable discharge between Aug. 4, 1964, and March 28, 1973. In addition, veterans must have served a full tour of duty in Vietnam or neighboring waters or have been wounded in action, personally decorated, honorably completed a previous tour of duty or served satisfactorily for two years in the military.

Those eligible have six months to apply.

The program was approved Monday by Defense Secretary Harold Brown.

Governor candidates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. was closely grilled during a gathering of labor leaders here, but a potential 1978 challenger drew less heated comments.

The Democratic governor and state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, a Republican, held separate question-and-answer periods Tuesday before a California Labor Federation conference on the state's industrial future.

Brown fended off numerous attacks from the labor bigwheels on topics ranging from highways to redwoods, while Younger provoked half as many questions and comments from the audience.

"I don't think you realize how damaging you have been in your administration to the construction industry in this state," John Smith, an Imperial County construction trades union representative, told Brown. He said the governor's policies had hampered industrial building and slowed highway construction.

Brown shrugged off the charges with boasts that California leads the nation in sewage treatment plant construction and said more highway construction is planned.

Havasu City — 'outpost for organized crime'?

By The Associated Press

Published accounts of a series by a team of investigative reporters say that Lake Havasu City, Ariz., is becoming an "outpost for organized crime figures," many of whom moved west from Rochester, N.Y.

The stories said that Lake Havasu City, a 14-year-old unincorporated community with no police force, also is "a safe haven for thugs and thieves."

It has no police force and the published accounts quoted investigator Joe Chapin of the sheriff's office as saying: "We don't have the manpower and the equipment to know what these people are really up to. But we know they are here. Sometimes is seems like most of the Rochester chapter of the Mafia lives along the river."

The stories appeared in the Wednesday editions of the Indianapolis Star and the Albuquerque Journal and some other papers, available Tuesday night. They were based on the 18th installment of a 23-part copyright series by Investigative Reporters and Editors, Inc., which sponsored a team probe of organized crime in Arizona.

Accounts of what was presented as a sidebar to the main installment said, "An IRE investigation ... shows that the city ... resulted from a massive land grab that will earn McCulloch (Corp., the developer) more than $30 million" since 1963.

Rick Stephens, president of Chamber of Commerce Lake Havasu City, issued a statement today criticizing the stories.

"The team of investigative reporters and editors now have attempted to smear the good reputation of Lake Havasu City by implying it is a crime ridden community bossed by Mafia veterans," he said.

"The team has used the technique of inuendo, hinting guilt by association and the big smear. We resent this and other attacks by hit and run outsiders.

"At the same time it seems to further prove our point that Lake Havasu City is an outstanding success. Critics would not give it this much attention if it were a failure."

Robert McCulloch Jr., president of McCulloch Properties, said today that the stories of how the company acquired the property for Lake Havasu City were "a rehash of often told tales with no resemblence to fact."

The main IRE in print report said that Edward Eugene Frederico Jr., head of Lake Havasu's Italian-American Anti-Defamation League, "denies that the influx of Rochester Italians has any relationship to the Mafia." According to the stories in print, Frederico controls the area's only asphalt and concrete plants, "which have million-dollar subcontracts with the Lake Havasu Irrigation and Drainage District to build city streets."

Assassin panel witness dead

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Authorities planned an autopsy today in the apparent shotgun suicide of a man recently contacted by the House committee on assassinations in its investigation into the killing of President John F. Kennedy.

The victim was George de Mohrenschildt of Dallas, a geologist who taught French at Bishop College and had been an acquaintance of Lee Harvey Oswald and his wife, Marina.

Palm Beach County Sheriff's Lt. Richard Sheets said there was "no reason to suspect anything other than suicide but the investigation is continuing."

He said a formal ruling would be made after the autopsy.

An assassination committee source in Washington said investigators for the panel had been trying to find de Mohrenschildt, 65, to interview him, and only recently had located him in Florida.

De Mohrenschildt's body was found by his daughter, Alexandra, 33, in the guest room of a palatial oceanside home in exclusive Palm Beach. He and his daughter had arrived there from Brussels for a visit with relatives, Sheets said.

"At the time of the shooting, he was alone in the house except for two maids who said they did not hear the shot," Sheets said. He said the preliminary investigation showed the victim died of a head wound. A 20-gauge shotgun was found near the body.

Sheets said no suicide note was found.

Willem Oltmans, a Dutch journalist who has been interviewed by assassination committee investigators, has said publicly that the Russian-born de Mohrenschildt told him in an interview he felt some responsibility for Kennedy's death.

It was not clear from the journalist's account whether de Mohrenschildt said anything other than that as an acquaintance of Oswald he felt he might have been able to stop the assassination in some way.

House OKs reorganization bill

How much influence does Congress want to keep?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate, agreeing that President Carter should have authority to reorganize the federal government, now must decide how much influence they want to keep in the process.

The House voted 395-22 on Tuesday to give Carter many of the same reorganization powers other presidents enjoyed between 1949 and 1973.

The measure allows reorganization plans proposed in the next three years to take effect 60 days after the President submits them to Congress unless they are vetoed by either the House or Senate.

The House bill differs from a Senate-passed measure in only one major respect, setting up the machinery for a vote on each reorganization plan Carter submits.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairman of the Government Operations Committee that wrote the House bill, said he hopes the Senate will avoid delay by accepting the House version and sending it to Carter for his expected signature.

Otherwise, a formal conference between the two houses would be necessary to reconcile the differences.

The voting mechanism was included at the insistence of Brooks, who declared that implementation of a reorganization plan without a congressional vote is unconstitutional and amounts to a "negative veto."

Carter and many members of Congress differed with Brooks and expressed fears that government reorganization, a major campaign theme of the President, would be slowed if Congress had to vote affirmatively on each plan.

Mansfield, 3 others named ambassadors

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has picked four prominent men, including a former Senate majority leader and a former Princeton University president, for ambassadorial posts, it was reported today.

Administration sources said the President has selected former Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, 74, to be ambassador to Japan. Sources also said Carter has chosen career diplomat George S. Vest, 58, as ambassador to Pakistan.

Several published reports said former Princeton University president Robert Goheen, 57, is the President's choice to be ambassador to India. And a senator said Carter will appoint Cincinnati financier Marvin L. Warner, 57, ambassador to Switzerland.

None of the choices have been announced yet by the White House, but Press Secretary Jody Powell said recently Carter plans to make several important ambassadorial appointments soon. Mansfield, Vest, Goheen and Warner were expected to be among them.

Order by court ends threat of rail strike

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dissident Conrail employes obeyed a federal court order to remain on the job today, ending the threat of a strike that could have shut down much of the commuter and freight service in the Northeast.

Consolidated Rail Corp. spokesman Gary Fulton said trains were running normally after a 6 a.m. strike deadline.

He said only 11 pickets showed up this morning throughout the rail system, which covers 17,000 route miles in a 16-state area.

"They left when they were informed by management of the temporary restraining order," Fulton said of the pickets. "There was no disruption of passenger or freight service whatsoever."

A spokesman for Systems Federation Local 1, a coalition of four craft unions representing 10,000 workers throughout the system, announced Tuesday evening that there would be a strike. But then it appeared the union leadership became uncertain what members would do.

Conrail, in the meantime, won a restraining order from Judge Charles Weiner in U.S. District Court.

After the deadline passed this morning, James McAteer, president of Systems Federation Local 1, said:

"All indications are that it will not materialize. We asked our people to comply with the (court) order. And it looks like they have." McAteer said he could not foresee a wildcat strike in the near future.

The court order was obtained as word spread that a strike was planned to protest the layoffs last Friday of 1,200 Conrail shop craft employes including electrical workers, boilermakers, carmen, firemen and oilers.

According to Conrail, the strike threat appeared to be aimed particularly at Philadelphia; Columbus, Toledo, and Cleveland in Ohio; and Chicago.

Army staff of Zaire retreats

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — The Zaire army staff has fled the copper-mining center of Kolwezi in southern Zaire in the face of Katangan invaders approaching the mines, unofficial sources said.

There was no comment on the report from the Zaire government.

All Americans in the Kolwezi area except four Protestant missionaries were reported to have been evacuated also. The missionaries, along with some 4,000 Belgians in the area, refused to leave.

Valley crime

Shot fired at man; 2 jailed

Two Chino men arrested by Ontario police Tuesday night are accused of firing a shot at a man in the 1300 block of east Holt Boulevard.

Booked in the West End jail for investigation of attempted murder and conspiracy to commit murder were Ronald Mario Fajardo, 22, 13011 Carrillo St., and Rodney Thomas Valdez, 21, 13010 Carrillo St.

Police indicated that both men are associated with the Chino Sinners gang.

Police said that two men knocked on the door of an Ontario couple's apartment Tuesday night and confronted the occupants.

The male victim told officers that he saw one of the men had a gun tucked in his waistband. Fearing for his life and the life of his wife, the victim walked outside and shut the door behind him, locking his wife inside.

The man then fled from the armed men who allegedly fired one shot in his direction. Immediately after the shot was fired, the woman came out of the house and confronted the two men who said they were going to kill her husband. They then drove off.

Police stopped the suspect vehicle a short distance away and placed the men under arrest after they found a handgun with one round expended in their possession.

Cable Airport burglaries

Upland police were searching for burglars who broke into two Cable Airport businesses sometime Tuesday morning and made off with more than $2,300 in hand and power tools.

Police said the two burglaries, one at Southwest Aircraft Co., 1749 W. 13th St., on the airport property, and the Cable Airport maintenance shop were burglarized.

Police said that in both cases the burglars used some type of pry tool to force open rear doors.

Officers said the burglars took power and hand tools from the aircraft company and power tools, junk batteries and metal tubing from the maintenance shop.

4 held in Pomona robbery

Pomona police today planned to seek complaints against several suspects arrested in connection with the robbery early Tuesday morning of the Stop n Go Market at 1175 E. Philadelphia St.

The four were arrested shortly after the 3 a.m. holdup. They were stopped in their car at Ninth Street and Towne Avenue.

The victim, a 27-year-old Pomonan, said two men entered, asked for cigarettes and then one drew a pistol and demanded money. The employe was forced to kneel behind the store counter before the pair fled with cash and a carton of cigarettes.

Police reported finding a similar carton of cigarettes in the suspects' car. They also reported that when they checked on the car's ownership, the owner told them it had been stolen.

Those arrested were Reginald Tyrone Howard, 19, of 1274 Colony Drive, Pomona, and three Los Angeles men — Carlton William Dorsey, 20, Dannie Hoard, 19, and Charles Ray Powell Jr., 18.

San Dimas market robbed

A San Dimas market was robbed Tuesday night by a man armed with a revolver, sheriff's deputies reported.

The holdup was at the Circle K Market at 116 N. Walnut Ave. An employe, a 21-year-old woman, told deputies the man entered, walked behind the counter and pointed the pistol at her before demanding money. Before he fled, he forced the victim to lie on the floor.

The robber was white, 18 to 23, 6 feet tall and weighed between 150 and 175 pounds. He had bushy eyebrows and wore a ski cap, maroon windbreaker and dark trousers.

$1,500 tire, wheel theft

Upland police this morning were investigating the theft of 100 trailer tires and wheels valued at $1,500 taken from the Upland Mobile Homes storage shed at 1425 W. Foothill Blvd., sometime Tuesday morning.

Ozelle Rowland, supervisor of the program, and Nina Wallace, assistant supervisor, are in charge.

3,000 attend Hart concert

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 3,000 people — politicians, business leaders, college students and First Lady Rosalynn Carter — turned out for a memorial concert in tribute to the late Sen. Philip Hart.

They donated $50,000 "seed money" for a scholarship fund for a small northern Michigan college, and heard the Detroit Symphony Orchestra perform at Ford Auditorium.

It was a rare fundraising appearance Tuesday night for the First Lady, who has said she will not lend her name to events in which she is not personally involved, according to her press secretary.

Hart died of cancer last Dec. 26.

His daughter, Ann, sang three German arias during the concert, which was attended by Hart's widow, Jane. Michigan Supreme Court Justice G. Mennen Williams narrated Aaron Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait."

"I did not know Phil Hart personally — a fact I deeply regret," Mrs. Carter said.

EYEING EASTER EGGS — Four-year-olds Kim Kaufman, Vicky Molinar and Eric Hawkins, from left, eagerly eye Easter eggs being prepared for the community hunt sponsored by the Upland Recreation Department and the Upland Junior Women's Club on April 9 at 10 a.m. at the Upland Memorial Park baseball diamond. The hunt is limited to children from 3 to 5. Youngsters should bring their own Easter baskets to collect eggs.

$300,000 refund will be payed

LVC settles VA controversy

La Verne College has gained firm financial footing with the settlement of the $1.6 million Veterans Administration PREP (Pre Discharge Education Program) controversy.

According to LVC President Armen Sarafian, the college is no longer liable for the $1,629,686.79 which the government claimed La Verne College owed for alleged overpayment between 1972 and 1975.

After 1½ years of negotiations with the Justice Department and the Veterans Administration, La Verne College will now pay a refund of approximately $300,000.

La Verne has conducted PREP, a program designed to prepare military personnel for college since 1972 at many California bases.

The "crux of the controversy," according to Sarafian, was in the credit-hour, clock-hour disagreement.

Under VA PREP regulation, students must attend class 25 clock-hours per week. However, in October of 1972, this law was amended to provide for instruction on a credit-hour basis. Under this new regulation students were given credit for work completed, not time spent in the classroom. La Verne opted for credit-hour as their means of instruction.

According to Paul Mahoney, attorney for the college, LVC proposals for the credit-hour measurement had been submitted to the Bureau of School Approvals long before the October amendment.

VA officials claimed the college had not received authorization to go credit-hours, and therefore, had to pay back funds for all instruction not timed in clock-hours, charging the college with negligence in certifying students for more clock-hours than students actually attended.

With the help of two LVC Board of trustee members, an appointment was made for Sarafian with Richard Roudesbush, former VA head administrator and two other top VA officials. Then later, Sarafian met with the VA and Justice Department officials who re-examined the case. The official 1975 audit showed that the college owed refunds of about $300,000.

Through these negotiations, the college agreed to pay the government the $300,000 debt, amortized during the next 10 years, and waived claims against the VA. The agreement was approved in the Attorney General's office.

The first payment of the debt will be made Oct. 1, 1977, at a rate of $3,500 a month, according to Sarafian.

Fast ship

The oceanliner The United States, which set the Atlantic crossing record in 1952, was the fastest ever placed in service. The ship frequently cruised faster than 36 knots. Designed for conversion to a troopship, the 817-foot vessel could steam at 40 knots, or 48 land miles an hour. Removed from service in 1970, the ship is berthed at Norfolk.

Claremont film program scheduled

The Claremont Public Library will show "The Emperor Jones," as its afternoon film program Tuesday.

Paul Robeson stars in the film version of Eugene O'Neill's play, which depicts scenes of black life in the 1920s from Harlem's Cotton Club to a Georgia chain gang.

The story tells the story of Brutus Jones' rise from Pullman porter to king of Haiti, then portrays his emotional deterioration as his rebellious subjects chase him into the jungle.

The free program starts at 2 p.m.

Registration at Chino High is under way

Registration has begun for summer school sessions at Chino High School, which will be held from June 20 through Aug. 19.

Students may register at the high school counseling center until May 1. They can attend either two or four hours a day, with five units granted for each two-hour, nine-week class completed.

Further information may be obtained by calling 628-1201, ext. 293.

Books chained

Because of the great value they had during the Middle Ages, books were often chained in monastic libraries.

Jay-C-Ettes hold book give-away

In conjunction with its Reading Is Fundamental (RIF) program, the Pomona Jay-C-Ettes recently held a book dispersal for students in the second and third grades at Pomona's Lincoln Elementary School.

The dispersal is one of seven at Madison, San Jose and Lincoln schools arranged so far this year by the group.

Children at Lincoln who participated were also treated to songs and folktales by local folklorist Richard Chase.

The RIF program simply allows children to pick out a book, free of charge, which interests them and invites the child to keep and read the book. Supporters believe the program both increases the child's motivation to read as well as stimulating the child to acquire books for a home library.

The Jay-C-Ettes are hoping for wider community support to enable the program to expand to other schools in the area. The group has also assisted in setting up permanent libraries in the second grades of its three target schools.

JUDY WRIGHT

Claremont planning group adds a member

A Claremont resident who calls herself a "professional volunteer" is the newest member of the city Planning Commission.

Mayor Bertye Smith last week appointed Mrs. Judy Wright of 472 W. 10th St. to one of two vacancies on the Planning Commission.

Mrs. Wright has been a resident of Claremont 4½ years. She has been an active member of the League of Women Voters 12 years, 10 of them on a board either in Evanston, Ill., or in Claremont.

She was installed as president of the Claremont League in 1975 and was instrumental in getting the Los Angeles County League to hold its annual meeting in Claremont this year for the first time.

Active in parent-teacher organizations, Mrs. Wright served as president of the Sycamore PFA 1974-75, and as corresponding secretary of the Claremont Coordinating Council from 1973-1975.

Mrs. Wright said that she is deeply committed to the concept of housing rehabilitation, and has illustrated that fact by rehabilitating the home she lives in.

She said that residents need to preserve the housing stock in Claremont, and that the Planning Commission should encourage this.

Mrs. Wright served on a League committee which conducted a comprehensive study of the hillsides north of Claremont, and presented the study to the city.

Encouraging residents to get involved in their city and school district functions, Mrs. Wright has seen the League present to the Claremont Unified School District a study of citizen participation in school governance.

The League in 1976 prepared a booklet entitled, "Claremont, Profile of a City." The booklet contains a short history of the city and a guide to local government and community life.

Mrs. Wright has attended many Planning Commission meetings and feels she is well qualified to fill a vacancy.

During the recent school board election, two commissioners, Raymond Ball and Jim Merrill, resigned their posts.

Both terms expire in June 1979.

Highway bids being requested

The California Department of Transportation is calling for bids on 25 highway construction projects, including one in Diamond Bar.

The Diamond Bar project calls for the installation of drainage improvements and slope erosion protection at various locations in Brea Canyon between Diamond Bar Boulevard and the Orange County line, along the Orange (57) Freeway.

Approximately $80,000 is available for this project. Bids will be opened in late April, and work is expected to begin within 45 days.

Nearly $9 million is available for all 25 projects.

Sargasso

The Sargasso Sea is a vast Atlantic pasture that is twice the size of the contiguous United States, says National Geographic.

Will review recommendations at April 12 meeting

Claremont council approves revision of fees

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont City Council has approved a sweeping revision of its community development fees and service charges.

The council last week reviewed the recommended changes and at its April 12 meeting will adopt the appropriate ordinances noting the changes.

Deputy City Manager Paul D. Brotzman explained the basic criteria used for establishing the recommended fees and service charges is the corresponding charges of surrounding communities, and the level of staff work involved in providing the service covered by the particular charge.

He said that the fee proposed is either the average of that which is charged by the surrounding cities or the estimated cost to process the average application.

He said that although administrative trainee Rosalia Martinez was responsible for the gathering and preparing of the information used, the community development department was involved extensively in the preparation and review of the recommendations.

Brotzman said this is the first time that all fees have been reviewed at one time, and that the schedules will be reviewed annually.

The city's current charge for all variances is $75. Brotzman recommended differentiating single family residential from other types of construction as do Upland and West Covina, and charging $75 for variances on residential and $175 for variances on other construction.

Currently Ontario charges a low of $50 while Upland has the upper limit of $440.

The charge for appeals will be boosted from $25 to $50.

Brotzman recommended the city charge $175 for all conditional use permits, a figure the same as Chino, and midway between a low of $75 as charged by Ontario and a high of $490 as charged by Upland.

Brotzman said that the city's current fee of $100 for rezoning applications is substantially lower than that charged by comparable cities, and that he would recommend doubling the fee. Ontario charges $175, Chino $200 plus $1 an acre, while Upland goes as high as $490.

Brotzman said that although a request for a general plan amendment involves the same procedures as a zone change application, he would recommend the developer initiating such a request be assessed for the required services.

The council has gone along with the recommendation and a developer will be charged $200 for the general plan amendment and 20 per cent of the charge for a zone change or $240 when he asks for both.

Brotzman recommended a $25 fee for the initial review of projects to recoup the city's expenses whether the applicant proceeds or withdraws his proposal. Brotzman explained that he was speaking of the same review as covered by a negative declaration fee in the environmental impact report process.

Brotzman recommended the city fee on parcel maps be doubled from $50 to $100 a lot. Ontario charges $5 a parcel, with a $15 minimum, but San Dimas charges $50, and Chino and Upland each assess $100.

Brotzman recommended that the charge for tentative and final tract maps be combined and that the fee be increased from a combined total of $100 plus $6 a lot to $200 plus $10 a lot.

San Dimas charges $550 plus $3 a lot, while La Verne assesses $300 plus $35 a lot.

The council went along with a recommendation that drainage fees be hiked by 8.3 per cent, because a survey of 20 cities across the nation indicated an average increase of 8.3 per cent over 1976 construction costs.

The council did not go along with a recommendation for the establishment of a $50 fee to cover, in part, staff time spent in preparing materials and attending meetings having to do with site and landscape plans on new commercial, industrial and apartment developments.

The council went along with a suggestion for a $10 fee for a permanent business sign, but thought that a $25 fee would be too high.

The city will establish a fee of $10 for pavement cuts to cover the inspection of utility company excavations.

Those with home occupations will pay more. The council has approved hiking the current $3 initial fee to $5, and the $1 renewal fee to $2. Of the five cities surveyed, only San Dimas and Chino charge for a home occupation permit and that amounts to a one-time fee of $25.

Physician opens office in Upland

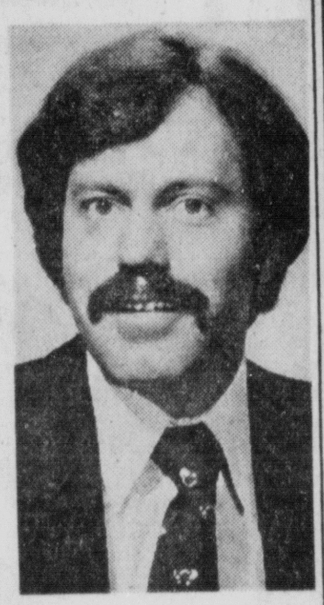
Dr. James T. Lee, an osteophatic physician, announces the opening of an office at 600 N. Mountain Ave., Upland on April 1. He is a general practitioner.

Dr. Lee is on the staffs of Park Avenue Hospital in Pomona, Ontario Community Hospital, and Esperanza Intercommunity Hospital in Yorba Linda. He is director of emergency services at Park Avenue Hospital.

He is a 1973 graduate of Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine and he interned at the John F. Kennedy Medical Center in Stratford, N.J.

Before coming to Pomona last year, Dr. Lee was in general practice in Hollywood, Fla., where he was on the staff of the Community Hospital of South Broward.

He is a member of national and state associations of osteopathic medicine and is licensed to practice in New York, Florida and California.



DR. JAMES T. LEE

Person-to-person

ALFRED J. FLETCHER has been appointed assistant vice president for loans at Bank of America's Pomona main office.

Fletcher joined the bank in Ontario as a business development officer after experience in marketing and lending for other Southern California credit and finance corporations.

In June, he was promoted to assistant vice president for loans at the Glendora branch were he worked until his present assignment. Fletcher is a past president and member of the Model A Ford Club of America.

He and his wife, Betty, live in San Bernardino.

ROBERT E. SHOPE, of Pomona has invented a lightweight, decorative music-tape rack that fits easily over the drive shaft hump of a car and adds a touch on top of any home record cabinet.

His design, which can be assembled in minutes by a user, is now being introduced to industry with the help of the Raymond Lee Organization.

Shope calls his invention "The Pony," and assembled it is somewhat reminiscent of a highly stylized standing "saw horse." The unit is assembled from anodized aluminum stampings that consist of four leg bars, two long bars that form the "horses backbone" and a set of upright pockets or "saddles" for the tape cassettes, which rest on the back. Back, legs, and saddles are connected by simple rivets that can be driven by a tack hammer, and the leg bars are soft enough so the user can form them into curves that will fit his car, or simply into a generally graceful shape for cabinet-top use.

Attorney DANA PANKEY, former Montclair councilman, has returned to the valley after an absense of more than three years during which time he and his wife, Ruth, made their home in Big Bear Lake where he practiced law.

Pankey, is founder, and continues as president, of Pomona Valley Christian Schools, Inc., in Pomona.

The Los Angeles County Board of Education named E. MAYLON DRAKE to the position of chief deputy superintendent of the Los Angeles County Schools Office, effective June 1. The recommendation for Drake's appointment to the $42,744 per year position was made by county Supt. Richard M. Clowes.

Drake, 57, has been with the county schools operation since 1970, as assistant superintendent, educational programs and services. Before joining the county schools office, he was superintendent of the Alhambra city and high school districts from 1964 to 1970.

Drake will replace Robert C. McCaughin, who is retiring June 30. McCaughin, formerly superintendent of Lynwood Unified School District, joined the county schools office in 1961 and was named chief deputy superintendent in 1967.

ERNESTINE CASTELLANO of La Verne was appointed by the Foundation for Early Childhood Headstart/Preschool to attend the National Headstart Conference at El Paso, Tex., on May 19.

She is president at the Church of the Brethren Headstart Center and is an active member at the Roynan School where her other children attend.

At the conference, she will be a parent representative to participate on a panel to discuss the role of the parent in the decision making process.

JOHN WHITSETT, of South Pasadena, a veteran deputy county counsel with experience in environmental law, has been appointed district counsel for the South Coast Air Quality Management District (SCAQMD).

Whitsett's appointment, effective April 11, was made by the district's 10-member governing board following a search and interview of more than 50 candidates.

As district counsel, Whitsett will advise the District Board and management on a wide variety of matters.

2 students disciplined

The Pomona school board has taken action to expel one student and exclude another from the district.

The expelled student is Christopher Carter, a seventh grader at Marshall Junior High School. He was accused of threatening other students on campus with a knife.

The excluded student is James Hurtado, an eighth grader at Fremont Junior High School. He was accused of pushing a teacher during an argument.

Expulsions and exclusions differ on the requirements for re-entry to the district, with excluded students having a better chance, officials explained.

Chino board adopts anti-strike policy

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A tough anti-strike policy was approved by the Chino school board Tuesday night, despite strong protests from employes.

Spokesmen for employe groups claimed the possibility of a strike was not imminent, and had not even been discussed by workers.

"He (Supt. Royce Lapp) is stirring up a hornet's nest," charged Ted Samodell, president of the local chapter of California School Employes Association which represents classified (non-teaching) employes.

Lapp, who urged the board to adopt the policy, warned that one employe group held a meeting recently "with the intention of having a strike vote." He did not identify the group.

Teachers and classified workers are currently negotiating for salary raises with administrators under the collective bargaining law. CSEA has been bargaining since last fall, and an impasse was declared recently in the wage dispute.

School trustees approved the anti-strike policy as an urgency measure, as requested by Lapp. They suspended the normal 10-day waiting period and the plan was adopted on a 4-1 vote with Lyle Briggs dissenting.

The policy is designed to keep schools open during a walkout. It provides for the hiring of temporary workers and shifting of assignments for employes not on strike. The plan also calls for disciplinary action (including dismissal) and loss of pay and fringe benefits for striking workers.

Lapp explained that emergency procedures must be worked out in advance of a walkout. "I feel it's wise and prudent for this district to be prepared for anything."

Although Lapp declined to name the employe group which he said considered a strike vote, it's no secret that he and CSEA spokesmen have traded accusations in recent weeks.

Samodell said later that his group held one meeting off school grounds (at DES Hall in Chino) and "Lapp had spies there." He added that no strike vote was taken, nor was one even discussed. "But Lapp manufactured one."

Samodell charged that Lapp was "talking in riddles" and "he's leaving himself open for an unfair labor practices suit."

The employes' spokesman told the school board earlier that his group feels "intimidated" by the speed with which the policy is being proposed for adoption. He said CSEA is back at the bargaining table after mediation procedures and "feel close to ratification of a two-year contract. I don't understand why this action is necessary."

Charles Sanchez, Associated Chino Teachers' spokesman, said there is no clear evidence of need for the action. He expressed concern that Lapp would "recommend adoption of an emergency powers policy without discussing with employe negotiating teams its effects on their rights."

Trustee Augustine Tapia said he regretted a rush in approving the policy but the education of children was at stake. "Since a strike would affect the children, I'll vote for the policy."

Briggs noted the policy may be necessary, but should have been presented six months ago.

CELEBRITY ON CAMPUS Marla Gibbs, known as Florence on "The Jeffersons" television show, plays "mad libs," a word game with Renee Parham, Chris McCloud, Robert Turner and Anthony Newsome, all students at North San Antonio School in Pomona.

TV's 'The Jeffersons' cast member visits North San Antonio school

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Actress Marla Gibbs, popularly known as Florence on the television cast of "The Jeffersons," captured the love and adoration of young hearts Tuesday at North San Antonio School in Pomona.

Miss Gibbs spent the day with the youngsters as part of her community work with the Union of God's Musicians and Artists Ascencion (UGMAA). UGMAA, a Los Angeles based organization formed several years ago, is comprised of visual and performing artists who have the mutual goal of providing alternatives for disadvantaged youth through cultural enrichment and participation.

The children were all familiar with the character of Florence and didn't hold back any feeling in their exchange with the actress. Small hands patted and tugged at her, and she showed not the slightest bit of consternation, actually seeming to revel in the contact with the youngsters. And they definitely were flying high with a celebrity in their midst.

Miss Gibbs' appearance was arranged by Tony Freer, the creative writing teacher for the cultural enrichment and language development project at North San Antonio. Freer and John Wesley, who teaches the creative dramatics of the first-year program, both felt that contact with a performer would emphasize the development of verbal language for the sake of creativity. And the fact that Miss Gibbs was so popular among the children gave her appearance an added thrust of effectiveness.

She opened her day with an assembly of upper grade students, offering a number of readings from the works of poet-playwright Langston Hughes, the Pan African People's Arkestra and UGMAA. During the question and answer session, hands shot up all over the room as inquiring minds and curious voices explored the intricacies of the world of television.

The exchange was humorous and lively; the words were funny and wise.

"How much do you get paid?" shouted one boy.

"Not enough not to want a raise," she quipped.

She gave them a formula for success in show business: "Work hard, learn in school, speak well and do well in math so you can count your money."

The Head Start children gathered around her after a somersault session on the outside lawn. The little ones sat around the floor before her, telling her about their winter colds, happy times, somersaults and little sisters. Naturally, they're sitting in the "conversation corner."

The time on the playground created enthusiasm and excitement to the maximum degree, with children literally creating a circle of love with their bodies as they crowded to touch and talk. Mad lib games stimulated the mind of several classroom representatives as she huddled with them in the wee world of children.

One little boy walked by, unaware that a television performer was on campus and lost in his own daydream. He suddenly stopped, turned, smiled and dippled as he recognized her.

"Hi, Florence," he shrugged, asking for an autograph. And Miss Gibbs responded with charm and sent him into a flurry of blushing.

It was quite a day for both Miss Gibbs and the children at North San Antonio School. A good day.

Pomona council's massage ordinance upsetting owners

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

After years of legal warfare between the city and massage parlors in Pomona, the city may have finally come up with a simple but devastatingly effective strategem for winning the conflict.

At least so say the massage parlor owners, who once again find themselves aroused in anger and on their way to court in another attempt to keep their doors open day and night.

Last month the City Council approved an ordinance restricting the hours of operation for massage parlors from 7 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. daily.

The massage parlor owners say the ordinance, if enforced, will drive them to the edge of bankruptcy.

That claim is based on the not entirely surprising revelation that most of their customers prefer body rubs during late night hours.

In a lawsuit seeking a court injunction blocking enforcement of the ordinance, attorney George Grove (no relation to City Council member Georgia Grove) states that the most productive hours of operation for the businesses is 9 p.m. to 7 a.m.

Grove, representing the owners of the Swedish Salon and Pomona Valley Health Spa, charges the ordinance is unconstitutional and illegal.

He has secured a temporary injunction barring the city from enforcing the ordinance pending a hearing on the lawsuit April 5 in Judge Carlos Teran's Superior Courtroom.

City Attorney Patrick Sampson said he is confident the city is on solid ground legally in establishing "reasonable" hours of operation for massage parlors.

In fact, he said, the city ordinance was patterned after the California Administrative Code regulating the hours of operation for schools of massage.

If upheld by the court, the ordinance would apply to the businesses represented by Grove and the other remaining massage parlor in Pomona, Athenas.

Sampson said the ordinance is allowable under a new government code amendment that went into effect in January.

"It expressly allows regulation of massage parlor hours," said Sampson.

Sampson cited bars and taverns as an example of other types of businesses where the hours of operation are limited.

Supervisors reluctant in approving additional superior court judges

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A request for 34 Superior Court judges in Los Angeles County, including two or three in Pomona, ran into a buzzsaw Tuesday before the county Board of Supervisors.

The request was presented to the board by William P. Hogoboom, presiding judge of the Superior Court, who warned that unless more judges were appointed this year civil courts "may have to be closed next year" due to the shortage.

But Supervisor Kenneth Hahn charged the courts were not only being run inefficiently, they were ready for a major overhaul.

"Year after year this board has been rolling over and playing dead when the judges have asked us for more personnel and more courtrooms," he declared. "This has proved to be a bandaid approach. The time is ripe now for a change."

Hahn advocated the establishment of one trial court, rather than the present two, and the consolidation of judicial services. He also called on the county's 18,000 attorneys to donate one day of work every 18 months for arbitration to help clean up the civil calendar.

He said 90 per cent of the pending civil cases could be settled through the use of an arbitration board composed of attorneys.

The presiding judge came before the board to gain support for a state bill that would add 34 Superior Court judges to the county's list of 171.

He said establishment of the 34 courts would cost a total of $3.9 million, of which $3.5 million would come from the state.

Hogoboom said that unless the additional judges are appointed, all of the county's Superior Court judges may be forced to handle criminal and juvenile matters.

This meant, he explained, that the civil calendar backlog — already two years behind — would come to a halt.

The judge said he already has appointed a panel of jurists to consider reforms to the system and to make recommendations to the state legislature by June.

Saving an acre foot of water? What's that?

If the consumers of the Walnut Valley Water District can voluntarily cut their water use by 10 per cent, they'll save approximately 2.3 acre feet of the increasingly scarce substance a day, district officials say.

So, what's an acre foot?

Picture a large rectangular lake, one foot deep, 66 feet wide and 660 feet long. That's an acre foot of water — 326,000 gallons, enough to sustain a family of five for a year.

Within the 326,000 gallons, there are 1.3 million quarts, 2.6 million pints, 5.2 million cups, 83.5 million tablespoons and 250.4 million teaspoons.

If you were to drink an eight ounce glass of water every 15 minutes, it would take you slightly more than 61 years to drink the lake dry.

Put another way, an acre foot is enough for 13,400 regular showers or 81,500 Navy showers. It could also wash some 652,000 pairs of hands and provide 9,000 luxurious baths in less water-short times.

By following water conservation guidelines, you could use an acre foot to shave 326,000 times, brush your teeth 652,000 times, wash 65,200 batches of dishes, do 12,000 loads of laundry and flush the toilet 81,000 times.

An equal amount of whipped cream would bury four million pieces of strawberry shortcake. It could be frozen into a three-foot wide, one-inch thick strip for use in a 37-mile sled ride.

Perhaps most importantly, you can take the ice cubes you froze out of the acre foot and pour yourself about 14 million stiff drinks.

FBI's spring clean-out

It will be like old home week at FBI headquarters in Washington come May 2. The first of two 200-man task forces of field agents will arrive to begin a six-month, multimillion-dollar effort to dig the bureau out of an avalanche of paperwork generated by the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts (FOIPA).

Even with an increase of the bureau's FOIPA staff from eight to 375 since 1974 and the logging of 20,063 hours of overtime through last August, "we haven't been able to bail out the boat fast enough to keep pace with the massive waves of requests," says FBI director Clarence M. Kelley.

Well, if the Smithsonian Institution is the nation's attic, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has to be the nation's wastebasket — except that most people empty their wastebaskets periodically. While the vaster proportion of the FBI's bulging store of records is, one trusts, useful and necessarily classified information, a lot of it is so much junk that should never have been collected in the first place.

At any rate, the preponderance of FOIPA requests apparently has been coming from people who at one time or another have been involved in anti-Vietnam or similar unpopular activities and who are curious to know just what the FBI has on them in its files. A number of them have complained that the materials they received were heavily censored or so blotted or smeared as to be illegible.

The FBI would be doing itself and the country a favor if it would just bundle up this kind of stuff in toto and dispatch it to the requester with a note saying, "Please, please, don't send this back."

The bureau will never miss it. As Kelley points out, each day 8,000 I agents throughout the nation are recording the results of their investigations, thus generating plenty of new records for future Freedom of Information requests.

Censorship by any name

Despite a campaign by various evangelic.. religious groups, the National Broadcasting Company says it is going ahead with plans to show a six-hour television film, "Jesus of Nazareth," on Palm Sunday and Easter Sunday.

In the face of a threatened boycott of its products, however, General Motors has decided that commercial sponsorship of a program of this nature would be "inappropriate."

What seems to have inspired the protests were remarks by the film's director, noted Italian moviemaker Franco Zeffirelli, to the effect that in the movie he attempted to portray the human Jesus rather than the divine Christ.

We wonder how many of those people who are roundly condemning a movie they have never seen — a movie, incidentally, whose consultants included the Archbishop of Canterbury and representatives of the Vatican and which dozens of religious authorities in Europe have praised highly — are aware of how closely their actions parallel those of the members of a Black Muslim sect who terrorized Washington, D.C., only a couple of weeks ago.

It will be recalled that one of the terrorists' demands was a ban on the showing of a movie on the life of Mohammed — a movie they had never seen, either.

Now, of course, there is a vast and fundamental difference between a letter-writing campaign or a boycott and holding people hostage and threatening to kill them. The one is an entirely legitimate exercise of the power of the pen or of the purse; the other is simply a crime.

Yet at bottom, both are attempts by one group of people to dictate what all other people may see.

However fervently those people who have protested to NBC may believe what they believe, however offended they may be at the mere thought of a film on television which may in some ways be contrary to their beliefs, this kind of censorship has always been out of bounds in the United States.

Thoughts

My soul thirsts for God, for the living God. When shall I come and behold the face of God? My tears have been my food day and night, while men say to me continually, "Where is your God" — Psalm 42:2-3.

"How narrow out souls become when absorbed in any present good or ill! It is only the thought of the future that makes them great." — Jean Paul Richter, German author.

Woe is me because of my hurt! My wound is grievous. But I said, "Truly this is an affliction, and I must bear it." — Jeremiah 10:19.

"Most of the grand truths of God have to be learned by trouble; they must be burned into us by the hot iron by affliction, otherwise we shall not truly receive them." — Charles H. Spurgeon, English clergyman.

Congressional raise criticized

Dear Editor:

There is a strong ground swell of bitterness on the part of many valley people toward Congress and its willingness to take substantial pay increases and yet resist a reasonable code of ethical conduct. They were quite willing to put restraints upon the presidency but have been reluctant to do the same for themselves.

To the man on the street or the woman trying to deal with zooming commodity costs all this adds up to is a congressional ego trip or foul play. It appears more callous in view of the President's efforts to bring the federal operation out of the never-never land of the Washington myth and closer to the reality of life as people in the states live it.

It is hard for people on fixed incomes and salaries under $10,000 to feel sympathy for those already getting $46,000 plus. Washington costs are high but so are those in California. (Our cost of living increases were the highest in the nation last month.) There is not much stretch in a budget of $8,000 for a family of four. If elected officials wish to earn the right to be called statesmen, they should be able to differentiate between times to follow presidential leadership and times to exert some of their own. There were many congressmen who wanted to skip the raise, but did not generate sufficiently strong leadership to get it to a vote.

Since they allowed the raises to become activated, the least they can do is to move in quickly on formulating a firm code of conduct for federal employes. Perhaps the pay raise coupled with a strong code will save the taxpayers money in the long run, for it will cut out the unholy alliances with special interests which have siphoned off millions of money from legitimate legal taxpayers' "people programs" and have padded the pockets of special interests and unscrupulous politicians.

What should a good code include? Certainly, no "moonlighting!" Being a congressman is a full-time job. Moreover, as a public servant, paid by tax dollars, an elected official should expect to accept speaking engagements "for free." The code should outlaw office slush funds that have proven to be highly corruptible. The franking privilege should not be used to mail personally printed data. Full disclosure of financial holdings is basic as well as a strict ban on gifts from lobbyists. Finally, tough enforcement with new procedures for handling complaints and violations will be needed.

If Congress does not get on quickly with cleaning up its own backyard and then move on to needed legislation on international and people problems, we can only assume we have made poor choices at the polls. If that is so, heaven help us 'till the next election.

Fishbait tells all in book

WASHINGTON — Shortly before Richard Nixon was forced to resign from the presidency, he came upon the familiar sight of William "Fishbait" Miller faithfully guarding the door of the House of Representatives. "Fishbait, how's your voice today?" the agitated Nixon asked the doorkeeper. "Is your throat sore? Is it hurting any?"

Suddenly, the beleaguered president unaccountably lunged at Fishbait. "He grabbed me by the throat and was choking me," Fishbait recalls. "I gasped for breath . . . . So I wrenched myself away . . . . The poor guy really got rid of a little hostility at my expense."

This is just one of the revealing tales of life, love and liaisons on Capitol Hill as chronicled by the frog-throated former House doorkeeper. We have obtained a bootleg copy of the raw galleys of his autobiography, "Fishbait," ghostwritten with Frances Spatz Leighton. The pages are filled with spicy recollections of the colorful Fishbait's 42 years in the Capitol. For example:

— In 1948, when Nixon was a Congressman, he took a junket by boat to Panama, although he knew the famous "pumpkin papers" that eventually destroyed Alger Hiss were about to turn up. The cagey future president thus reaped front page publicity when the Coast Guard arranged a dramatic sea-air lift to get him back to Washington for the hearings.

—The late Sen. Huey "Kingfish" Long, D-La., who was onced lambasted as a "damned, thieving s.o.b." by a courtly colleague, had a unique way of getting even with his Senate adversaries. In the Senate restroom, "he pretended to miss his mark in the urinal and hit another senator with whom he'd been having words . . . "

— Several Congressmen may want to wreak similar revenge on Fishbait when they finish reading his book. After Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., was divorced from his wife Anita, says Fishbait, she still loyally trooped to the Family Section of the House Gallery to hear him speak. Ullman spotted her there one day and heartlessly ordered Fishbait to kick her out. Ullman declined to comment to us on the incident.

— Nixon and Herbert Hoover were the only presidents whose dogs wouldn't come running when they were called. But ex-President Jerry Ford sometimes had his dog run into the office so he could change the subject and graciously break up a long interview.

— Rep. Andy Jacobs, D-Ind., was horrified when his 156-pound dog, "C-5," bit a political ally, Rep. James Symington, D-Mo. Several years later, Symington visited Jacobs with some gift-wrapped cheese to placate the dog. C-5 promptly bit him again.

— Fishbait has some kind words for former presidents. He was grateful to Lyndon Johnson for personally inviting Fishbait's black assistant, Carl Sommers, to the signing of the Civil Rights act. He warmly recalls Ford as a frugal Congressman who used all his pencils down to tiny stubs.

—Even Nixon, who sometimes maligned him, once had a miniature door built as a birthday present to Fishbait.

Fishbait appears to have been a paragon of sexual virtue himself, but he tells some torrid tales about congressmen who were loving when they should have been legislating.

— As an unmarried Congressman and Senator, says Fishbait, John Kennedy had so much lust in his heart that he entertained some of his female visitors on his office floor. "I did not introduce him to any girls on the Hill when he pressed me to do so. I figured, let him get his own." In some saltier anecdotes, Fishbait recalls that JFK did just that.

— The most renowned Lothario on Capitol Hill was the late Rep. Frank Boykin, D-Ala., whose favorite decoration was a dried elephant organ which hung from his office wall. The giant 275-pound Congressman often left the House floor for a "sex break . . . His specialty was to have two pretty girls in bed with him at the same time "Boykin's campaign slogan, appropriately, was "Everything is made for love."

— Until Liz Ray told the world that she was his publicly subsidized mistress, Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, would greet "pretty young things" by saying, "Hi, I'm Dr. Wayne Hays, D.D. — Doctor of the Divan," recalls Fishbait. But Hays called the doorkeeper "Mister Potato Head."

— After Liz Ray confessed to her amorous adventures, Speaker Carl Albert and others with secret, unnumbered hideaway offices quickly began retrieving keys from their friends who used them for boozing and blondes. Albert's own hideaway was called the "Board of Education Room."

Our Man in Washington

Labor's plans are scuttled

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Writer

WASHINGTON — Congress delivered a stiff shot to the chin of organized labor last week and the White House followed with a blow of its own that could prove critical.

The House of Representatives' stunning rejection (217-205) of common site picketing combined with the Carter administration's surprising decision to seek only a nominal minimum wage increase has all but scuttled labor's big plans for the 95th Congress.

The situs picketing loss was a shocking disappointment for organized labor. It brought cries of agony and outrage from supporters who, only a few days before, had boasted about controlling Congress.

The situs issue provided enough agony to spread around and more than a little could be found on Capitol Hill, both before and after the vote.

Organized labor poured millions of dollars into 1976 campaigns and there were a significant number of congressmen, most of them Democrats, who had to buck those strong labor ties to vote against the situs bill.

The congressmen who agonized over the situs issue had only last session easily passed a similar bill, but the builders and public lobbied heavily this time around.

This measure posed an interesting (interesting if you're not caught in the middle) dilemma for the House members.

Organized labor support is considered a main ingredient of a successful political campaign and most politicians are intent on running successful campaigns.

But letters from some of their districts were running as high as 300 to 1 against the bill. Some of those who voted against situs picketing would probably have been better off politically if the bill had passed. Then they could have told the measure's opponents "I voted with you" and labor "my vote didn't hurt, your bill passed anyway."

There is no doubt most of them felt that was their way out, because until only a day or two before the vote the situs picketing bill looked like a shoo-in.

They were surprised and now they must go back to their district and the union criticism. A few years ago that might have been catastrophic, but it is apparent the unions don't wield the power they once did, otherwise they would have swayed enough votes to pass their pet bill.

Now, at least in Washington, labor unions will have to reassess their programs. The common situs vote makes it clear they can't have their way without a fight.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Just to make certain I was aware of the fact, I recently received a pathetic letter from the company that rents me my water softener sadly informing me that the cost of everything is going up, up, up. By the time I reached the third paragraph my worst fears were verified — so was my water softener rental fee! In a way, however, I was prepared for the shock. That was perhaps the 20th letter I have received over the past year which first pointed out the economic facts of life and then lowered the boom. Oh well, I suppose that's the way business strategy operates these days. As the undertakers say, "Sell them while the tears are hot." So first the price raisers make us cry and then they give us the price prod. Actually, if all the customer tears shed because of such bad news could be recycled, the city of Pomona might not now be threatening us with a surcharge if we don't cut our water consumption 10 per cent. — But back to all those letters which keep me so well informed about rising costs. Some day no doubt they will cease arriving. But in the meantime — Well, one thing for sure, this is going to be one of the best documented inflationary periods in the history of the United States.

Split roll assessments

By EARL G. WATERS

The California Taxpayers Association, which generally does good work especially in the field of taxation, has published "an evaluation" of split property assessment rolls as they currently exist in the U.S. The issue is of great importance to all Californians as a number of measures proposing various sorts of splits are pending before the current legislature.

Those proposals are part of at least 40 different bills seeking tax relief for homeowners. While it is yet too early to predict precisely what the legislature will do, it is almost a certainty that it will do something. For the real threat of initiative action to bring about changes in property taxation stares them in the face.

Those at Cal-Tax are well aware of the pressures on the legislature for property tax reform and privately view the split assessment roll as inevitable. But their recent bulletin obviously seeks to discourage that method of homeowner relief. The major contention against split assessments is that it leads to a proliferation of splits.

In advancing that argument Cal-Tax lists eight states which have instituted split rolls as well as Cook County, Illinois. They cite Minnesota, where it first began in 1913 as "unique" in that so many different classifications have developed over the years.

Emphasis is also made in the bulletin between tax relief and tax shifts. Although not making specific recommendations, Cal-Tax points a way by posing suggestive questions.

"Does it offer permanent property tax relief through limitation on local government spending?" "Does it simply redistribute individual property taxes to other taxes paid by individuals such as personal income and sales taxes?" These are among the questions asked of current bills under consideration.

What the public should understand about property taxes and the debates over split assessments, which would apply a lesser tax rate to owner occupied residences than other property, is that California already has a split roll system. Mobile homes, boats, rail cars, and airplanes are taxed different from other property. Agricultural land under the Land Conservation Act is treated differently than other property. Senior citizens, homeowners exemption and business inventory exemptions mark other variations. Property held by utilities is assessed apart from all other property. Separate assessment rates for residential property would not then be any precedent.

It would however be a shift but the truth is that unless, as Cal-Tax, Gov. Jerry Brown and others have advocated, limitations are put upon local government spending, any tax "reform" will necessarily be nothing more than a shift.

Cal-Tax argues that "a split-roll can result in higher costs for consumer goods and services." That is true but any tax increase has that effect.

Probably the strongest argument against split rolls, which would tend to immunize homeowners from property tax increases, is that it might soften voter resistance to tax overrides, bond issues and other ballot measures which increase property taxes. That there is a rub there is undeniable. Of course the homeowners have long complained about the fact non-property owners are permitted to vote on property tax issues with no stake in the additional costs to the homeowners. This is especially true in areas dominated by public housing tenants where even the rent doesn't reflect the increased taxes.

Ann Landers

You blew it, Ann, nurse says

Dear Ann Landers: I couldn't believe your answer to that nurse who complained about male patients grabbing her every time she went near a bed. She said she was speaking not only for herself but for all practical, vocational, and registered nurses.

Your suggestion, "Check yourself out — you must be sending some sort of signals," was evidence that you have never been a nurse. Your attitude was shocking, especially when you asked, "What do you look like, anyway?"

I'm a nurse, 52 years old, and here's what I look like: I'm 5 feet 3 and I weigh 160 pounds. My mother always said I was "plain-looking but sweet." The truth is I am homely — have been all my life — but it never bothered me. I knew I'd never make in on my looks so I developed other qualities.

The point is this: I still get grabbed at plenty by male patients. And if it happens to ME you can imagine what the tall, thin blonds have to put up with. Take it back, Ann. You blew it. —"The Fat One."

Dear One: Here's more for your side.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a nurse in a teaching hospital connected with Harvard Medical School (Peter Bent Brigham). I have seen YOU, but you have never seen me.

Your response to the "grabbed at" nurse was appalling. I have heard of male chauvinists, but female male chauvenists are something else. And YOU — of all people! Just sign me — Very Disappointed In Our Ann

Dear Very: So am I. Please read on:

Dear Ann Landers: I was burned up at your answer to the nurse who said too many male patients think back-rubs are "play time" and treat the nurses and aides like Playboy bunnies.

I worked as an aide until my ninth month of pregnancy. Although I looked like a blimp, I was still propositioned, grabbed at, and was recipient of many obscene suggestions. The "signals" I was sending out were "HANDS OFF," but it didn't make one particle of difference. So please think that one over again. — Mary Lou

Dear Mary Lou: I have — and I apologize to all the nurses — vocational, practical and registered — all aides, the Grey Ladies, the Candy-Stripers, the cleaning women, and female window-washers who work in hospitals. Mea culpa.

Dear Ann Landers: I am only 14, but my problem bothers me as much as some of the adults' problems bother them, so will you please help?

Mom and Dad were divorced when I was eight years old. She remarried two years later. I go by my dad's name which is, of course, different from my mom's.

Mom doesn't like it when my friends come over and call her by her old name. When she corrects them her voice has a sharp edge on it — like "I am NOT Mrs. Anderson, I am MRS. LONGWORTH." Then I get a dirty look from Mom (like it's my fault) and my friends get embarrassed. What can I do about this problem? — Natalie

Dear Nat: Remind your friends (just as you walk through the front door) that your mother has remarried and her name is now Mrs. Longworth. Even if you are sure they know, a little refresher won't hurt.

'Plucker' has 27 words?

Our Language man would like to know if you can find at least 27 words in the word "plucker." Ground rules: Words must have four or more letters. Proper names don't count. Spring the foregoing on the family's best speller, and see if said parth comes up with the following: Peck, perk, pluck, pule, puce, pure, puke, pucker, puck, purl, lucre, luck, lure, luce, lurk, ulcer, clue, clerk, cruel, cure, curl, cupel, kelp, ecru, reck, ruck, rule.

Men who drop out of school after the fifth grade wind up reaching their highest income levels between 35 and 44 years of age. Men who graduate either from high school or college arrive at the peak income levels between 45 and 54.

AQUARIUS

Claim is that women born under the sign of Aquarius don't fall in love any too easily, but when they fall, they fall hard. They're said not to be overly fond of housework. And the two kinds of men they like least are the fellows who are tight with their money and those suffer from that thing called the inferiority complex. Or so say the stargazers.

Researchers now have pinned down the statistic that people who go grocery shopping right after meals spend 17 per cent less than those who go shopping just before meals.

Citizens in hard water communities are said to live a little longer generally than people with soft water communities.

President Thomas Jefferson, that clever fellow, wrote his own prescription for eyeglasses.

WORKING WIVES

Used to be widely believed that most husbands, particularly in England, wanted their wives to stay at home rather than take payroll jobs. But a recent British poll blew that notion. Four out of five men queried said they definitely hoped their wives would go back to work when the youngsters grew old enough to so permit.

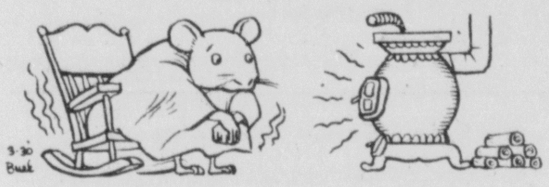
If you're seasoned sufficiently to be retired, no doubt you're a specialist in something. Like chess. Or embroidery. Or bricklaying. Or candy-making. Whatever. You might enjoy an hour or two outside the house, and pick up a little extra cash to boot, by tutoring in your speciality. Am acquainted with a woman who offers to teach engaged girls ho to make wedding dresses. In their homes. For small fees. In another instance, I used to know a stonemason who would teach you how to make an outdoor fish pond with a waterfall, providing he was not required to pick up even so much as one rock. They both ran little want ads. Did fairly well, too.

Was none other than that fashion school dean Grace Downs who said, "Where are the days when men used to admire the entire woman? If the current trend continues, we may have to breed women the way they breed chickens — either all bosom or all leg."

Some say the first critic of TV reruns was William Shakespeare who wrote: "The evil men do oft lives after them."

Dr. Miller

Her flower fading fast



DEAR DR. MILLER: Blossom, my hampster, is losing her fur. It started coming off her legs, now the only part of her that's normal is her head. I guess baldness wouldn't be so bad, I'm just afraid of her catching a cold. She's only a year and 11 months old. Could this be something she isn't getting? — A.Q.

DEAR A.Q.: Could be related to something she's already got — her (old) age. At the very least, she needs a fountain of youth. Blossom's flower's fading fast and little can be done to turn back her (biological) clock. Giving her good, nutritious food and providing her with snug, warm, draft-free quarters may be all you can do, but only a local veterinarian could tell for sure if it would be practical to do anything else.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What could cause the death of a very healthy, year-and-a-half old German shepherd? She vomited once in the afternoon, but seemed perfectly healthy after that, yet was dead the next morning when we came downstairs. There was no sign of anything wrong with her. She was just dead. She couldn't have been poisoned, she never gets out of her own back yard. What, then? — E.W.

DEAR E.W.: While accidental poisoning is unlikely under those circumstances, deliberate poisoning would have to be considered. Causes for sudden death where violence and poisoning can be ruled out, in a young, seemingly healthy animal are surprisingly numerous, ranging from a sudden, very acute infection which could cause death overnight, to a circulatory obstruction. Conjecture is fruitless.

When it's important that an answer be found, that determination (sad and difficult though it may be) must be within a few hours after death so an autopsy can be performed. (Autopsies are not always successful in revealing the cause of death, but when done soon enough. usually do.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: I need to know what happens to a young bird which is sick and left behind when all the other birds migrate. If that bird is able to get strong again, does it have any chance of finding its way by itself? In other words, doesn't a young bird which tries to migrate by itself always get lost? — G.E.

DEAR G.E.: While some species of birds are naturally better navigators than others, any migrating species has remarkable navigational skills. Many species are known to have an adequate inborn sense of migration direction.

These birds are able to reach their normal nesting area accurately without guides, or without ever having been there before.

Tell NASA to go fly a kite

Many women consider men just little boys grown up (and some not all that grown up), and history seems to bear out this notion. Early man played with bows and arrows, rode horses, sailed ships. Cowboys and Indians, cops and robbers, war — games little boys play. Then came airplanes, rockets and satellites, scientific advances without parallel, but still the sort of thing you find in your breakfast cereal box. Some years ago the Navy sent aloft a giant balloon, tall as a 12-story building, to take pictures, test radiation and all those other things 12-story balloons usually do. What circus would be complete without balloons?

Comes now the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NAUSEA) with the latest scientific plaything, a giant kite to float through space for a rendezvous with Halley's comet in 1986. (Float is not the precise word, perhaps. The kite will travel at 124,000 miles an hour.) It is not your run-of-the-vacant-lot kite, for sure. It's the size of about 81 football fields, not counting the end zones. If it were anchored to the earth, it would probably pull us out of orbit. You don't pick up kites like this at Thrifty's drug store. The price tag is $5.5 million — one to a customer. Master Charge honored.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory, the sorcerors of Pasadena, are designing this Brobdingnagian bedsheet to be folded up in a smallish parcel (if you can imagine folding 81 football fields) and carried aloft in our on-its-way space shuttle. Well up in what we call "the sky," the packaged kite will be rocketed from the shuttle, the framework will unfold like a card table and the giant sail will be stretched out. It may block our view of the sun.

What makes the solar sail sail fast enough to intercept the speeding comet is sun power, photons that shoot out of Old Sol at 186,000 miles a second. The thin sheet is coated with aluminum on the side facing the sun and painted black on the reverse. The JPL wizards guesstimate that this trickery will send the photon-impelled kite scooting through outer space at sufficient speed to rendezvous with Halley in March 1986 — nine years from this very month. The space sailer will be equipped with television cameras to record what it can about the comet's composition and origins. It should win an Oscar.

The comet was named for England's Astronomer Royal, Edmund Halley (Hal-ee) when his studies revealed that the streaking ball of methane, ammonia, dust particles and other interstellar goodies was on a Cook's tour of the gallaxy as regularly scheduled as an RTD bus. It was observed in 1066, 1468, 1531, and 1607. Haley (1656-1742) predicted its return in 1759, 1853 and 1910, and he was right. He never saw the comet himself, but he was a very smart Astronomer Royal, and his comet commentary carried great weight.

Should JPL's sunjammer get jammed, the scientists have a backup vehicle ready to come off the bench, an ion engine-propelled spaceship that is eager to go one-on-one with the comet. One way or another, we're all going to know a lot more about Halley's comet in nine years.

Since comets affect me the way earthquakes or volcanoes affect other people, I shall probably not see the comet. I plan to spend 1986 in my cellar. Leave my meals on a tray at the top of the stairs.

Dr. Lamb

Continue taking calcium

DEAR DR. Lamb — Three years ago I fell and broke my left hip and left foot. I had expert attention and am very happy to be working as usual. I teach piano and I carry a cane to be safe when I go places.

I have had more falls since the bad one and even sprained the ankle of the same foot that I broke. I think I am fortunate not to have broken more bones.

The doctor discovered that I have soft bones and he prescribed four calcium tablets to be taken daily for the rest of my life. I am 78.

My inquiry is this, have I taken the calcium tablets long enough not to be more safe in regard to broken bones? Is it all right to take two tablets at the same time? I sometimes realize that I have forgotten to take all four tablets.

DEAR READER — I am glad you have done so well and that you are still active.

You will need to keep on taking those calcium pills that your doctor gave you. He knows that as long as you keep taking calcium it will help decrease the loss of calcium from your bones, a condition that we call osteoporosis. The problem is common in women after the menopause and there is a continual loss of bone substance. A large percentage of broken hips and other fractures are caused by "brittle bones" from osteoporosis.

You need to take about a gram of calcium a day. To help you understand osteoporosis better and why you need to keep taking the calcium I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-10, osteoporosis: Bone Softening. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. People can help prevent this problem or decrease its severity by being sure they get enough calcium in their diet. The "dowager's hump" is only part of the disease. Frequent fractures with minimal damage is the other important problem.

You didn't say why you are having so much trouble with your balance. You need to find out what you can do to prevent having more falls.

That problem may be related to your eyesight or you may have a disturbance in your balance mechanism.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've been told that gum chewing is dangerous and can cause the jaw to move out of place. Can you give me the straight facts about gum chewing. I chew about 10 pieces of gum a day so as to keep from eating in between meals. Is this too much or too harmful?

DEAR READER — No, anything like a normal chewing mechanism will not cause you to dislocate the jaw.

The only real harm is the sugar content. A constant source of sugar in the mouth may increase your chances of having caveties.

The other problem is swallowing air. This can cause air or gas accumulation in the digestive system and makes some people uncomfortable. If you are not having this problem you can forget that.

Other than these two possible problems it really doesn't make any difference how much gum you chew.

(Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in this column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.)

For Thursday, March 31, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Little things get your attention today, but you may let the big one get away.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have a tendency today to blow domestic issues way out of proportion. It may not be a problem, although it IS potentially dangerous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Let others sing your praises today if they are to be sung. The melody will end on a discordant note if you try to do it yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your real friends will like you today for what you are, not for what you have. Don't put on airs in order to impress people.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be sure your goals are worth the effort today. You could be chasing a rainbow with a pot of fool's gold at the end.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could get a confidential tip today that could make or save you money. Button your lip or you'll alienate your source.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Friends will go to bat for you today — to a limited extent. You'll encounter some reluctance if your needs are financial or material.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your progress could be retarded today by a cohort who talks a good game. Choose allies who'll work at least as hard as you do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Deals that you consummate over a luncheon or dinner may be as fleeting as your appetite. Be wary of too-lavish promises.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Venturing into fields you know little about could cost you a pretty penny today. Play ball only on your home field.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You reason situations out very well today, but you may foolishly ignore your own counsel. Don't act in opposition to your inborn logic.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, you could overlook the big score. Study both the forest and the individual trees.

Your Birthday, March 31, 1977

Material opportunities should be presented to you abundantly this year. There's a strong possibility, however, your spending will keep pace with earnings.

Spade bid backfires for South

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

It has been said many times that crime doesn't pay. We stand by that adage, but must point out that a little misdirection may succeed when straightforward bidding won't.

South knew his hand was well in the slam range after North jumped to three hearts.

But he didn't want to go right into Blackwood. He was looking at three little spades and wouldn't know what to do if North showed just one ace in response. So, South decided to try a little misdirection and bid three spades.

North signed off at four hearts, but now South went into Blackwood and bid six with one ace missing.

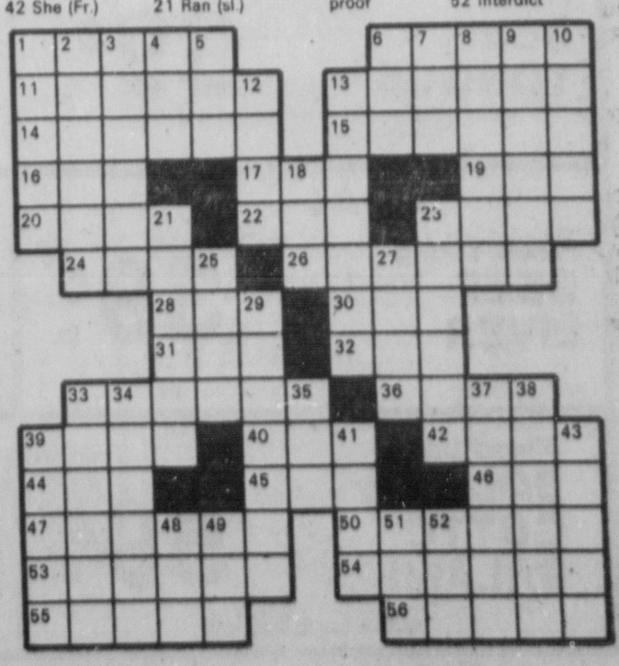
This time crime did not pay at all. West was one of those people from Missouri. He decided not to believe South's three spade bid and led a spade up to his partner's ace. Back came the suit and South had paid a 100-point fine for speeding.

Ask the Jacobys

A Carolina reader wants to know the correct bid with:
♠ A K 3 2 ♥ A K J 5 2 ♦ 8 ♣ 7 6 5
after the bidding has gone one club — pass-one diamond.

The correct bid is to double. This is a takeout double and asks partner to bid. You are well prepared for a heart or spade response.



What's going on around here

Boys Republic benefit

More than 100,000 items will be offered in the semi-annual "World's Largest Rummage Sale" April 2 in Pasadena benefitting Boys Republic, Chino.

The sale is sponsored by the Auxiliary of Boys Republic and is held in the Exhibition Hall of the Pasadena Conference Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is free and parking is available in the center for $1, all day.

Easter crafts

Easter crafts ranging from cards and bookmarks to bunny baskets will be among the projects taught by instructor Ruth Pauline Saturday at the Chino library.

Children in kindergarten through sixth grades are invited to register for one of the half-hour sessions to start at 1:30 p.m. and conclude with the 4 to 4:30 p.m. session for fifth and sixth graders. All materials for the program are provided free of charge to participants.

Individuals may call 628-1604 to register.

Chino recreation

Spring recreation activities and classes have been planned by the Chino Recreation and Parks Department, with a starting date of April 11.

Youth classes include dance and acrobatics, tiny tot preschool, recreation baton and majorette corps, Mexican folk dance, tennis and karate. Adult activities include cake decorating, women's exercise, belly dance, macrame, quilting, body conditioning/self defense for women, dog obedience, dog handling, and sewing.

Among new classes offered are Hawaiian-Tahitian dance, halter and conformation (introduction to horsemanship), ceramics, sculpture, and gourmet cooking on a budget. A tennis league is a new addition, allowing persons who already have the ability a chance to play.

Most classes are run on a 10-week basis. Registration is now being taken at the recreation department office, 13219 Central Ave. Information on activities may be obtained by calling the office at 627-7344.

Rotary speaker

Joseph Gendron, editor of the Progress Bulletin, will discuss the newspaper's history at the La Verne Rotary Club's luncheon program Thursday at the Castaway Restaurant.

The program will include slides of some of the newspaper's early editions.

Speech winners

Joe Steele, a member of the Ontario-Upland Toastmasters Club, won the international section of the organization's valley portion of a speech contest.

Placing second in this category was Rudy Rangel, a member of the Pomona "Downtowners" Club. Wayne Adams, a member of the Pomona "Downtowners" Club, won the "tall tale" section, with Shaef Gilliland of the Ontario-Upland club placing second.

Winners in the international portion will compete in district and regional phases, with a chance to compete in the finals to be held in Ontario, Canada, later this year.

The valley speech contest, hosted by the Ontario-Upland club, was held at the Holiday Inn in Ontario.

Square dancers

The Pomona Bachelor 'n Bachelorettes square dance group will hold its sixth anniversary dance Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Chaffey College.

Mike Seastrom will be calling. For more information, persons may phone 984-8404.

Parental education

NEW YORK (AP) — A program designed for the parents of Jewish adolescents, the first of its kind in the United States, has been launched by the Commission on Jewish Education of the United Synagogue of America.

The program, "Parent Education for Parents of Jewish adolescents," aims to help parents of adolescent children cope with their special concerns within a framework of Judaic religious values.

By Downtown Merchants Association

Three major activities planned in Ontario

The Ontario Downtown Merchants Association has three major public relations and promotional activities on the burner.

The executive board and membership have approved the Ontario Outdoor Recreation and Hobby Show for April 23; the All-Student Art Show and Sale for May 7; and a week of Hawaiian festivities June 6-11.

The hobby show will be in conjunction with the Ontario Recreation Department which had formerly been the sole sponsor of the activity at John Galvin Park. This year the affair will be held in the Euclid Avenue parkway between Transit and G streets.

McDonald's has loaned the services of six hostesses and three booths for the association's reception and display area; and the Armed Forces Services Office will supply representatives of the Air Force, Army, Marine Corps, and Navy to help set up booths and other apparatus.

In years past, the displays have featured fire and crime prevention, fly casting, scuba diving, bicycles, motor homes, motorcycles, scouting, miniature remote controlled automobiles and numerous other hobbies and special organization activities.

During the hobby show, C and D streets adjoining Euclid Avenue will be closed for one block for miniature car racing. A skate board demonstration is also in the planning stage.

Councilman Homer Briggs is serving as chairman of the hobby show committee and is assisted by Marla Cobb of the Ontario Recreation Department and Merry Bocanegra of the Ontario Downtown Merchants Association.

The all-student art show is being planned and coordinated with Chaffey Union High School District. It will feature the works of the students at Montclair, Ontario, Chaffey, Alta Loma and Upland high schools and several junior high schools in the Ontario-Montclair School District.

The art show and sale will be held on the same day as the tri-county Cinco de Mayo parade down Euclid Ave. The merchants group and the Inland Empire Cinco de Mayo Committee are working together to coordinate the two events.

Hawaiian Days will be part of the festivities planned around the inauguration of a direct flight from Ontario International Airport to the Hawaiian Islands by United Airlines.

The business group agreed to offer round-trip tickets for two and $100 expense money as a promotional activity for the week-long affair.

Joyce Molinaro, president of the Ontario Downtown Merchants Assocation, pointed out that the Hawaiian promotion "is really something to get on the bandwagon for. There will be a lot of advertising done in Ontario and about Ontario in connection with this new flight service."

At least 30 stores along and adjacent to Euclid Avenue will have the entry applications for the Hawaii prize. No purchase is necessary.

During the week of June 6-11, merchants and their employes along Euclid and adjacent downtown streets will dress up in traditional Hawaiian costumes and decorate businesses in the island theme. The event will culminate on June 11 with a professional Hawaiian show provided by United Airlines. The show will be held on the Euclid Avenue parkway for all valley residents.

Omnitrans to get $350,000 loan

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors has agreed to lend $350,000 to Omnitrans to help see the countywide rapid transit service through a serious cash-flow problem.

The $350,000 was sought to alleviate short-term money problems the service was experiencing through delays in funding from the federal government for buses already purchased.

The loan was also needed to help with the repayment of a $350,000 loan the City of San Bernardino had advanced Omnitrans earlier this year.

Under the county loan terms, the couny will give Omnitrans $350,000 for a 60-day period. The loan repayment to the City of San Bernardino will be delayed until alternative arrangements can be finalized.

County Administrative Officer Earl Goodwin informed the board that a special meeting of the Omnitrans board of directors would be held this week in an attempt to solve the short-term financial problems.

County officials are suggesting a one-time assessment be charged to all Omnitrans members. The special assessment would total about $1,748,000 and would provide the necessary funds to solve the cash-flow problems.

On March 9, Omnitrans had requested the county loan it $800,000. But the request was scaled down to the $350,000.

"There is an immediate cash flow need," said a Omnitrans representative. Any further delay by the county would cause severe financial problems, he added.

The Omnitrans executive said $1.7 million would be needed to get the transit service through April, May and June. In July, he added, the financial picture will improve due to the receipt of federal funds.

At present, the county assumes about 40 per cent of Omnitrans' operating costs. The City of San Bernardino provides 25 per cent of the support, and member cities pay the rest.

Hospital honors employes

San Antonio Community Hospital honored employes who have contributed to the capital building fund through payroll deductions and cash donations.

Officials said $124,098 has been pledged since the initial kickoff of the employes building fund drive in May, 1975.

Jack Berens, director of pharmacy, is chairman of the employe drive. A permanent plaque, recognizing the employes for their support of the building fund, is on display in the hospital's outpatient lobby. In addition, a tile to reflect that the hospital's employes as a group have so far contributed $48,000 will be placed on the permanent donor recognition board, located in the main lobby.

The department chairmen are Hilda Jayka, Eleanor Hinman, Mary Anderson, Donna Saunders, Betty Karch, Joe Belanger, Rachel Caindec, Helen Morgan, Frances Fiske, Frank Thomas, Tim Masser, Clara Ruddle, Joanne Tarbell, Rosemary Bramblett, Helen Boggess, Margaret Lenz, Doris Harrelson, Freddie Slef, Bea Anderson and Susan Prossio.

3 events scheduled in S.D.

Three special events — a frisbee tournament, crafts day and a trip to Magic Mountain — will be sponsored by the San Dimas Recreation Department next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The frisbee tournament will be Tuesday at Ekstrand School and Marchant Park. Check-in is at 1 p.m. with the competition starting at 1:30.

A crafts day will be at the Stanley Plummer Community Building Wednesday at 11 a.m.

Those wanting to join the Magic Mountain excursion should be at City Hall on April 7 at 9 a.m., when a bus is scheduled to leave for the park. Fee for the trip is $6 for children ages 8 to 12, and $7 for those 13 to 15. It includes admission, transportation and unlimited attractions.

Further information may be obtained by calling 599-6713, ext. 40.

Claremont dog license fees go up

The issue of licensing cats was discussed briefly at the Claremont City Council meeting when the council approved the hiking of dog license fees beginning July 1.

"I wish we could license cats," Mayor Bertye Smith told Stan Larson, board chairman of the Pomona Valley Humane Society.

"I do, too," replied Larson, "but cats are wild animals, and it is hard to discuss licenses with them. In fact, some owners are reluctant to approach them while they feed them."

The humane society requested approval to increase dog license fees from $4 to $5 for spayed or neutered animals and from $8 to $10 for animals not spayed nor neutered.

Larson explained that raising fees is not the ideal way to raise money, "but it is the only way we can help close the gap in our operating budget."

Larson called the new fee schedule "acceptable. This will not increase our services, but will guarantee an animal control program during 1977-78."

Busway to L.A. saving time in the morning

Carpoolers using the busway on the San Bernardino Freeway have been saving up to 13 minutes on their morning trips into Los Angeles, according to a recent report by the California Department of Transportation.

They have been saving up to five minutes on the eastbound trip in the afternoon, the report states.

Use of the busway has grown from an initial 600 to about 800 vehicles in the peak direction during the hours carpools may use the facility.

Since October 25, vehicles containing three or more people have been using a seven mile stretch of the busway from 6 to 10 a.m. and 3 to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday. Prior to that, only buses were allowed to use it.

The stretch currently open to carpools extends from Santa Anita Ave. in El Monte to the Long Beach Freeway. Caltrans is working with local officials to have the remaining four miles, from the Long Beach Freeway to Mission Road in downtown Los Angeles, for carpool use by June.

Opening the busway to carpools has apparently had little effect on bus ridership. About 16,000 passengers a day had been riding the bus. This figure is actually up slightly now, to a little over 17,000 a day.

Literary magazine to be published first time at Upland High

Students, teachers, and administrators at Upland High School look forward to their school's first literary magazine sometime in May.

The magazine's staff and theme, "Express Yourself," were decided last January. Along with the regular problems faced with forming a magazine, the staff also must determine the publication's size, theme and general appearance.

"This gives us a real challenge," said John Fleck, literary editor. "Because it's the first time Upland High had done anything like this. We have license to the shape, layout, and content."

Although money is allocated to the magazine for publication, the staff has been trying to find ways of raising extra monies. "Because of rising printing costs and the price of paper, additional funding is necessary," said Fleck. Community organizations are being contacted as probable sponsors.

Plays, short stories, poetry and art work created by the staff and other students at Upland will be included in the puplication.

BASH: a fund-raiser by St. Lucy's club

The Dad's Club of St. Lucy's Prior High School in Glendora is sponsoring a fund-raising project for the school called BASH (Building a Scholastic Heritage).

BASH is a gala dinner party with a silent and oral auction at the Pasadena Hilton on May 6, beginning at 6 p.m. in the International Ballroom.

Ed Nelson, movie and T.V. actor, will be the master of ceremonies. Johnnie Ray, Sue Ann Langdon and other celebrities will participate.

St. Lucy's students, parents and friends are seliciting items and services for the auctions. Among the items to be auctioned are Kirrim Jabbar's goggles, a pair of Pat Boone's buck shoes, a gold key chain bearing a comedians famous ski-nose profile plus antiques, furniture, home furnishings, and services.

All gifts are welcome and all are fully tax deductible. Anyone wishing to contribute to this project, may call (213) 963-0017 or (213) 335-1682. Pick up service is available.

The BASH program will benefit the development fund of St. Lucy's Priory High School, a college preparatory high school for young women staffed by the Benedictine Sisters of Glendora.

The organizing committee, under the leadership of Sister Theresa, includes Herb Naish, Paul Diemert and Bob Frykke.

Mexican-American couples are sought for counsel study

Mexican-American couples interested in being counseled on family, marriage, financial or other matters are being sought to participate in a study financed by a federal grant.

Juan Mejia, a doctoral candidate at the University of Utah psychology department, is conducting a survey on counseling methods for these couples under a National Institute of Mental Health grant.

Among the West Coast cities Mejia is working in is Pomona, where he has enlisted cooperation of Mrs. Delores Garcia Wright at Pomona Valley Mental Health Center.

Mejia said all counseling sessions would be confidential, but participating couples will be asked for permission to tape some of the sessions. Couples will also be asked to fill in questionnaires before and after the six sessions specified for the research.

He said that traditionally, couples from this ethnic background are reluctant to seek counseling. The study will attempt to determine methods in which professional counselors can better serve their clients.

Couples wishing additional information may call Mrs. Wright at 623-6131, or Mejia, toll free, at (800) 453-5653, ext. 5675.

Learning problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Of the 18 million children in secondary school, over one million have learning disabilities, says the New York Institute for Child Development.

Although children do not outgrow such basic difficulties as hyperactivity and learning disabilities, it is never too late to help them, the Institute says.

"There is an entire subpopulation of this generation that was born too soon to take advantage of what has come to be known about the causes and cures of learning disabilities," explains Darral G. Chapman, the Institute's chief of therapy.

But once their problems are properly diagnosed and treated, high school students can make up for lost time, he says. Forty-four per cent of the patients at the Institute are over the age of 12.

Fremont will give concert

The Fremont Junior High School music department will present a concert Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Under the direction of Paul Parry, the school's chorus and band will present a broad range of works, from the title theme of the television show "MASH" to the William Tell Overture. The public is invited.

Turks related

The Turks are a Ural-Altaic people who are related to the Finns and the Hungarians.

Against binding arbitration

Claremont won't support RTD

The Claremont City Council has decided not to support the Southern California Rapid Transit in its efforts to get legislation passed which would outlaw strikes by RTD employes.

Mayor Bertye Smith noted that the city is on record against binding arbitration.

According to the RTD, the city and county are governed by the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act, while the SCRTD is governed by the Public Utilities Code.

City or county employe disputes are handled through voluntary mediation, while SCRTD disputes are handled through voluntary binding arbitration or fact-finding on request of one party.

Proposed legislation would amend the Public Utilities Code.

The RTD strike in 1974 lasted 68 days, while the 1976 RTD strike went for 36 days.

Stars and stripes

The present United States flag originated in a resolution of the Marine Committee of the Second Continental Congress adopted June 14, 1777, at Philadelphia. It called for a flag of 13 stars on a blue field. There is no record, however, of the designation of a designer.

Seminar scheduled April 18

The Foothill Chapter of the California Industry Education Council will hold an evening seminar April 18 titled "From School to Work — A Cooperative Approach".

The seminar will begin at 7 p.m. in the Flamenco Room of Griswold's Inn, 555 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont.

The Bonita, Claremont and Pomona school district work experience programs will act as hosts for the session.

Restrictions on Arlington burials are partly eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Secretary Clifford Alexander on Tuesday ordered the first major easing of 10-year-old restrictions on burials in Arlington National Cemetery.

Alexander broadened eligibility to include some 3 million disabled veterans; holders of medals for bravery, distinguished service or war wounds, their wives and dependent children.

Thus, burial space at the nation's foremost military cemetery will remain at a premium despite addition of 100,000 gravesites in recent years.

There are now more than 169,000 persons buried at Arlington, including the late President John F. Kennedy and his brother, Robert. The cemetery dates to Civil War days when it was the site of a military hospital.

The Army estimated Arlington's plots will be full by about the year 2008, but it is planning a "columbarium" to house 50,000 cremated remains.

Eligibility for burial at Arlington was restricted starting 10 years ago to winners of the Medal of Honor, active and retired career military personnel and honorably discharged veterans who also had served in high federal government posts.

More than 2,000 Vietnam war dead are buried at Arlington.

The restrictions went into effect before the Army had cleared nearby Ft. Myer of old barracks and converted about 200 acres to additional gravesites.

Under the new rules, the cemetery will be open effective April 15 to former members of the armed forces who were discharged with a physical disability of at least 30 per cent.

Also eligible will be holders of the Army's Distinguished Service Cross, the Navy Cross or the Air Force Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal, the Silver Star or the Purple Heart.

The Army said documents which will be accepted as proof of such awards are copies of citations, general orders, discharge papers or official correspondence from the service involved or the Veterans Administration.

New study reveals

Pill users who smoke face heart attacks

NEW YORK (AP) — Women over 40 who use birth control pills run a much lower risk of death from heart attacks than recent reports had suggested — as long as they don't smoke.

But pill users in their 40s who smoke more than 15 cigarettes a day die of heart attacks or blood clots nearly 12 times more frequently than those who don't smoke at all.

These were the major findings of a new study of mortality risk and oral contraception that was reported Tuesday by research analyst Andrudh K. Jain of The Population Council.

The new data analysis follows recent studies in Great Britain and the United States that indicated pill users in general, and especially those over 40, faced a much higher risk of death and both fatal and nonfatal heart attacks than others.

Those studies have resulted in widespread fears, especially among women around 40, about use of the pill. On the basis of those studies, the Food and Drug Administration has proposed a revised labeling of oral contraceptives for physicians and patients.

The proposed revision for physicians states that "the use of oral contraceptives in women in this age group (40 and over) is not recommended." The proposed revision for patients states: "Although it is your decision, it is recommended that if you are over 40 years old you do not use the pill because of an increased risk of heart attacks from the pill."

But those studies lumped together both smokers and nonsmokers among pill users and therefore did not take into account the synergistic effects of pill and smoking combined. A synergistic effect is one that is greater than the simple addition of two factors.

Further, during the period covered by the earlier studies, 1968 to 1972, the estrogen hormone content of birth control pills was higher than it is now, according to Dr. Sheldon J. Segal of The Population Council. He said that indicated that current pill use might produce lower mortality figures.

Jain, summing up his study, said: "The safety of the pill should be considered separately for smokers and nonsmokers because the effects are different.

"Women over 40 who take the pill and do not smoke are not exposed to substantially higher risk of death."

Jain and others at a news conference said they did not know what physical mechanism would account for the excess mortality among pill users who smoke.

Although The Population Council, a private nonprofit organization, does not make formal recommendations on these medical matters, Dr. Jain has sent a detailed letter to the FDA.

The Jain study found that the annual mortality rate from heart attacks and blood clots for women aged 40-44 who use oral contraceptives but do not smoke is 7 per 100,000 — or roughly a third the risk of death from pregnancy and childbirth among women who use no birth control.

But the pill users in this age group who do smoke face a mortality risk of 59 per 100,000, the Jain study found. And among heavy smokers — more than 15 cigarettes a day — the risk rises to 83 per 100,000.

"Even for women in their 30s, the risk of death from the combination of pill use and heavy smoking may be unacceptable," the council said.

Among women aged 30-34 and 35-39, respectively, the mortality risks from heavy smoking and pill use are 16 and 23 per 100,000. These figures are slightly higher than the risk of death from pregnancy and childbirth among women using no birth control, and significantly higher than the risks associated with other contraceptive methods and with abortion.

In contrast, the risk of death associated with pill use alone is only 2 per 100,000 among the 30-34-year-olds and 4 among 35-39 year-olds.

Open University enrollment at Cal Poly

JOAN M. GREENWAY
By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Valley residents can enroll in Cal Poly Pomona under the Open University program without all of the formalities of seeking official admission.

Enrollment is for regularly scheduled, credited classes on the campus, providing space is available and the class instructor approves.

"It's no longer possible to say 'I have my diploma, I'm set for life'," says Joan M. Greenway, acting dean of Continuing Education at Cal Poly Pomona.

"This is especially true in Southern California where many people no longer feel locked into one career, but frequently change fields," adds Mrs. Greenway.

"We also have many Californians who realize they must seek additional training if they are to keep abreast of innovations within their chosen field."

Miss Greenway said students who have been enrolled in the open university in past quarters have ranged in age from 18 to mid-60s.

Some are high school graduates who, for some reason of their own, choose not to get involved with the regular college program.

Others are alumni who feel the need of additional classes, housewives who wish to renew their education, or college graduates who seek specialized training.

Last quarter, over 100 students enrolled in the open university. The most popular areas of study were engineering, business and liberal arts, in that order.

The open university concept, while a part of the continuing education program of the university, differs in that students are enrolled in regularly scheduled campus classes and compete with the other registered students.

"At first, we were concerned that these students might have trouble keeping up if they had been out of school for many years," said the dean. "But, quite the contrary, their overall grades have been higher than the average.

"Of course, we are talking about people who are highly motivated and taking a class because they want to, not because it is a required part of the curriculum."

Miss Greenway said the courses are especially popular with engineers returning to the campus to become updated in their specialty or technicians who want college credit for becoming more knowledgeable in a field in which they have practical training.

"We also have a number of students taking teacher preparation courses with an eye to eventually seeking a career in this area," she added.

Miss Greenway reported that many of the open university students want to take basic general education courses, but, at present have difficulty getting into them on the space-available basis.

"Because all students at the university must take the basic core courses, they are frequently filled," she said.

Enrollments are now open for classes which start this week. All enrollments are considered conditional until regular students have completed enrollments.

Persons interested in attending campus classes are invited to visit the Office for Continuing Education in Room 13 on the lower level of the Library and select the course or courses they are interested in taking.

The office will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday. The office will also be open April 4 to 6 from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Once a student selects the class, the instructor is approached for approval. After receiving consent of the teacher, the enrollee can attend the classes.

Fees for the open university are $22 per unit, payable at the time of petition. Full refunds are made if, for any reason, the student is not accepted.

Miss Greenway said that all continuing education programs at the university must be self-supporting. In addition, a nominal part of the fee is rebated to the department in which the participating instructor is a member. This money can then be used by the department to supplement special programs not covered by the state budget, she added.

A native of Australia, Miss Greenway has been at Cal Poly for six years.

"I'm still constantly excited by the Californians who seek to reach their potential and are not afraid to change careers," she added.

Trips to Farmers market

Two "adults only" trips to the Farmers Market and St. Sophia Cathedral and the Ice Capades on April 20 and 30 are being planned by the San Dimas Recreation Department.

The trip to Farmers Market and St. Sophia Cathedral in Los Angeles will be on April 20, with buses leaving City Hall at 10 a.m. A $5 fee will cover transportation.

A trip to the Ice Capades at the Los Angeles Sports Arena is planned for April 30. Dorothy Hammill is being featured in the Ice Capades.

Fee for that trip is $9 which includes transportation and admission. A bus will leave City Hall at 10:30 a.m.

Registration is being accepted at San Dimas City Hall, 245 E. Bonita Ave. For more information, call 599-6714, ext. 40.

8th graders treat senior citizens to lunch

Twenty-three senior citizens were treated to a special luncheon recently, thanks to eighth graders at Vernon Junior High School in the Ontario-Montclair School District.

Students in Mary Boldi's home economics class prepared a Hawaiian-type luncheon and served members of the Colony Park Senior Citizen Club in their classroom.

The menu included Hawaiian pupus, polynesian sweet-sour meat balls served on fluffy rice, tropical salad and banana bread. For dessert, students served coconut ice cream.

Students prepared the food, planned the menu, decorated the room Hawaiian-style and did the serving.

Kindergarten registration in Chino dist.

Kindergarten registration will be conducted by the Chino school district during the week of April 11 to 15.

Parents should register their children at the school nearest their home, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. daily. Children must be five years old on or before Dec. 2, 1977 to attend kindergarten in the 1977-78 school year.

A birth certificate for the child must be presented, along with a record of polio, measles and diptheria immunization. Further information may be obtained by calling 628-1201.

Lakers are division champions

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — He may not equal the Wizard of Westwood yet, but Jerry West certainly has become the Idol of Inglewood.

In his first season in the coaching ranks, West has taken a largely undistinguished group of basketball players and guided them to a Pacific Division title, the Lakers' first since the 1973-74 season.

The Lakers clinched the division championship Tuesday night with an exciting, 100-97 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics before 11,661 roaring fans at the Forum.

"That's the way this team has played all season," said West in the crowded hall outside the team's dressing room. "We won some close ones at the start of the season and just got better and better and played better and better.

"Nothing that happens from here on in can change the fact that this has been a fantastic season."

Indeed it has. The sad sack teams of the previous two years finished fifth (30-52) and fourth (40-42). Tuesday's win gave the Angelenos a 49-27 record with just six games to play.

By winning the division title, the Lakers draw a bye in the first round of the playoffs. They will then meet the winner of the series between the teams with the fourth and fifth best records in the Western Conference which contains the Pacific and Midwest Divisions.

So if the playoffs were to start tonight. The Lakers and Denver Nuggets would have byes. The Detroit Pistons and Golden State Warriors would be in one opening round game and the Portland Trail Blazers and Kansas City Kings would clash in another.

The Lakers would meet the Pistons-Warriors winner and Denver would play the Trail Blazers-Kings victor.

West still wants his team to wind up with the best won-loss record. Only Philadelphia (46-28) and Denver (46-29) seemingly can overtake West's crew.

Of the six games remaining, three are at home against San Antonio, Detroit and the New York Nets. On the road, the Angelenos will face Golden State, Portland and Seattle.

"It's really been a remarkable season to this point," said West. "The players have been willing to sacrifice individual goals for a team goal."

But they also have had brilliant play, as they did last year, from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Jabbar seems headed for his second consecutive MVP award.

Tuesday night, the giant center played 40 minutes, scored 29 points, pulled down 16 rebounds and blocked three shots.

When queried about "carrying most of the load," Jabbar protested.

"I didn't carry most of the load," he said quietly. "I carried MY share. Other people carried their share. That's why we won (the title). We played well as a team."

And that's true. Someone almost always has picked the team up when it has gotten into trouble. Tuesday night it was rookie Earl Tatum (19 points and 9 rebounds) and Lucius Allen (18 points and 6 assists).

That was more than enough to offset a 31-point, 11-rebound performance in a reserve role by skinny (6-10, 200 pounds) Mike Green of Seattle.

"I'm enjoying myself more every time out," Tatum admitted. "I guess I've proved that I can play team baasketball."

The game, tied 13 times, was close most of the way except for a stretch late in the third quarter and early in the fourth when the Angelenos outscored the Sonics, 19-3, to take a 15-point lead, 84-69.

But Seattle came back and outscored the Lakers, 21-4, to go ahead for the last time, 90-88 with less than four minutes left in the game.

But Jabbar had a slam dunk, Allen hit an 18-foot jumper and Jabbar came back with a dribble drive and layup to put the Lakers ahead to stay.

But Seattle twice pulled to within a point. Green's 18-footer made it 96-95. The Lakers missed and the Sonics missed two shots when Allen rebounded over by the Seattle bench. He threw the ball to the streaking Tatum who slam dunked with 10 seconds left.

"It's nice to have won the title," said Jabbar. "We've been preparing for it for about a week. We've had great coaching and leadership from Jerry and we all worked together.".

Women cagers getting better

Take my word for it, women's basketball is on the rise.

The quality of play in the national small college championships at Cal Poly last week was excellent as the better teams - mostly from the South - put on a good clinic for any local residents attending the five-day event.

But the biggest quality was the freshness in it.

There wasn't any big scences from some player demanding more playing time or threatening to sit a game out unless she receives more money.

No, there was plenty of enthusiasm and good sportsmanship among the 16 teams gathered in Pomona from the four corners of the nation.

It was unheard of to see players run to the opposing coach and shake hands during the introductions or to see both teams comfort an injured player.

Somehow, the girls still have the spirit all athletes should have. Let's hope it continues without the daily problems currently wrecking the professional level.

One rule the women use the men should adopt is a 30-second clock. As it was, I saw the rule violated only once during the tournament.

It sure beats the four-corner offense used to slow the action in Monday night's NCAA finals.

The tournament brought a lot of recognition to Pomona with five out-of-state radio stations broadcasting games and the wire services sending daily stories with a Pomona, Calif. dateline.

The visiting teams also enjoyed Pomona hospitality.

One coach said to me, "I'm surprised how nice everybody is here. We always heard California was an unfriendly place. But we have been treated just great."

Outstanding job

Poly also did an outstanding job staging the tournament.

A lot of people put in a lot of volunteer hours during the 27 games played in the tourney.

Barry Knight, Poly's faculty athletic representative, and his wife, Irene, supervised all the statistics during the five days of play. About the end of the fourth day, Knight probably wasn't too sure about all the rebounds.

All of the Poly trainers were constantly on duty handling any injuries and equipment manager Bill Stevenson has his groups taking care of everything.

Poly coach Darlene May, who served as the co-director of the tournament with tennis coach Karen L. Miller, also wishes to publicly thank the members of the softball and tennis teams for their help.

"I thought we played well in the tournament," May said about her Broncos' fifth place finish, "and I thought the tournament came off well. It was a good experience for everybody. There were a lot of hours of hard work."

About the only negative thing about the tournament was the selection of the All-America team determined at the tournament.

For some unbelieveable reason, the three-person committee left off Southeastern Louisiana's star center, Sarah Williams, from the 10-woman team and completely ignored Cal Poly's squad.

MVP on team

Bypassing Poly was bad enough but ignoring the player who led Southeastern Louisiana to the title can't be excused. Her own coach said Williams was the Most Valuable Player on the championship team.

I'm happy to report steps are being made to correct the oversight and include Williams, a 6-foot-3 center who was the dominant player in the tournament, on the All-America team.

The sad thing is the revelation the commercial company sponsoring the awards put some pressure on the committee to include a player from the company's home town team.

Obviously, that is something no organization can tolerate.

The Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) is still a young organization and this year's tournament at Poly was only the second sponsored by the AIAW for the small colleges.

So the mistakes made here are a good learning experience for the AIAW, which has an unlimited future.

Poly won't be eligible to compete in the 1978 small college nationals at Florence, S.C. as May has learned her team will definitely have to compete in the large schools bracket because the fulltime female enrollment is now over the 3,000 figure.

UCLA and USC will probably co-host the national large schools finals next season and there will be room for two teams from Region 8 (California and Nevada) so May's team has a good goal to shoot for.

May loses only three seniors from her 28-6 club and has already recruited two top-notch junior college players in 5-9 Vicki McClure from Harbor College and 5-5 Tami Moeller from Hancock College.

Spirit is Vikes' secret to success

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Spirit is the secret word behind Garey High's success in San Antonio League baseball action.

The surprising Vikings ran their SAL mark to a spotless 4-0 Tuesday afternoon with an impressive 11-3 drubbing of Claremont.

That Viking victory kept Monse Estrada's crew perched atop the SAL standings, one game ahead of Montclair. The Cavaliers kept pace Tuesday by edging Ganesha 3-1 in 10 innings.

Other SAL action saw Pomona beat Chino 5-1 and Damien best Upland 3-2.

"The key to our success is team spirit," Viking skipper Estrada said after the win over the Wolfpack. "With our type of team, it's a must that we stay together and pull for one another. We might have gotten a little out of hand today with our yelling, but I would rather have the kids be that way than sound asleep on the bench."

The Vikings had plenty to yell about, as they touched up three Claremont hurlers for 11 hits, five walks and five stolen bases. The 'Pack did not help its cause any with five errors afield.

Larry Reyes was the hitting hero for Garey, as the junior catcher slammed two home runs and a single in three at bats, driving in four of the Vikings' tallies.

Reyes' two-run homer in the first gave Garey a lead it never lost. He then socked a solo round-tripper in the third, and finished his big day with an RBI single in the fourth. Reyes is now hitting an incredible .750 (nine-for-12) in SAL action.

Lucas Martinez and Fernie Larez also had three hits for Garey.

Cregg Handy did not have one of his top-notch days on the hill for the Vikes, but the senior righthander still had enough in the clutch to subdue the 'Pack.

Handy finished with an eight-hitter and eight strikeouts. Jim Todd's homer in the fourth and Paul Sokolowski's RBI double in the seventh produced the only earned runs off Handy, who is now 5-2 on the year.

'Bird' hurt; Tigers suffer

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Mark Fidrych's knee went "pop," and as a result the Detroit Tigers' baseball season may go "poof."

Fidrych is in pain. But he might never match the suffering the Tigers are going to have if his knee examination today at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit proves discouraging.

Things seemed to be going well for "The Bird." It looked like he was recovering quickly from the sprain he had suffered in practice March 21.

Then Tuesday, the Detroit pitching star was re-examined for the second time at Lakeland's Watson Clinic. A re-examination last Friday had been encouraging. Fidrych was told he could begin light running and throwing. This time, however, Dr. Glen Barton had bad news.

"Fidrych has experienced severe, disturbing symptoms in his knee," the team announced. "Dr. Barton is concerned that it may be a torn cartilage."

Within an hour after the results, Detroit General Manager Jim Campbell, after conferring by telephone with team physician Clarence Livingood, began making arrangements to put Fidrych on the first possible flight to Detroit.

"I've been in this business too long not to expect the unexpected," said Campbell, who was awakened from a nap by reporters just before Livingood's call.

Drs. David Mitchell and Edwin Guise were to examine Fidrych today.

Fidrych, the American League's 1976 Rookie of the Year, did not quite know how to react. "I've never had anything wrong with my body, so I don't know," he said.

"They ain't tellin' me nothin'," he said. "I'm just tellin' them about the pain. The other day I was feelin' good."

Fidrych, who had a 19-9 record and league-leading 2.34 earned run average last season, said the left knee began hurting while he was doing exercises for it.

"It pops out," he said. "Just 'pop.' You know, 'pop'! I don't know what it is. I'm just trying to keep my head."

A torn cartilage—if that is what it is—could sideline Fidrych at least two weeks. The lost revenue because of the absence of one of the game's top drawing cards could be staggering, not to mention the lost games.

Francisco big hero

RIVERSIDE, (AP) — UC-Riverside second baseman Brian Francisco of Chaffey High, drove in five runs with five hits as the Highlanders pummeled Oral Roberts 15-4 in the Riverside baseball tournament.

Tuesday's action left the Highlanders undefeated with a 3-0 record in the tournament, which runs through Saturday.

Francisco's five hits tied a tournament record for hits in a game as UC-Riverside scored in every inning with a 19-hit attack.

Highlander Steve Gelfarb went 3-for-4 with four RBIs in the winning effort.

Damien cage star earns CIF honor

Bill Duffy, Damien High's preseason Prep All-America basketball player, has been named co-Player of the Year in the CIF 3A division along with Corona del Mar's Jack Tuz.

Selections announced today by Citizens Savings Athletic board included a third-team spot for Ganesha's James Verdon.

Duffy thus becomes only the second valley basketball player ever to win the Player of the Year honor. Claremont High's Mike Gray did so in 1954.

Also named the San Antonio League's top player, Duffy averaged 23.1 points and 9.4 rebounds per game for the Spartans, who finished second in the league and lost in the second round of the playoffs to finalist Ramona. Duffy had 88 assists and 66 steals this year, and accumulated a 15-point average for three years of play.

Tuz averaged 16.4 points per game over a 25-5 season while leading Corona del Mar to the 3A championship.

"This is the greatest honor I've had," said Duffy when contacted by telephone. "I kind of figured Tuz would get it by himself since our team didn't go too far."

Actually, though, the Spartans came quite close to upsetting Ramona, an eventual finalist, and lost just 64-59.

Verdon, a 6-foot-4 forward who averaged 18 points for the SAL champion Giants, is one of only three juniors to receive All-CIF 3A honors. He led Ganesha to a 25-5 record and the second round of the playoffs.

Rams play a waiting game

PHOENIX (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams have decided to play a waiting game for Joe Namath and will obtain the quarterback from the New York Jets without trading away a player or draft choice.

"If the Jets were to get anything from the Rams, it would be in the form of a gift from Carroll Rosenbloom to Leon Hess," a highly placed Rams source, told The Associated Press at Tuesday's National Football League meetings. Rosenbloom is the principal owner of the Rams and Hess is the principal owner of the Jets.

There will be no deal made at the meetings, the source added, but the Rams will acquire the 33-year-old Namath via the free-agent route. The source said the Rams were unwilling to take a chance on dealing away a player or draft choice on a quarterback whose fragile knees leave in doubt the amount of playing time he will be able to give them.

Money talks and NFL listens

PHOENIX (AP) — The National Football League will have a more expensive and expansive look in 1978.

"Money," NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said with a wry smile Tuesday night, pinpointing the primary reason why the league voted to expand its regular season from 14 to 16 games (while cutting the preseason schedule from six to four games) and widening the playoff field from eight teams to 10 with two more wild card clubs.

In addition, the league gave Tampa Bay and Seattle, its two newest teams, permanent homes. It placed the Buccaneers in the National Conference Central Division with Minnesota, Chicago, Detroit and Green Bay, and put the Seahawks in the American Conference West with Oakland, Denver, San Diego and Kansas City.

Furthermore, the NFL disclosed a complex yet balanced scheduling system to prevent inequities and announced that the college player draft would be held May 3-4 in New York.

The votes on the 16-game schedule, the revised schedule formula and the placing of Tampa Bay and Seattle were 21-7, the minimum needed for approval. The addition of the two wild card teams was a unanimous 28-0 vote.

"Money, and not just television money, was the determining factor in adding two more games to the schedule and two more teams to the playoffs," said Rozelle.

"One of the basic reasons (for expanding the regular season) was the fact that a number of clubs have had difficulty selling the preseason games," he said, identifying Philadelphia and New England as two of the most vocal proponents of a 16-game season and a four-game exhibition slate.

"And we feel the addition of a second wild-card team will help keep the races competitive longer," he added. "With all of this, the season'll start earlier and end later."

Despite that, the break between the conference championship games and the Super Bowl still will be two weeks. "It's not for promotion purposes," the commissioner said. "It's simple logistics—determining the disposition of tickets, getting teams and fans to the game and all that."

Under the expanded playoff format, the conference's two wild-card teams will meet in a first-round game while the other six teams (division winners in each conference) have a bye. In the second round, the surviving wild card team meets the winningest team and the No. 2 winner meets the No. 3 winner in each conference. The third round is for the conference title and the fourth round is the Super Bowl.

The playoff change is the first since the NFL merged with the old American Football League in 1970, creating the current two-conference, six-division layout with eight post-season berths. And not since 1961, when the NFL went from a 12-game schedule to 14, has there been a regular-season change.

Those two changes not only will increase revenues from tickets, but could come close to doubling the income from television. The current contract with the three networks, which brought the NFL about $60 million last year, expires after the 1977 season. A $100 million price tag for 1978 and beyond is not beyond comprehension.

Placing Tampa Bay in the frigid NFC Central division, the so-called black-and-blue division, was not as far-fetched as it might appear.

"A lot of the residents in the Tampa Bay area are retired persons from the Midwest, so there's interest generated there," Rozelle said. "Besides, Minnesota, Chicago and the rest of those teams wanted a warm-weather team in their division when we expanded with Atlanta and New Orleans and they didn't get it then and I guess they sort of deserve it.

"With the Buccaneers in the NFC, that left the AFC with Seattle—and putting the Seahawks in the West with Oakland and the rest was a simple matter. The Seattle people were pretty amenable to whatever we came up with," Rozelle said.

The new scheduling system was determined almost completely by the previous season's standings, taking it out of the realm of random selection. "In the past," Rozelle said, "you had extensive problems ... and sometimes it created gross inequities. Last year, for example, the New York Giants, a fifth-place team the year before, had the toughest schedule outside its division ... The new format means that 12 games, 75 per cent of the games, will be the same among all teams in the same division."

The draft will also have a new look—12 rounds instead of the 17 of previous years. In all, 336 collegians will be selected.

Britton paces Wolfpack

By PAUL CLICK
PB Staff Writer

Claremont High's Derek Britton turned in the best 220 of the San Antonio League track season Tuesday as the Wolfpack downed Ganesha, 82-45, on the Giants' track.

In two meets held simultaneously at Upland, the Highlanders swamped Damien, 104-22, and Montclair bested the Spartans, 75-46. The first meet was originally set for April 12 but was moved up because Damien will be on vacation at that time. The latter meet was the continuation of a contest that was postponed by rain Thursday.

Thursday will find Ganesha (1-2) at Pomona (2-0), Upland (3-1) at Chino (1-2), Claremont (2-1) at Montclair (1-2) and Garey (2-1) at Damien (0-3).

In the Hacienda League, Walnut (3-0) will visit Ontario (3-0) in a meet that should determine the league title. San Dimas (2-0) will visit Alta Loma (2-1), Bonita (1-2) will host Gladstone (0-3) and Sierra Vista (0-3) will visit Royal Oak (0-3). All those meets will begin at 3:15 p.m.

Britton won the 220 at Ganesha in 22.6 seconds, clipping two-tenths of a second off his best previous time. He also won the 100 in 9.9 and the shot put with a toss of 55 feet, ½ inch.

Ganesha's Ricky Gant took the low hurdles with a fine time of 40.6. Claremont captured three of the five field events as Chris Keaster cleared 12-6 in the pole vault and teammate Scott Kegans long jumped 20-7¼.

At Upland, Roger Innes of the Highlanders won the two mile (9:55.1) and took second in the 880 and mile.

Mounties, Panthers roll over track foes

Mt. San Antonio College and Chaffey College won track meets Thursday afternoon while Claremont-Mudd was runnerup in a triangular meet.

The Mounties beat visiting Orange Coast, 95-50, and the Panthers belted host San Bernardino Valley, 112-36, in two makeup meets. At Claremont-Mudd, Azusa Pacific scored 95 points, the Stags were next with 71 and Ambassador tallied 28 points.

Chaffey will host Southwestern Thursday at 3 p.m., MSAC will travel to San Diego Mesa for a 3 o'clock meet Friday and C-M will meet Whittier and Caltech at Caltech Saturday at 1:30 p.m

Kilmer's gem paces Braves

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Bobby Kilmer popped the Sierra Vista bubble Tuesday afternoon at Alta Loma, as the senior right-hander pitched a sparkling one-hitter putting a halt to the upstart Dons, 7-0.

In other Hacienda League action, All-Leaguer Mike Breslin pitched his second impressive game in a row, as he led Ontario in a 9-4 rout of Gladstone. Royal Oak nipped by Bonita in a real toughie, winning 4-2 in nine innings, and struggling Walnut held on to defeat winless San Dimas, 3-2.

Alta Loma's Kilmer lost his no-hitter in the sixth, when left-fielder Mike Felo lost a high pop-fly in the face of 'ol "father fireball." Other than this miscue, Kilmer and company were nearly spotless, as the Braves once again took sole possesion of first place in the Hacienda at 4-1 (7-4-1 overall).

"Yeah, I lost it (the ball) in the sun," explained Felo. "I just never saw it, and didn't even know where the ball was untill it hit the ground . . . and I didn't know that Bobby had a no-hitter going. Sorry about that, Bob."

"No big deal," added Kilmer (now 4-1 on the year). "I didn't pitch too well today anyway. I've done better before, I think. I was bad today, not good at all."

Alta Loma catcher Brian Henderson delivered the big smash of the day, a bases-loaded triple in the first, and disagreed with Kilmer's feelings.

"Oh, no question about it, Bob was putting the ball right there," said the senior clean-up hitter. "I know he doesn't think so, but this is the best game he's had this year."

Sierra Vista is now tied for second place at 4-2 with redhot Ontario. And amazingly, the Dons have the best overall record of any team in the league, with a 9-5 mark. Royal Oak is alone in third place at 3-2, and today's 3:15 p.m. game featuring the Romans and Alta Loma at Royal Oak should be a good one indeed. With the help of teammate Jess Koopman's burning bat, Ontario's Breslin had no problem in improving his mound record to 4-3. Koopman, who is belting at a .667 clip in the Hacienda, knocked out a two-run triple and a scoring double in the win over Gladstone. Breslin also helped himself with a RBI single in the first inning.

The Romans Kirt Ensman singled home Matt Brown in the top of the ninth at Bonita, as Royal Oak defeated an outstanding pitching performance on the part of the 'Cats Ralph Ortega. In going the route, Ortega racked up 14 strikeouts, and allowed only five hits. But Ensman's single just pushed Ortega's pitching record to 1-7.

Walnut could only account for five hits off San Dimas' Ken Muraki but three of the safeties were crucial, as Dirk Lindley smacked a homer and each Ed Kimura and Bob Cordova swatted a triple. Craig Fenwick picked up the win for the Mustangs, who pushed their season mark to 5-6.

Pomona's Tim Lambert fired a two-hitter at Chino, while Damien's Mark Schlesinger three-hit Upland.

Schlesinger had a big day all around vs. the Highlanders, as he cracked a two-run homer for the Spartans' first two tallies off Scot hurler Brad Self.

Damien then scored the game-winner in the top of the fifth as Ron Torrance reached on an error, took second on a wild pitch and scored on John Rayburn's single to right.

Joey Chapa's triple was the lone extra-base knock in the Pomona-Chino outing.

Stags still gaining on Leopards

While La Verne was splitting a non-conference doubleheader in Las Vegas, Claremont-Mudd continued to make up ground on the Leopards in conference play.

C-M, behind the three-hit pitching of freshman Bob Nielson, won its sixth straight SCIAC contest, 4-1, over Whittier. La Verne edged Santa Barbara, 4-3, in the first of two games, then lost to UNLV, 8-2. The Leopards (15-5) were slated to play the Rebels in a single game this afternoon.

Pomona-Pitzer lost a slugfest to visiting Redlands, 19-13 in a game called in the eighth inning because of darkness.

At Claremont-Mudd, the Stags went over the .500 mark (9-8) for the first time this season. Since starting out the season with five losses in their first six games, the Stags have posted an 8-2 record.

They will host La Verne (9-0) in a doubleheader Saturday that will go a long way toward deciding the conference champion.

The Leopards won their game Tuesday when Mike Wolters singled in Dave Nash to break a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning. Nash had banged a two-out double to get things started.

Wolters, another Montclair resident, had a two-run triple in the Leos' three-run second inning. Winner Jim Vallone (3-1) blanked UCSB in eight of the nine innings. The Gauchos scored all three runs in the sixth.

In the nightcap, the Leopards took a 2-0 lead with single runs in the first and second. Bob Waldusky homered to lead off the game and Ralph Valadez cracked a two-out double in the second and scored on an error.

But the Rebels (UNLV) got to Steve Goggans for two runs in the fourth inning and then scored three unearned runs in the fifth on two La Verne errors.

The defeat was Goggans' first after three wins and snapped a nine-game Leo winning streak.

At Pomona-Pitzer, Redlands jumped on the Sagehens for nine runs in the first inning. Don Fleming, Rob Challinor, Bob Clarendon and Gary Padgett all slammed home runs for the Bulldogs.

The score was 12-0 before the 'Hens' Jim Busterud belted a three-run roundtripper in the third inning. Busterud had three hits and three RBIs. Greg Holden had a double and two singles and four runs batted in.

The Sagehens, 0-9 in the SCIAC and 0-12-1 overall, host Pacific Christian in a noon twinbill Friday.

Church loop being formed

A church softball league is being formed locally, and is seeking players for its teams.

The league will play games every Saturday night, and will play 12-inch slowpitch softball. Men and women 14 years old and older are eligible to participate.

For further information, call Paul Johnson at 982-0446 or Ron Grap at 627-4305.

Upland fencer earns medal

David Peltz, 15, of Upland earned the bronze medal at the Amateur Fencers League of America Tournament held at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Peltz represented the Upland Recreation Department's Royal Academy of Fencing in the 16-and-under competition.

Upland fencing master George Weidmann has been instructing Peltz for 1 1/2 years.

PRE GRAND PRIX — England's Barry Sheene, world 500 cc champ, is an entrant in Saturday's Motorcycle Grand Prix in Long Beach.

Hunt to defend title in L.B. Grand Prix

LONG BEACH — Being World Champion really is a lot different from just winning a motor race according to James Hunt, the man who currently holds the title as the Long Beach Grand Prix approaches Sunday.

While holding the title has been rewarding for the 29-year-old Englishman, he thinks it's a pretty tough act to follow.

However, Hunt promises he'll keep trying as hard as he can when he battles competition like Niki Lauda, Emerson Fittipaldi, Mario Andretti and last year's winner Clay Regazzoni in America's unique through-the-streets Formula 1 race for the Citicorp Cup.

"Winning the world championship was a lifelong ambition for me," Hunt said. "When I won my very first motor race, I was highly disappointed with the feeling I was left with. I really didn't feel any different than I had before I won it! In fact, I remember going home and being a little sad and depressed by the fact that I didn't feel any different for having won.

"It was the same when I won my first Grand Prix. Nothing changed in my life. I didn't feel any different. I think I sort of expected to feel the same way after winning the world championship.

"But in fact, after winning the championship, I was very pleased. My feet didn't touch ground for about 10 days. It was something that meant very much to me," Hunt concluded.

"Materially, it's been a very heavy load. I've been working very much harder than before I won the world championship," Hunt said.

It has been estimated that winning the championship is worth several million dollars in endorsements and appearance payments to the driver who can pull it off. But to cash in, the driver has to make himself available to the people who want to see him — and that means thousands of miles and countless hours spent on trans-oceanic airliners. Couple that with the 17 races comprising the 1977 Grand Prix series (of which Long Beach will be the fourth) and the miles of testing for his Marlboro-Texaco McLaren F-1 team, and it's easy to see he doesn't spend much time at home in Spain.

"Getting 10 days at home after the Brazilian GP was perhaps the nicest thing that's happened to me since I won the World Championship," said Hunt — and perhaps he said it in something other than joking fashion!

Tall and blond, Hunt has a reputation for being something of a ladies' man. But it's a tag that may have been unfairly hung after his ex-wife Suzi married actor Richard Burton. In "real" life, the reigning World Champion spends so much of his time promoting motor sports and making public appearances for his sponsors that it is hard to see how he could have time for much carousing. Still, in the most glamorous of sports, Hunt has managed to acquire a "Most Glamorous of the Glamorous" public image. Perhaps that's because of the way he's been treated in the press.

"Actually, 95 per cent of the press is very good," Hunt said. "In South America they tend to take a little bit of poetic license and some things do get blown out of all proportion everywhere."

Such was the case with the highly publicized accident with Patrick Depailler in last year's Long Beach Grand Prix.

Hunt and Depailler had a coming-together early in the race, and seemed to feel later that the other was at fault. While Depailler continued (to finish third in the end), Hunt abandoned his car, walked back down the track on the racing line, and shook his fist in Depailler's face the next time the French driver passed by. Later, in the press room, the two exchanged harsh words.

"Forget it — that was just one of those things, and a very negative one at that," Hunt said when asked if things were patched up between Depailler and himself. "I want to emphasize positive things about the upcoming race."

Despite the hardships of being world champion, Hunt says he enjoys every minute of it. But he knows it's a hard act to follow.

James Hunt will be counting on both his skill and his luck when he takes the green flag at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Long Beach Grand Prix presented by First National City Travelers Checks.

Mounties bats explode for key SCC victory

Mt. San Antonio College stayed in the battle for the South Coast Conference title Tuesday afternoon with a 20-5 rout of host Grossmont.

The win was a crucial one for the Mounties, as SCC frontrunners Orange Coast and Cerritos also won. A loss would have virtually eliminated MSAC from title contention.

South Coast

	W	L	Pct.	GB
Orange Coast	6	1	.857	—
Cerritos	5	2	.714	1
Santa Ana	3	3	.500	2½
MSAC	3	4	.429	3
Fullerton	3	5	.375	3½
San Diego Mesa	3	5	.375	3½
Grossmont	2	5	.286	4

Tuesday's results
Cerritos 14, Fullerton 4
Orange Coast 5, San Diego Mesa 4
MSAC 20, Grossmont 5
Friday's games
MSAC at Santa Ana, 2:30 p.m.
Grossmont at Cerritos, 2:30 p.m.

MSAC is now 3-4 in SCC outings and 12-8 on the year.

In Mission Conference action Tuesday, Chaffey and Citrus did not have a good day of it. Saddleback edged Chaffey 9-8 in 11 innings while Riverside City College took Citrus 5-1.

MSAC put Grossmont away for good Tuesday with a big eight-run seventh inning. On the game the potent Mountie attack rolled up 21 hits, nine of them for extra-bases.

Southpaw Bill Morrissey struggled the distance for the win, as he was touched up for 13 hits.

Hitting heroes for MSAC were Bob Costello, who hammered out a homer, double and three singles in six at bats and drove in four runs while scoring five. Joe Koval had four hits and four RBIs for the locals, while Barry Cramer socked a homer and double.

Saddleback's Joe Wallach homered in the last of the 11th to beat visiting Chaffey. The Panthers are now 6-3 in M.C. outings and 14-7 on the season.

The loss overshadowed a great hitting performance by Joe Bruno, who was a perfect six-for-six in the game, including two doubles and a triple.

Citrus saw its conference mark fall to a disappointing 2-7 with the loss to RCC. The Owls are now right at .500, 10-10, for the season.

Citrus and Chaffey will square off against one another on Thursday in a Mission contest. That game will take place at 2:30 p.m. at Chaffey.

Next action for MSAC will be Friday at Santa Ana, in a re-scheduled SCC game of a contest rained out last Saturday.

Upland girls in big SAL victory

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Upland High proved itself as the best Girl's basketball team in the San Antonio League with a big 68-58 victory over Claremont Tuesday afternoon.

Both teams went into the showdown with unblemished 5-0 SAL records with the host Highlanders emerging still perfect.

Upland (14-4 overall) has a remaining game Thursday with Pomona Catholic while Claremont is battling a tough Ganesha squad.

The game was all it shaped up to be in the first quarter with Upland grabbing a slim 20-18 lead after eight minutes.

Upland took a comfortable 38-27 lead into the locker room at halftime behind Nan Fowler's eight points.

Claremont made a run at Upland and pulled to within five points (42-37) with three minutes left in the third quarter.

The Scots then outscored the Wolfpack 10-2 to close out the period on top 52-39.

The 'Pack could get no closer than nine in the final period doing so with 1:20 to play and again with 50 seconds left.

A pressing Upland defense throttled Claremont as the visitors turned the ball over 20 times while Upland gave the ball away 11 times.

Fowler led all scorers with 19 points followed by teammate Carol Moser with 17 points. Upland's Patty Kuchan added 14 points.

Connie Elwell led Claremont with 16 points with Laura Myers right behind with 15. Cathy Claussen notched 12 points for the 'Pack.

Myers led board play with 13 rebounds with Kuchan and teammate Linda McKeon both grabbing 10 and Claussen 9 rebounds.

In another SAL contest Tuesday, Ganesha secured third place with an easy 111-25 win over Montclair. The Lady Giants are now 4-2 in SAL action while Montclair is 3-3.

Carla Taylor led the Ganesha attack with 29 points. Diane Lipovsky had 17 of Montclair's 25 points.

Bonita nailed down the Hacienda League title with a 59-57 nipping of Alta Loma in overtime. Nancy Matza led the Bonita attack with 19 points, while Jill Taylor had 30 for the losers.

Other Bearkittens in twin figures were Robin Hayden with 13 and Tricia Goligh with 11. Bonita finishes its regular season with an impressive 7-0 H.L. mark and a 16-1 overall ledger.

Jockey agent for standout apprentice Steve Cauthen, 16, is Lenny Goodman, who once handled riding engagements for Panamanian Braulio Baeza.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHY DO WE GET SEASICK?"

CLAYTON LAMM
ENFIELD, CT

A. SEASICKNESS IS CAUSED BY THE UNFAMILIAR MOVEMENT OF THE SHIP'S DECK, WHICH DISTURBS THAT PART OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM WHICH CONTROLS OUR SENSE OF BALANCE, AND WE FEEL SICK TO THE STOMACH.

DICK ROGERS
© 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. 3/30

Seasickness is a disagreeable illness that some people get while traveling on a ship.

Perhaps a better word for seasickness might be "motion sickness," for many doctors think we become seasick because of the motion of the ship, as it rises and falls as it travels across a rough sea.

In our normal activities, special little tubes inside our ears, called the semicircular canals, help us to keep our balance as we move about.

But the unfamiliar rolling and pitching of the ship's deck disturbs our balance and upsets the little balancing tubes by too much movement, and we may soon begin to feel dizzy and sick to our stomach.

Seasickness isn't the only kind of motion sickness. Some people get car sickness, or airsickness while flying in "bumpy" air.

People who become motion-sick easily often take special medicines before traveling to prevent motion sickness.

BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE . . . — "Now, if only we could get the landlord to fix the roof" could be the thoughts of this pair of starlings sitting on the front porch of a big birdhouse that has seen better days near Wilmington, Del.

Wall-to-wall bodies after crash

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — Up close in the hangar, where the bodies lie in wall-to-wall rivers of blackened limbs, the statistics stop and the horror begins.

The 570 dead lie in two streams of burned bodies, each 50 yards long and five yards wide, that roll from one end to the other of a hangar at the edge of the runway.

More bodies, more parts of bodies than anyone could stand to count, more bodies than the eye could take in with a single glance, more bodies contorted, bent, and blackened than a dozen nightmares could conjure up.

Their terror kills the cold orderliness of the statistics that say "worst aviation disaster in history."

The bodies in the hangar, like those that hung from trees in the crash of the Turkish DC10 that took 346 lives near Paris in 1974, until now the deadliest of crashes, obliterate the accounting, the toting up, and leave only tragedy.

The yellow hangar is now a packaging plant for death. On each side of the building, Spanish authorities have set up long tables where men in white coats and plastic gloves take bodies that are intact and eviscerate them on the tables to slow decomposition.

On one side are the victims from the wrecked KLM plane, and on the other those from the Pan Am jet. They are carried up from the floor, sometimes with a paper bag containing articles that the Spanish authorities think might belong to them, and then are placed in bigger plastic sacks or mahogany-painted coffins.

The coffins, stacked like banana crates, sit between and alongside the rows of bodies.

The work is torturous and slow. Even with more than 20 men on the job during an 18-hour day, the bodies won't start to be repatriated until Sunday.

On Tuesday morning, when fog and rain blotted out the view of the wreckage that still litters the runway, like the parched carcass of an animal alongside a railroad track, a man who described himself as an American from New York came to the hangar to look for the body of his sister-in-law.

Four friends died in air tragedy

Stockton family feels guilty

STOCKTON (AP) — "Four people were on that plane because of us and we had to cancel out," Angeline Mayall said in frustration.

"We felt guilty for not being there with them," said her husband, Edwin.

They said the four — all killed in aviation's worst disaster — signed up for the Royal Cruise trip after learning the Mayalls and their 15-year-old daughter Patricia were planning to go.

Two friends and two relatives were among the 396 persons aboard the Pan American 747 which collided with a KLM 747 Sunday in Canary Islands on the way to meet the cruise ship.

In an interview, the Mayalls said they decided to sign up for the cruise early last fall.

A longtime friend, Charlotte Waltz of Reno, Nev., heard about the Mayalls' plans and wanted to go along. One of Mrs. Waltz' friends, Eleanor Crosby of Oroville, Calif., also asked to be included.

At the last minute, Mrs. Mayall's aunt and uncle, Cliff and Emily Morris of Pasadena, heard of the plans and also signed up.

The Mayalls dropped plans for the trip five weeks ago.

Mayall, a 69-year-old attorney, said the family took a Mexican cruise in January and decided Patricia shouldn't be taken out of school again. "And I wasn't feeling in the best of health," he added.

The Mayalls had dinner Friday with Mrs. Waltz and Mrs. Crosby in Stockton, before the two women took a plane to Los Angeles to connect with the illfated Pan Am flight.

"We talked a great deal about the trip," Mayall said. "Charolotte had expressed some concern about air sickness as she had never flown on a 747 before. I told her it was like sitting in the lobby of the Fairmont Hotel."

Mayall said the two women, both elderly widows, were eagerly discussing details of the trip and quizzing the Mayalls, veterans of three cruises on the Golden Odyssey, about the ship and crew.

"I kept telling them they would enjoy themselves thoroughly," Mayall said.

News of the crash reached the Mayalls at the resort area of Lake Tahoe where they were spending the weekend.

"It's hard to put in words. When you're fortunate and someone isn't..." he added, his voice choking. "I talked them into going.

"It's just like the sinking of the Titanic," Mayall said, searching for an explanation. "I guess it was human error.

"But there's nothing I could do about it. There's nothing they could do about it," he said, his voice taking on a determined edge.

Mayall, who said he had traveled extensively, said he wouldn't have any second thoughts about flying again.

"We'd gladly go again," he said.

Evidence of TV shift to L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a major move reflecting the shift of TV production from New York to Los Angeles over the years, CBS-TV says it'll relocate its program and business affairs headquarters here on May 1.

The two key decision-making divisions have been based in New York ever since the CBS television network began in 1947, with their Los Angeles-based offices reporting to top CBS executives in New York.

"Now, we're lip-flopping," Robert Wussler, head of the network, said Monday. "We're putting the heavyweights on the West Coast, with a satellite operation in New York."

However, he said the entire network isn't moving to Los Angeles. He said he'll continued to be New York-based, as well CBS News and the network's sports, financial, sales, publicity and affiliate relations departments.

ABC and NBC said they have no plans to move their program and business affairs headquarters from New York to Los Angeles.

Downtown San Diego under water?

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Putting downtown San Diego under water?

The idea is under consideration after being proposed by the head of the city's downtown redevelopment corporation and by state Sen. Bob Wilson in the California Legislature.

Venice-like canals among the high-rise buildings with landscaped walkways along banks containing outdoor shops and cafes. . .

A number of city business leaders and officials are discussing it with banker Richard Silberman, who heads the redevelopment corporation. In a letter to Mayor Pete Wilson, Silberman calls it "an outstanding idea."

Wilson said seawater should be pumped from the bay and then allowed to flow naturally back into the ocean.

"Gondola-type boats could be used for transportation," he said in a letter to city officials Monday.

"I believe many small businesses would be attracted to an area such as this and, with the establishment of new businesses it is possible the assessed valuation of downtown would increase and the tax rate could be lowered."

Wilson said the canal would be much like one in San Antonio, Tex., which is about 20 feet wide and three to four feet deep.

A problem could arise from that, a city engineer said, noting that Horton Plaza in the heart of downtown San Diego is 47 feet above sea level and at 10th Avenue and Broadway it's 74 feet above sea level.

The water from there "would be rushing pretty fast to get back to the sea," he suggested. But spillways or locks might be built.

Man who fights for warning at crossing struck down by car

POST FALLS, Idaho (AP) — James "Shorty" Thomas thought the pedestrian crossing was dangerous, so he urged city council to erect warning signs and reduce the speed limit on U.S. 10 through the city.

He even carried a red warning flag whenever he crossed the highway.

Thomas, 63, was clutching the one-yard-square banner when he was struck by a car on the crosswalk.

A spokesman for Kootenai Memorial Hospital said Thomas was in stable condition with a broken leg and other possible fractures.

"We don't have enough traffic officers to police the crosswalks and not enough warning signs," Thomas once told city council. "I have even thought of getting a bigger one (flag) and putting it at the end of a long bamboo pole and going down to help people get across the street."

Friday's accident was under investigation. The driver of the car, Barbara Welp, 47, of Coeur d' Alene, has not been cited.

The state Highway Department made a plywood crosswalk sign and suspended it over the intersection after Thomas complained in 1973, said Jack Ross, traffic supervisor.

There are ground-mounted crosswalk warning signs at the intersection, but the plywood sign fell for the last time late last year, Ross said.

SITDOWN DEMONSTRATION — Col. Frank Borman, left, chairman and executive officer of Eastern Airlines, invites Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to sit down in a mock-up of an Eastern B-727 seating arrangement which he brought to a hearing before the Senate subcommittee on aviation in Washington Tuesday.

Billy Carter quitting Plains because of tourist influx

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Billy Carter's wife says she and her husband are moving out of Plains, Ga., because they are fed up with the influx of tourists since his brother Jimmy became President, a published report said Tuesday.

In a copyright story, the Nashville Banner quoted Sybil Carter as saying, "We've bought a house 19 miles away. We'll be moving soon."

Mrs. Carter disclosed details of the decision Monday night at the Pickin' Parlor, a local nightclub, where the Carters had gone to see singer Tom T. Hall perform.

She said her husband recently purchased the new house "way out in the country," mainly to get relief from tour buses.

"We have as many as 30 tour buses a day pull up into the driveway," Mrs. Carter said. "They turn around. A lot of the tourists get out and come to the door, knocking and wanting Billy to come out.

"A lot of times he has obliged them. They want pictures and autographs.

"We're really looking forward to it. We're also doing it because of the children. We have them to consider. We have six."

The community where the house is located has no name, Mrs. Carter said. She said it was 19 miles north of Plains.

Billy Carter, who celebrated his 40th birthday Tuesday, was in Nashville to meet with his agent, Tandy Rice, president of Top Billing Inc.

The President's outspoken brother also was to address a meeting Tuesday night of the Southern Travel Directors on tourism.

"I'm going to talk about what the President can do to screw up a small town," he said.

Billy Carter and his wife could not be reached for comment on the Banner's story.

PLAN FASHION SHOW

Mrs. Milo Lacy, Mrs. William McIntosh and Mrs. Quay Ives, from left, pose in ensembles they will model at the Cal Poly Women's Club luncheon and fashion show Saturday.

Cal Poly club sets activity

Highlighting a year of many and varied activities, the Cal Poly Women's Club will present its annual scholarship luncheon, "Fashions and Flowers," Saturday at noon at Kellogg West on the Cal Poly campus.

Traditionally proceeds from the luncheon benefit the scholarship fund which has underwritten scholarships for outstanding women students since the introduction of women to the campus in 1960. In addition, one half of the dues pledged by club members go into the scholarship fund. In the past over $4,000 in scholarship funds have gone to deserving women recommended by the Cal Poly Financial aids office.

Mrs. Quay Ives is chairman for the event. The noon luncheon will be preceded by a fellowship hour featuring wines of the California vineyards and will be followed by a fashion presentation sponsored by Towne and Country Fashions of Claremont.

Modeling ensembles will be Mmes. Murray Abromovitz, Milo Lacy, William Wooton, Don Hogan and Ives. Commentator will be Mrs. William McIntosh.

Reservations may be made by calling Kellogg West, 595-7511.

Claremont seniors active

Claremont Senior Citizens will meet at 11 a.m., Friday, at Taylor Hall. Mrs. Isobel Malcolm wil review future trips and cards will be played from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

The group will leave at 9 a.m., April 6 for a trip to Rogers Gardens with a stop for lunch at the Reuben E. Lee. The group will return at 4:30 p.m.

The Getty Museum will be the destination for the group on April 14 when the group leaves at 8:30 a.m. and returns around 4 p.m.

Another program in a series of health talks is scheduled April 15 at Taylor Hall a t 11 a.m. Miss Sarah Colley, public health nurse, will present the program.

Desert Hot Springs will be the destination for the group April 19-21. The bus will leave at 9 a.m.

Members interested in attending the Ramona Pageant will leave at 12:30 p.m., April 24, and return around 8 p.m.

The group will attend the Ice Capades at the Sports Arena Arena in Los Angeles April 30. The bus will leave at 10:30 a. m.

A potluck luncheon will be presented by members on April 25 at Taylor Hall, Claremont.

All trips leave from Village Green at hours listed and five minutes later from Memorial Park.

The annual Senior Citizen picnic will be held May 6 at Ganesha Park.

Bake tip

If the bottom of your yeast bread loaf isn't as brown as you like, try baking the loaf on the rack below the center one in your oven.

Lamaze film set April 5

The Lamaze method of prepared childbirth will be the subject of a film and panel discussion to be held April 5 at 7:30 p.m. at Queen of the Valley Hospital auditorium.

The program is sponsored by the American Society for Psycho-Prophylaxis in Obstetrics, Los Angeles, a nonprofit educational organization whose aim is to meet the growing demand for information regarding prepared childbirth.

Mary Jane Sinkwich is in charge of arrangements for the program.

Not special

Don't worry about what shoes to wear with ankle-tied harem pants. Low sandles, espadrilles, even ankle-strap flats all work well.

WACS schedule gathering

Women's Army Corps Veterans Association, Los Angeles County Chapter, will meet Saturday at the DAR Chapter House, 3109 W. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles.

The board of directors will meet at noon and a bag lunch will follow with chapter hostesses furnishing beverages and dessert.

The meeting is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. following a program.

Crime and Elderly

They circle at a distance, like cats watching birds

Editor's Note: Crime consumes the lives of many of the nation's urban elderly. Nobody knows that better than the police. A ride with a special team of police assigned to crimes against the elderly in New York's Bronx shows what can happen to the old person who turns down the wrong street or sits on the wrong park bench at the wrong time. It could be a ride with police through many urban communities.

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Detectives Jerry Keegan and Donald Gaffney slide into their squad car, a retired yellow taxi cab that starts with a groan and runs with a death rattle.

There's no shotgun, no siren, no radio. They take a folder of crime reports, a book of mug shots, a fingerprinting kit and a camera.

They're part of the Bronx Senior Citizens Robbery Unit, a prototype police group that investigates crimes against people over 60 who are attacked in buildings. There are similar units in other parts of the city.

They use the taxi because it's unobtrusive. It looks like a lot of other taxis in the Bronx. Many old people are embarrassed to be pinpointed as crime victims by the presence of a police car. Some fear reprisal.

Keegan and Gaffney cruise the Grand Concourse, a stately canyon of buildings that has become a combat zone for old people and young muggers.

"See that park?" Gaffney asks. "In nice weather, the old people come out and sun themselves. You can see the kids watching them, circling at a distance, picking out their quarry.

"You can spot it right off. Like cats watching birds. It's unnatural for young people to be that interested in old folks."

Wearing civilian clothes, the two hefty veterans are on their way to interview crime victims. They also take pictures of injuries, useful evidence if the victim recovers by the time the case goes to trial.

In most other robbery cases, the victim is asked to go to a precinct to view suspects' pictures. But Keegan and Gaffney visit victims at their homes or hospital beds.

Individual attention is the key to their approach. After an attack, old people are especially distraught. It takes patience to draw out their story.

Perhaps they will have a cup of tea, look at a family album or listen to stories about life in gentler days.

Their unassigned duties include contacting relatives, stopping mail delivery, freezing bank accounts and taking victims to and from court.

"Most are so amazed anyone takes an interest," Keegan says. "We still get Christmas cards from people we've visited."

They enter the hospital room of 79-year-old Sarah (she doesn't want her real named used) whose spine was broken by three burglars she surprised in her apartment. She had just returned from buying birthday cards for her grandchildren.

Gaffney and Keegan take her fingerprints to compare with those they lifted in the apartment.

Lying there large, pale and fragile, she tells them she had two rolls of pennies in her little bank. Did they break her Japanese vases? Was there a tin of papers from her cedar chest?

She puts her inky fingerprinted hand to her forehead and cries.

"Oh, why don't they leave us alone? We don't have much longer to live. I've been in that apartment 40 years. But I can't go back now. But where can I go?

"When you're old, nobody wants you."

There's nothing much to say. They think they've got good prints of the attackers. "We think we'll get someone," says Gaffney.

With a small burst of fire, Sarah says: "They should do to them what they did to me." She sinks back.

On the way out, they shake their heads. Gaffney mentions his own mother. He wants her to move out of her neighborhood, but, like many old people, she's very independent.

Back in the taxi, Keegan says: "This beating will change that woman's life, all her patterns and her outlook. If it happened to us, we would get over it. She won't.

"And, you know," says Gaffney, "there's really nothing we can do for her. It's done. We just hope we catch someone and prevent this happening again."

They estimate that each person they arrest, is responsible for 60 crimes against old people a year. "They're addicted to old people. Not hubcabs, not liquor stores. Just old people," says Keegan. "They're hoping to hit a pot of gold."

And, say the cops, most are remorseless. They go to court, get slapped on the wrists, get out and do it again.

The taxi rumbles past blocks of rubble and gutted tenements, blocks of housing developments.

"Look. It's no wonder," says Gaffney, pointing to one highrise. That one building housed eight kids who committed crimes against old people who later died of injuries.

They head toward another hospital, another old lady, Lottie. "I'd really like to get the guy who did this one," Keegan says.

Lottie, who also is afraid to have her real name in print, has no family, just a cousin in New Jersey. They're visiting her to say that her mail will be held at the post office — and to give her a little company.

She's 88, a tiny, outraged mass of bruises. Her nose is broken, her eyes are blackened, her neck is purple, her hands are wounded.

She was pushed into her apartment when she opened the door. She was beaten with her own walking cane. She was tied to a steam pipe.

"He kept beating me and asking, 'Where is the money? Where is the money?' I told him I didn't have any, just the $5 in my pockets. But he thought there was more," she said.

Lottie feels the bumps on her head and points to her nose. "Oh, why did he have to break my nose? Now I'll look like a prize fighter. I don't care how old I am, I don't want to have a broken nose.

"I hope you get him." She keeps pounding a fist into her palm. "I know I can identify him. Please get him."

Keegan and Gaffney leave, sickened, despite all the years of bruises and beatings they've seen.

They get back into the taxi. Another case. Another old lady. Another mugging.

Brimstone Hill

"Gibraltar of the Caribbean" is the name given to the Brimstone Hill fortress on the West Indian island of St. Kitts. The 18th-century structure once gave safe anchorage for British men-o-war during combat with French and Spanish fleets for control of the seas of the New World.

NEW WRINKLE — Paddling down their street in Dallas, S. B. Bell and E. Attaway decided to try their luck and, as a result, netted a good-sized carp. They claimed the big ones were biting all day up and down the street. Heavy weekend rains brought the flooding.

Can't pay utility bills

Thousands in nation facing electricity and gas shutoff

By RHONDA SEEGAL
AP Business Writer

Thousands of Americans unable to pay higher heating bills during the unusually cold winter are being threatened with loss of service if they don't pay soon.

Many utilities, allowing a grace period because of the cold winter, postponed service shutoffs until the end of the heating season.

But the end of the season is at hand, and an Associated Press survey found that notices warning of electric and gas shutoffs are in the mail to thousands of Americans.

The number of overdue bills ranged from 3 per cent to 20 per cent more than last year, the utilities reported. Some utilities and state agencies are trying to find solutions short of cutoff for those who can't pay.

"We'll start catching up with the winter leftovers and our termination will reach a thousand a month or more," according to a spokesman for the Public Service Co. in New Hampshire, the state's largest supplier of electric power. It usually terminates about 250 customers a month in winter.

"We've seen an unusually high percentage of New Hampshire people with high utility bills in an overdue condition," said Edwin B. Coltin, administrator of New Hampshire's Division of Human Services.

In a number of states, utilities had to comply with state-imposed moratoriums against cutting off heat to households.

But by March 31, generally considered the end of the heating season, most will have ended and service cutoffs can be enforced.

A number of states and cities are working with federal agencies to make money available to the needy, either in the form of loans or grants. The average household had to pay $139 more to keep warm this winter than last, a Senate subcommittee concluded in a study.

In Connecticut, for example, Gov. Ella Grasso set aside $250,000 to be used to pay emergency fuel needs of the 40,000 families eligible for Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Here are some of the hardest hit areas where families, particularly the poor in northern states, will have to find some way to pay:

—In Rhode Island, the moratorium was lifted last week. The Providence Gas Co. said it is sending out about 400 warning notices per day. The company said about 40 per cent of its customers have overdue accounts. Gov. Joseph Garrahy asked state residents to contribute money to a fund to help those who couldn't pay.

—In Pennsylvania, the Public Utility Commission (PUC) called off its two-month-old moratorium on terminations, effective March 31. Fifteen major gas and electric utilities report 600,000 of about 4.7 million customers are behind in their payments. Of those, 200,000 haven't paid in three months or more. The PUC is trying to develop a program through which it mediates disputes between customers and utilities.

—In Ohio, a Public Utilities Commission order on Jan. 25, 1977, prohibited gas utility shutoffs until March 31. The ban on cutoffs ended March 20 for East Ohio Gas, which has sent out 50,000 delinquency letters. The company said it mailed shutoff notices on Monday.

—The Wisconsin Gas Co. of Milwaukee has sent out 25,000 disconnect notices that will take effect April 22, the day after the state's moratorium on fuel cutoffs ends. Company officials say 58,000 customers in the Milwaukee area are behind in their payments.

—The Potomac Electric Co., which supplies electricity to the District of Columbia, resumed cutoffs this week. Eight per cent of its accounts in February were delinquent, compared with 5 per cent in February, 1976.

Most utilities insist that customers will have a chance to straighten out their finances before they lose their power.

In Kansas, for instance, the Kansas Power & Light Co. said it has always had a policy of delaying payments during peak use months if the customer comes in and explains a legitimate hardship. The spokesman said KPL mails out 5,000 to 6,000 termination notices monthly, the great bulk of them just to spur people to pay their bills.

No Saturday deliveries by 1985

Panel paints grim postal picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Your mail won't be delivered on Saturday, more of your tax money will go toward subsidizing the Postal Service and you will have to pay 22 cents for every first-class letter you mail.

This is the grim picture of the mail service in 1985 as drawn by a federal commission studying the future of the financially troubled Postal Service, sources said.

The commission's recommendations to Congress are due by April 18, but participants said the panel has voted to recommend:

—Ending Saturday mail delivery to save $400 million per year.

—Increasing taxpayer subsidies by removing a ceiling imposed at the time the Postal Service was reorganized from the old Post Office Department in 1971.

The chances of Congress approving the recommendations appear slim.

But without these measures, the first-class rate would have to be increased to 22 cents by 1985 to cover the sharply rising cost of delivering the mail, sources said the commission determined.

Under the commission recommendations, the first-class rate would be held to "only" 22 cents per letter by 1985, the sources said.

First-class rates jumped from 10 to 13 cents on Dec. 31, 1975.

One commission member acknowledged that the recommendations will be unpopular. "We decided not to pay attention to what would be politically popular. We decided to recommend what we felt is needed," he said.

But, he added, "I don't think Congress is willing to accept elimination of Saturday delivery."

The sources said the commission voted 6-1 in favor of keeping the present structure of postal regulation, including groups that are under fire on Capitol Hill, such as the Postal Service board of governors and the Postal Rate Commission.

The vote on eliminating Saturday delivery was 5-2 and all seven commissioners favored increasing the subsidy, the sources said.

The commission decided not to make a recommendation on whether money-losing rural post offices should be closed, the sources said. The Postal Service has talked about closing some of its 30,000 post offices as an economy move, but there has been heavy opposition from Congress members representing rural districts.

The commission also decided to urge the Postal Service to "get seriously involved" with electronic communication, one source said. The mail agency has been considering electronic message services that would avoid some of the costs of sorting letters.

Congress established the commission last year after deciding not to tackle the thorny problems of the deficit-prone Postal Service during an election year. The report of the commission is expected to set off the most intensive congressional debate on the future of the mail service since the 1971 reorganization in which the service was formed from the old Post Office Department.

Saving children's lives

Aspirin safety caps are 'doing the job'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those safety caps on aspirin bottles may be aggravating to adults but they're saving children's lives, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

In 1972 there were 46 children in the United States who died from aspirin poisoning, commission officials said. But three years later that figure had dropped to 17.

Beginning in 1973, federal law required aspirin to be packaged so that the contents were not readily accessible to small children. Since then other potentially harmful products have been included in the packaging law, and officials said over-all poisonings of children by such substances have declined 47 per cent.

"There seems no doubt" that the special packaging "is exactly what the reason is" for the decline in aspirin poisoning, said Tom Davis of the commission.

Fred Marozzi, chief of the product analysis branch of the commission's division of poison prevention packaging, said that although there had been many educational programs seeking to teach parents the hazards of aspirin, the major decline in poisonings of children did not come until after the safety packaging came onto the market in 1973.

In addition to the 63 per cent drop in the number of children who died from aspirin poisoning, the number of children under age five poisoned by aspirin was cut nearly in half during the same the three-year period, Davis said.

There were 8,146 young children sickened by aspirin in 1972, he said, and by 1975 this had dropped to 4,840. Davis said the figures for aspirin poisonings were most easily available because that product was the first to be placed in safety containers.

Marozzi said there is a fairly constant level of complaints to the commission about the safety packages, primarily from elderly and handicapped persons who have trouble opening them.

He noted that the law allows manufacturers of products which require safety packaging to market one size in standard, easy-to-open packages as long as it is marked not for use in homes with children.

And, he said, prescription medicines can be provided in non-safety packages if requested by the patient or a physician.

"But we try to walk a thin line on this matter," Marozzi said, noting that the commission wants to provide the simpler packages for people who need them but doesn't want them in too widespread use where children can get at them.

And, he noted that persons who do require the older type packages need to exercise extra care when children are visiting them. "We do know many children get poisoned when visiting their grandparents," he said.

While the safety caps seem irritating, commission tests show most adults can open them but that most children under five can't.

The criterion calls for 90 per cent of adults to be able to open the bottles within five minutes after reading the instructions.

For children, 85 per cent must be unable to open it by themselves in five minutes, and 80 per cent must be unable to do so even after seeing it opened.

To mark death of winter

Festive frozen cranberry salad is Easter highlight

Long before there was an Easter, two symbols closely associated with this celebration — the rabbit and the egg — figured in spring festivals marking the "death of winter" and "birth of the sun."

The Egyptian moon hare who, according to legend, came out at night after the vernal equinox was probably the ancestor of our Easter Bunny. And in those days the egg, prized by ancients as a symbol of fertility and renewal, was sometimes dyed red — the color of life.

Today one of the ways we celebrate Easter is giving the children gifts of decorated eggs and toy bunnies. And most of us mark this important day with a very special dinner. Many families will choose traditional ham or lamb as a main course, while others may serve beef, pork roast or chicken. Here are two tasty salads which go equally well with any of these favorites.

Festive frozen cranberry salad can be made beforehand simply by combining all ingredients and freezing the mixture in a baking dish. No cooking's required when sweetened condensed milk is used. And Creamy Garden Salad Mold is an especially distinctive addition to the table — particularly if you're serving buffet-style.

To cap the feast, Easter Egg Roll with swirls of light, moist sponge cake and lemony filling makes an elegant dessert . . . it gives adults, as well as children, the chance to enjoy a delightful "Easter egg roll," whatever the weather!

FESTIVE FROZEN CRANBERRY SALAD
(Makes 15 servings)
1 can (14-ounce) sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup reconstituted lemon juice
1 can (16-ounce) whole berry cranberry sauce
1 can (20-ounce) crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 container (9-ounces) frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
Lettuce leaves
Whipped topping and chopped walnuts for garnish

In large bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. Stir in cranberry sauce, pineapple and nuts; fold in whipped topping. Spread in 13x9-inch baking dish. Freeze until firm. Remove from freezer 10 minutes before cutting. Serve on lettuce leaves. Return leftovers to freezer.

CREAMY PINEAPPLE GARDEN SALAD MOLD
(Makes one 2-quart mold)
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
2 cups white miniature marshmallows
1 can (14-ounce) sweetened condensed milk
1 can (20-ounce) crushed pineapple, undrained
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup shredded carrot
Lettuce leaves
Carrot curls

In small saucepan, stir gelatine into ½ cup pineapple juice; stir over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Pour into large bowl; stir in remaining juice. Chill until syrupy. Stir in marshmallows, sweetened condensed milk, pineapple, celery and shredded carrot. Pour into lightly oiled 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. To unmold, dip mold into warm water for a few seconds; invert onto lettuce-lined platter. Garnish with carrot curls. Refrigerate leftovers.

EASTER EGG ROLL
(Makes one 10-inch roll)
4 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
2/3 cup cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
Lemon filling

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In small mixer bowl, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored; gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar. Stir in extract and oil. In larger mixer bowl, beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add ½ cup sugar, beating until stiff but not dry. Fold yolks into whites. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Fold into egg mixture. Grease a 15½ x 10½-inch jellyroll pan, line with wax paper, grease again and lightly flour. Spread batter evenly in pan. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Immediately loosen sides; turn onto towel sprinkled with confectioners' sugar and remove wax paper. Starting at narrow end, roll cake with towel; cool thoroughly. Unroll. Spread with about ½ of the lemon filling; roll up and place on serving plate. Place a narrow piece of wax paper under long edges of roll. Frost cake with remaining filling. Garnish with tinted coconut. Remove wax paper. Refrigerate until serving time.

LEMON FILLING
(Makes about 3 cups)
1 can (14-ounce) sweetened condensed milk
1/3 cup reconstituted lemon juice
1 to 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
Few drops yellow food coloring
1 container (4½ ounce) frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed

In medium bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, rind and food coloring; fold in whipped topping. Chill 3 hours or until thickened.

To tint coconut: In small plastic bag, combine ½ cup coconut with few drops yellow food coloring and small amount of water; shake until thoroughly colored.

Flavors fully developed

Yogurt date coffeecake with orange peel accent

Here's a special yogurt coffeecake so scrumptious you'll be tempted to serve it for dessert. Full bodied, tangy yogurt used as liquid in the recipe and real creamery butter make the significant difference. The end result is a remarkably moist and flavorful coffeecake.

There are other special touches too — flavor accents of orange peel and chopped dates plus an orange juice and rum syrup that's poured over the baked cake while it's still warm from the oven. Let the tantalizing flavors develop fully by covering the cake and storing a day before serving. Baking in a shapely tube mold gives the cake a handsome appearance befitting its elegant taste.

Experts agree on several very good reasons — more moistness, better flavor and greater keeping qualities — for baking with yogurt and other fresh dairy products. Yogurt, of course, has its own unique flavor and smooth body that comes from careful development of a special lactic acid culture. This also makes it resistant to spoilage. By storing tightly covered in its original container in the refrigerator yogurt will keep for over two weeks. When using yogurt in a recipe, stir or blend it in gently to avoid breaking down its body.

Yogurt, plain, flavored or soft frozen is fast becoming one of California's favorite snack foods. And no wonder — it has the same nutritive value as the wholesome milk from which it is made. Plain yogurt contains a mere 120 to 160 calories per 8 ounces. Popular fruit flavored yogurts, often eaten as dessert, average about 225 calories per 8 ounces. Yogurt is available swiss style with the fruit and yogurt mixed, and sundae style with the fruit on the bottom of the carton.

YOGURT DATE COFFEECAKE
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 carton (8-ounce) plain yogurt
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
½ cup diced or chopped dates
½ cup orange juice
¼ cup rum

Beat together butter and 2/3 cup sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Blend in yogurt. Mix flour, soda, salt and orange peel. Stir into batter. Stir in dates. Turn into greased and floured 5 or 6-cup mold. Bake in 350 degree oven 50 to 55 minutes or until pick inserted into center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes in pan. Invert onto rack. Heat remaining 1/3 cup sugar with orange juice and rum, stirring to dissolve. Pierce cake with pick at ½-inch intervals. Slowly pour rum mixture into warm cake. Cover with plastic wrap. Cool. For best flavor, store 24 hours before serving. Makes 1 coffeecake, about 10 wedges.

Easter leg of lamb, spring fiesta salad holiday fare

Practically every family holiday is celebrated around the dining room table. There's Thanksgiving with the turkey and Christmas with a crackling roast goose. And some folks wouldn't dream of greeting the New Year without a succulent roast pork on the table. Easter has its specialty too, leg of lamb, representative of the fresh, green spring and the re-birth of things of the earth in the religious spirit of this holiday.

There are numerous ways to prepare lamb but those who are especially fond of this meat will tell you nothing beats a roast. Our version of Easter Leg of Lamb is roasted, but with a different preparation. The boned roast is spread with a mixture of fresh orange juice, mustard, parsley, scallions and seasonings and marinated in two more cups of fresh orange juice. The lively citrus flavor permeates the roast and enhances the distinctive, delicate taste of the lamb. One word of advice on roasting: however you feel about rare lamb take care not to overcook it. Roast lamb is at its best pink.

Using fresh oranges is particularly advantageous in this Easter menu. Lamb is one meat that is particularly good for reheating or recooking, depending on the original preparation. With the full, zesty-sweet flavor imparted by the fresh citrus any leftovers of this Easter Leg of Lamb will be especially delectable. And when making the marinade be sure to save the orange rinds to make attractive picot cups to be filled with cooked rice and peas and served on the meat platter.

Spring Fiesta Salad combining peeled and sliced fresh oranges, red onions and cucumbers, is a light, zippy accompaniment to the hearty roast and goes well with an easy but unusual Orange dressing made from frozen concentrated orange juice, oil and vinegar and seasonings

EASTER LEG OF LAMB

- 3 oranges, cut in picot cups
- 2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
- ½ cup chopped parsley
- ¼ cup chopped scallions
- 2 tablespoons orange juice (from orange cups)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- 2 cups orange juice (from orange cups)
- One 7-pound boned leg of lamb
- Hot cooked rice and peas

Prepare orange cups and reserve juice. Mix mustard, parsley, scallions, 2 tablespoons orange juice, salt, pepper, thyme and orange rind and spread on the side of boned leg that has no fat. Roll up and secure with string. Place in a deep bowl; add 2 cups orange juice and let stand at least 2 hours, loosely covered. Place lamb in roasting pan and reserve juice. Roast in 350 degree F. oven until meat thermometer inserted into center reads 150 degrees for medium rare, about 1 hour and 40 minutes, or to desired degree of doneness. Remove roast to serving platter. Spoon off all but 2 tablespoons drippings from roasting pan. Place pan over moderate heat. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour, and cook until browned. Gradually stir in reserved 2 cups orange juice and bring to a boil Cook, stirring until gravy is thickened. To serve, surround lamb with 6 picot orange cups filled with cooked rice and peas; serve gravy separately.

YIELD: 6 servings.

To make orange picot cups: Trace a line in the center of each orange. Insert small pointed knife in center of orange at an angle to make one side of a point. Remove knife, insert to make opposite side of point. Continue around orange, following line to keep halves equal size. Pull apart. Ream oranges for juice; remove membrane.

SPRING FIESTA SALAD

- 3 oranges, peeled and sliced
- 2 red onions, sliced
- 1 cucumber, sliced

Arrange orange slices, onion and cucumber slices in individual salad dishes. Serve with Orange French Dressing.

YIELD: 4 salads.

ORANGE FRENCH DRESSING

- 1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
- ½ cup salad oil
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Mix concentrated orange juice, salad oil, vinegar, sugar, dry mustard, salt and pepper in jar, bowl or bottle. Shake or beat until blended. Dressing may be stored covered in refrigerator. Shake well before using.

YIELD: 1½ cups dressing.

Easter Monday salad

On many a family calendar, the day after Easter is marked with this meal-planning reminder: Use up extra hard-boiled eggs!

This year, you can deliciously team up Easter's eggs with cooked chicken and crispy almonds in Easter Monday Salad. Celery and onion help flavor this satisfying dish, but it's the addition of toasted almond slivers that provides the intriguing taste and pleasing crunchiness.

The salad is lightly tossed with a tangy mayonnaise and dill pickle dressing before it's served on lettuce leaves. Crusty French bread makes a nice accompaniment.

Another time, remember that cooked turkey or ham can be used in this recipe for an equally delicious result.

EASTER MONDAY SALAD

- 1½ to 2 cups diced cooked chicken, turkey or ham
- ¾ cup sliced celery
- ½ cup toasted slivered almonds
- 3 tablespoons thinly sliced green onion
- 4 hard-cooked eggs
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
- ¼ cup chopped dill pickle
- Crisp lettuce

Combine chicken, celery, almonds and onion. Coarsely dice eggs over the mixture, and sprinkle with salt. Mix mayonnaise with lemon juice, mustard and pickle. Pour over salad mixture, and mix lightly. Serve on crisp lettuce.

Easter rites and feasting dates from time's dim mists

Easter as a holiday, not a Holy Day, has been commemorated since the dim mists of time. The Ancients celebrated it as the advent of spring and the beginning of food bounty. The Christian Easter, in fact, takes some of its customs from ancient pagan rites in joyous welcome to spring. The word "Easter" itself stems from the early Saxon expression for "rising" or "re-birth," and was the name given to the spring goddess and her festival.

The Vikings, for whom winter represented an especially long season of hardship, feasted to mark the first planting of crops and to celebrate animal fertility. In China and India, spring's fertility symbols were eggs and rabbits. Hence the Easter egg and bunny? Eggs were given religious significance early in Christian times, and it was the ban on the eating of eggs during Lent which led to the custom of exchanging decorated eggs as Easter gifts.

The Ukrainians added their individuality to the custom by embellishing eggs made of wood. Czarist Russia, however, brought the tradition to its zenith of elegance and elaboration. The wealthy aristocracy leaned toward dazzling jeweled eggs, the most famous being designed by the world-renowned French jeweler, Fauberge. Often made of purest gold, intricately patterned with precious stones and enamel work, they served as exquisite "nests" for even more valuable offerings — a highly-faceted diamond or ruby, perhaps. Today, for the most part, these treasures star in museum and private collections.

Egg art, far from being purely decorative, had deeper meanings. Red signified the blood of Christ — and still does in some countries. That a pig decoration presaged prosperity could be the clue to the origins of the piggy bank. Flowers for love and understanding, and the sun as a symbol of good luck, would seem still to bear reasonable significance, but the stag representing good health and the chicken the fulfillment of dreams, are more obscure in contemporary terms.

Along with these customs grew special traditions in food, some of which endure to this day. The pig and the lamb still play starring roles, much as they have for centuries. Wild boars were hunted down for the groaning boards of Scandinavia, England and Middle Europe; lambs were slaughtered for the Eastern Orthodox celebrations. Field salads featuring a variety of wild greens and herrings, a customary dish in some countries, marked the first appearance of fresh edibles in the countryside. Tansy, an aromatic and somewhat bitter plant which derives its name from the German word for "immortality," appeared as a flavoring in custards and cakes.

In Poland, a pig's head, boiled with spices and herbs and garlanded with leaves and flowers, centered a spread of ham and veal roasts and zesty sausages. The country Greeks still culminate their celebrations with a feast of many dishes, featuring spitted lamb and braided tsoureki, the bread with the red hard-boiled egg in the center. In the United States, ham and lamb are favored for Easter feasts — although there are non-traditionalists who opt for beef and poultry.

Contemporary custom breaks with ancient tradition is some important respects. The American who celebrates Easter no longer need be farmer, hunter and forager to provide a festive Easter table. Nor pay a king's ransom to serve a well-laden board.

Generally speaking — except for the occasional vagaries of nature as in this past winter's icy depredations of southern crops — the average American table can boast of being among the most generously laden, and most varied, in the world in any season. No date on our calendar marks any special season of plenty, because of the wide availability of flavorful and nutritious meats, poultry and produce at affordable prices year-round.

With meat the number one grocery sales item, the "why" behind our country's ability to continuously satisfy the American appetite for this basic food is reason enough for celebration. Instead of festive boards to mark the end of a boaring winter's diet of salted and dried meats, our remarkable scientific and technological advances in animal agriculture make it possible to celebrate the Christian Easter and the advent of spring for the religious meaning and the pleasures of seasonal change alone.

Meat products on today's American table are commonplace rather than a festival treat. The American farmer, supported by university and industry scientists, is the reason we have a bountiful meat supply. In the past quarter of a century, the farmer has increased his production of meat by 88 per cent.

Thanks to the science of genetics, today's specialized livestock and poultry produce more meat, milk and eggs. Improved nutrition contributes more effective use of feedstuffs, supplemented by vitamins and minerals for healthier, more productive animals.

An ever growing armamentarium of animal health products give the farmer and his veterinarian an unprecedented ability to prevent and treat diseases which just a generation ago would have decimated America's herds and flocks.

Those festive Easter tables laden with hams, lambs, beef or poultry didn't just happen. The mighty hunter-farmer-forager of old had to become today's modern American livestock and poultry producer.

Apricot fruit 'fools'

Today the word "fool" may conjure up the image of someone silly or unwise, but years ago it was used in a special term of endearment. And that's how sweet Fruit Fools got their name.

A delectable combination of pudding, fresh or pureed fruit or fruit preserves and whipped cream, Fruit Fools are the perfect ending to a springtime meal.

You may want to take time to prepare your fruit puree for fancier desserts, then dress up the Fruit Fools in beautiful parfait glasses. Or for quick 'n easy desserts you may want to simply blend together pudding and fruit preserves — both taken right from the refrigerator — with whipped cream.

Try different combinations of puddings and fruits. Here are two to whet your appetite and get your imagination going!

APRICOT FOOL

- 1 cup (4¼ oz.) refrigerated vanilla pudding
- ¼ cup apricot puree or preserves
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- ½ cup whipped cream
- Green grapes
- Walnut halves

In a small bowl combine pudding, apricot puree, lemon peel and almond extract; mix well. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into two dessert dishes. Garnish with grapes and walnut halves.

Makes 2 servings.

BANANA FOOL

- 1 cup (4¼ oz.) refrigerated chocolate pudding
- ½ medium banana, mashed
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon grated orange peel
- ½ cup whipped cream
- Orange peel curls

In a small bowl combine pudding, banana, vanilla and orange peel; mix well. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into two dessert dishes. Garnish with orange peel curls.

Meal-in-a-bowl split pea soup a nutritious treat

No matter how you cook it, simmered in the time-honored Dutch oven or slow-cooked for hours in a low-heat electric cook-pot, this unusual, economical, whole-meal soup made with split peas adds a bonus of good eating to the week's meal plans. Delicious, nutritious, this no-soak, quick-cook legume adapts easily to the no-fuss, no-watch methods of both.

MEAL-IN-A-BOWL SPLIT PEA SOUP
(makes twelve 1 cup servings

- 1 pound washed green split peas
- 6 cups cold water or stock
- 2 cups canned tomatoes (16-ounce can)
- 1 package (12-ounce) frozen chopped spinach (1½ cups cooked or canned)
- 1½ or 2 cups sliced raw carrots
- ¾ cup chopped onion (1 medium)
- 1 fat clove garlic, thin-sliced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 meaty ham bone (see notes)

To cook: put all in 3½ to 4 quart Dutch oven or heavy saucepot. The spinach need not be thawed. Slowly bring to boiling point in uncovered kettle. When boiling, reduce heat to simmer. Cover and let cook 4 hours preferably, stirring occasionally. May be cooked in a slow (300 degrees oven).

If one of the new low-heat, slow-cook 3½ quart electric cook-pots is used, place all in the pot, cover and cook on low for 12 to 15 hours, following manufacture's instructions.

TAKE-YOUR-CHOICE IDEAS:

—Vegetables: skinned fresh tomatoes may be used. Or canned spinach. Carrots look nice sliced on the bias.

—That "meaty ham bone"! Best of all meat flavors. Take meat from bone just before serving. Cube and sprinkle on top of soup in tureen. A smoked ham hock or two may be used but they're not a good buy, price and waste-wise. A half-pound piece of uncut bacon is good. Large bones from a pork roast are all right. A stock may be used to make up for the absence of a meat in the cooking. Chicken stock is tasty and different. If a stock is giving the flavor, slice hot frankfurters over the soup in tureen or individual soup bowls. Or use cubed luncheon meat or boiled ham.

—Seasonings: taste for salt toward the end of the cooking period. It will depend upon the "meat flavor" used. Herbs added a half-hour before the soup has finished cooking gives a flair. Try savory and oregano, fresh or dried. Go easy. Better not add if you're freezing the soup.

—Split peas: yellow split peas may be used. The flavor is just a little different from the green. Or use 1/3 yellow split peas, 2/3 green.

Note: the soup will thicken as it stands in the refrigerator or when thawed after freezing. If necessary, add a little water or stock to bottom of kettle before reheating slowly. Watch this or the soup may scorch.

To Serve: this hearty soup is so complete with its protein-rich split peas, though little meat, and its abundance of vegetables that it needs only a loaf of bread, a favorite Sour Dough or a black bread with whipped butter, plain or garlic-flavored. Topped off with a dessert of fruit and cookies and/or cheese. You'll like a shaker of Parmesan cheese to sprinkle over the soup (in hot bowls or soup plates of course.) This meal makes for a good year-round buffet luncheon or supper.

Counting calories? Split peas and vegetables cooked in stock will average 95 calories per 1-cup serving. Meat additions of about 2 ounces will run around 160 calories — boiled or baked ham, spiced canned ham, a frankfurter. This should add up to a total of 255 calories.

SALADS WITH A SPOON

Lentils which need no soaking, cook quickly, and hold their shape make good hearty whole meal salads. Drain well, and while still hot, carefully stir in your favorite French Dressing (tomato-free). Cover and refrigerate. Then add some chopped sweet onion or thin-sliced green onions. Cover. Place in refrigerator several hours or overnight. This basic recipe will do all manner of tricks for you. But, most unusual are these:

—Cut well-ripened avocados in half. Fill each half with the well chilled basic Lentil Salad mixture to which has been added small cubes of boiled or baked ham and small bits of pineapple, fresh or canned. Serve with hot cheese biscuits.

—Use small ripe cantaloupe halves as containers for the Lentil Salad, topping with slivers of baked ham or cooked breast of chicken or Italian ham. Serve well-chilled, with sprigs of watercress and/or Sweet Spanish onion rings, and hot buttered rolls. Slices of larger melon may be used instead of the smallish halved cantaloupes.

As a main dish for a buffet luncheon or supper use the Basic Lentil Salad turned out in center of chilled chop plate. For garnish-topping, use snippets of crisp cooked bacon and slices of stuffed green olives or hard-cooked eggs or chopped parsley. Arrange around edge of plate slices of cold meat, turkey or chicken, tomato slices, and thin crisp rings of sweet onion. Serve with hot garlic-buttered French bread slices.

To cook lentils: wash in colander 1 pound (2 and 1/3 cups) lentils. This is easy measuring, since lentils are usually in 1-pound packages. Place in heavy saucepan. Add 5 cups cold water, 2 teaspoons salt; bring to boiling point. Reduce heat to simmer. Cover tightly. Cook 30 minutes. Makes 6 and ¾ cups cooked lentils with about a cup of liquid. When making salad with the cooked lentils, this liquid makes a nice hot sipping soup.

Artichoke antipasto for Easter

An Easter centerpiece is twice as valuable in family appreciation if it is edible.

One could set this lovely appetizer at each place just before calling everyone to the dinner table. Watch eyes light up in admiration of the artistry shown; even more approval will come as the taste proves to be as favorable as the appearance.

If a big meal is to follow, one Easter Artichoke Antipasto can easily serve two people. Children, especially, will enjoy this different Easter Egg presentation.

Artichokes are in their spring harvest season now with especially fine quality, according to growers.

EASTER ANTIPASTO
(Makes 8 servings)

- 8 artichokes, prepared as directed and chilled
- 2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
- ½ teaspoon seasoned salt
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- Few drops yellow food coloring
- 12 hard-cooked eggs, chilled
- 32 pimiento-stuffed olives

Remove a few outside leaves from each artichoke; reserve. Blend together cream cheese, seasoned salt and mayonnaise; add enough yellow food coloring to give bright yellow color. Using pastry bag and medium-size star tube, half fill centers of artichokes with part of cheese mixture. Place one hard-cooked egg in center of each artichoke; pipe some cheese mixture onto egg, as desired, to resemble decorated Easter egg.

Cut remaining eggs in eights lengthwise. Surround each artichoke with reserved cooked leaves, sliced eggs and remaining pimiento-stuffed olives. Use any remaining cheese mixture to garnish artichokes. Chill before serving.

CRANBERRY COCONUT LAMB FOR EASTER

For Easter festivities

Cranberry coconut lamb cake, 'candy eggs' listed

Suddenly it's spring and everything is bright, beautiful and blossoming. We gaily welcome and celebrate this sweet season with Easter festivities to delight all — a special breakfast, egg rolling on the lawn or an egg hunt, a walk in our Easter finery — and of course, a dinner gathering family and friends.

Make your Easter especially enchanting this year. In addition to the favorite foods you traditionally cook, consider the pleasure of preparing and presenting new and delicious treats inspired by the occasion.

You're bound to start a wonderfully new tradition when you bake a fabulous "Cranberry Coconut Lamb Cake." Placed on your buffet table the cake will be an eye pleasing, edible centerpiece sure to delight children and adults alike. The batter combines an easy cake mix and cranberry-orange relish. After baking in a lamb shaped mold, the cake is spread with a frosting piquantly flavored with cranberry apple drink.

Once frosted, the cake is generously covered with coconut, and the lamb face is created with colorful jelly beans, which are also used to colorfully surround the lamb on its platter.

Another pleasing recipe to consider for your celebration is "Berry Pink 'N Creamy Punch." It combines cranberry juice cocktail, ginger ale, applesauce, pumpkin pie spice and heavy cream for a frothy, delectable concoction. Serve it in a punch bowl or by pitcher.

A last treat, easily prepared days ahead, is "Cranberry Candy Eggs." They tastefully combine graham cracker crumbs, cranberry-orange relish, nuts, white chocolate, shortening, and flaked coconut. Place these in baskets, and do make enough so that you can give them to your guests at the end of your enchanting Easter party.

CRANBERRY COCONUT LAMB CAKE

1 package (17 oz.) poundcake mix
1/3 cup cranberry-orange relish
1 package (15.4 oz.) vanilla frosting mix
3 tablespoons vegetable shortening
½ cup hot cranberry-apple drink
1 can (3½ oz.) flaked coconut
Colored jelly beans

Prepare poundcake mix according to package directions using ¼ cup less milk. Stir in relish. Pour batter into a well greased and floured lamb cake mold. Into part of the mold showing lamb's face, pour cake batter; level off with spatula; cover with other part of mold. Bake, cool and remove cake as directed on package. Finish cooling lamb on rack, set right side up. In a bowl, mix frosting mix, shortening and cranberry-apple drink. Stir until smooth and well blended. Place lamb on serving platter. Gently spread frosting over entire lamb. Press coconut into frosting covering entire lamb. Completely surround lamb with colored jelly beans. Use 2 red jelly beans halved crosswise for eyes and one halved lengthwise for nose. Makes one lamb mold.

BERRY PINK 'N CREAMY PUNCH

1 quart (4 cups) cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
1 quart (4 cups) ginger ale, chilled
1 pint (2 cups) applesauce
1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
1 cup (½ pint) heavy or whipping cream
Sugar to taste

Combine all ingredients in a bowl and beat until well blended and frothy. Add sugar to taste and stir until sugar is dissolved. Serve in a large pitcher for easy pouring. Serves 8.

CRANBERRY CANDY EGGS

1 package (13 oz.) graham cracker crumbs
1 jar (14 oz.) cranberry-orange relish
1 cup chopped nuts
1 can (3½ oz.) flaked coconut
6 ounces white chocolate
¼ cup vegetable shortening
Red food coloring

In a bowl, mix crumbs, relish, nuts and coconut. Shape into large egg shaped candies. In a saucepan set over simmering water melt chocolate with shortening. Stir in food coloring until a soft pink. Dip candy eggs into chocolate covering them completely. Place on foil. Chill until firm. If desired, after eggs are dipped, roll in coconut before placing on foil.

Organic food is healthy, 'tasty'

Homemakers concerned with buying and preparing nutritious and good tasting foods for their families are being needlessly intimidated by the words "organic" and "natural," accordingto the California Dietetic Association, San Gabriel Valley Area District.

Choosing the best foods for maximum fitness does not depend on seeking out and purchasing expensive organically or naturally grown products.

When selecting from the Four Food Groups (milk, meats, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals), the homemaker can be assured of purchasing nutritionally sound food in any supermarket.

Foods grown in humus enriched with organic fertilizers are in reality no richer in food value than their counterparts grown in soil fortified with chemical fertilizers, according to a recent article in Nutrition & the M.D.

Organic compounds such as nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium found in compost and manure and used to grow so-called "natural" foods are used by the food-producing plant only after being broken down into chemical units. These units are exactly the same as those supplied by chemical fertilizers.

In addition, compost and manure are unreliable sources of several minerals needed in small amounts by food-producing plants. These minerals, which include calcium, iron, zinc, and copper, can readily be added to the soil in the proper amounts with the use of chemical fertilizers.

Foods labeled "organic" or "natural" are also invariably priced higher than regular supermarket foods. A USDA survey shows that such food costs an average of 85 per cent more than the same food grown with chemical fertilizers.

Commemorating Hebrew exodus

Orange grapefruit torte traditional Passover fare

Progress Bulletin
Food
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, March 30, 1977

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

If a little is good, a lot is better. This especially is true of desserts and baked goods for Passover. The Passover holiday which begins sundown April 2 calls for a very special feast to commemorate the Hebrew exodus from Egypt. At this time Jews throughout the world observe strict dietary laws during this very traditional celebration.

Sweets always have been a perfect closer for the holiday meal. Eggs have been a mainstay in Jewish cooking for Passover since they provide lightness and volume that is obtained at other times with yeast or other leavening. Hard-cooked eggs are served with salt or salt water during the Seders and go into matzo balls and sponge cakes that are so much a part of the occasion. Perfect desserts for Passover can be very elegant, and rich, despite restrictions, for example, an orange grapefruit torte using layers of baked meringue, a cream pie or a strawberry ambrosia shortcake. Shalom and next year in Jerusalem!

ORANGE GRAPEFRUIT TORTE

1½ cups sugar, divided
1 cup finely ground almonds
2/3 cup potato starch
⅛ teaspoon grated grapefruit rind
9 egg whites

In a large bowl mix one-half cup sugar, almonds, potato starch and grapefruit rind. In a large bowl beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in remaining 1 cup sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites into almond mixture. On brown paper, draw five seven-inch circles. Place brown paper on baking sheet. Turn meringue into pastry bag with large star tip. Pipe six small kisses on brown paper and pipe circles inside outlines on peper. Fill in circles with remaining meringue. If pastry bag is not available drop kisses from teaspoon and spread meringue inside circles. Bake in 300-degree oven 1 hour, until dry and lightly browned. Turn oven off and allow meringue to cool in oven.

Filling:
3 tablespoons potato starch
¾ cup orange juice
¾ cup grapefruit juice
¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
9 egg yolks

In the top of a double boiler stir potato starch with a little juice until dissolved. Add remaining orange and grapefruit juice, sugar and salt. Beat in egg yolks. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens and mounds when dropped from a spoon 13 to 16 minutes. Mixture will be lumpy. Chill for 1 to 2 hours. To assemble torte, spread top of each meringue layer with orange-grapefruit filling. Stack layers and place kisses on top. Garnish with orange and grapefruit sections. Makes 8 servings.

PASSOVER ORANGE CREAM PIE

Pie Crust:
½ cup matzo meal
¾ cup finely chopped almonds
¼ cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

In a medium bowl mix all ingredients. Press on the bottom and sides of a greased 9-inch pie plate. Bake in 400-degree oven 20 minutes, until golden brown. Crust will slide to bottom of pan. When removed from oven, immediately push crust up sides of pie plate with a spoon or spatula. Cool completely.

Filling:
1¼ cups potato starch
1¼ cups milk
2/3 cups sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
5 eggs beaten
1¼ cups orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind

In the top of a double boiler mix potato starch with a little milk until dissolved. Add remaining milk, sugar and salt. Beat in eggs. Stir in orange juice and rind. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens and mounds when dropped from a spoon, 15 to 20 minutes. Mixture will be lumpy. Turn into prepared pie crust. Chill, covered with waxed paper, 3 hours. Pie is best when served same day. Makes 8 servings.

PASSOVER FRUIT PUFFS

½ cup orange juice
½ cup water
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1 cup matzo meal
⅛ teaspoon salt
4 eggs

In medium saucepan combine orange juice, water and butter. Bring to a boil. Add matzo meal, stirring constantly until well blended. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs one at a time. Drop by heaping tablespoons onto a greased baking sheet. Bake in a 450 degree oven 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 325 degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes longer, or until puffs are browned and dry. Cool on wire rack. Cut cap from top and scoop out inside. Fill with Orange Fruite Filling, replace top. Makes 16 pufs.

ORANGE FRUIT FILLING

¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons potatp starch
1 cup orange juice
1 package (10 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed

In medium saucepan mix sugar and potato starch. Stir in orange juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in raspberries and simmer 1 minute, continuing to stir. Chill.

PASSOVER STRAWBERRY AMBROSIA SHORTCAKE

Cake Batter:
8 eggs, separated
1½ cups sugar
2/3 cups orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¾ cup Passover cake meal
½ cup potato starch
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup finely chopped nuts
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Strawberry Ambrosia Topping

Topping:
1 carton strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced
2 cups orange sections
2 medium bananas, sliced
1/3 cup flaked coconut
¼ cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon sugar

For shortcake, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add sugar, beating after each addition until mixture is light but very thick. Add orange juice and beat well (about 3 minutes on electric mixer). Stir in orange rind. Sift together cake meal, potato starch, salt and cinnamon. Add nuts and mix lightly. Fold dry ingredients gently into beaten egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gently fold into cake batter, blending well. Spoon into 9 or 10-inch ungreased tube pan. Bake in 350 degree oven for 1 hour or until done.

While cake is baking, make ambrosia. Place strawberries, oranges, bananas and coconut in bowl. Sprinkle with sur sugar. Let stand at room temperature. Whip cream with vanilla and one tablespoon sugar until soft peaks form, chill.

When cake is done, invert pan and cool cake before removing. Cut into 2 layers with serrated knife. Place bottom layer on plate. Spread with one-third of whipped cream and top with two-thirds of ambrosia. Pour juices (from sugared fruit) over the ambrosia and top with another one-third of whipped cream. Center second cake layer over filling, spread with remaining ambrosia. Makes 8 servings.

Homemade treat

Orange Easter basket cookies

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

How many families have pictures of their children when they were tots showing them happily clutching a well-filled Easter basket? Egg rolling and the filling of mini-baskets with candies and fruit remain customs for many.

Here are some Easter candies and cookies to make and instructions on how to make a basket from an orange just for those special youngsters' delight.

ORANGE EASTER BASKET COOKIES

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup packed light brown sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
½ cup milk
1 cup raisins
1 cup quick or regular oats, uncooked
½ cup chopped nuts

In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and orange rind. In a small bowl mix flour, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add to cream mixture alternately with undiluted orange juice concentrate and milk. Stir in raisins, oats and nuts. Drop by teaspoon 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Remove to rack and cool. Makes about 4 dozen.

GOOD HEALTH EASTER CANDIES

2¾ cups graham cracker crumbs
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
½ cup finely chopped walnuts
½ cup snipped pitted dates
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
¼ cup light corn syrup
½ cup frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
1 can (3½ oz.) flaked coconut

Combine all ingredients except coconut in bowl. Mix well. Shape into balls about three-fourths of an inch in diameter. Roll each ball in coconut. Store in air-tight container. Flavor improves on storage. Makes 3 to 4 dozen.

EASTER BASKETS

To make handle, make two vertical cuts in top of orange one-fourth inch apart, going halfway down sides of orange. At right angles to these cuts, make two other cuts to form two open L shapes. Cut out pulp from handle and inside of basket. (This may be reserved for later use in juice or fruit cup mixtures.) Pull out membrane. Fill orange baskets with Good Health Easter Candies.

Made lively with oranges

Greek Easter bread, hot cross buns 'ethnic' flare

Of the scores of ethnic groups living in the United States, Greek Americans are among the most fiercely loyal to the customs of their native land. The Hellenic culture extols life and living at every point. Food is entwined in every beautiful tradition for reasons of symbolism, celebration, nourishment and above all, pleasure. Greeks love to dine and appreciate good food, conversation and happy times, especially holidays.

The Easter holiday is one of deep religious significance for the Greeks and certain foods are included to signify the solemnity and joy of the occasion. Greeks in their native land and Greek Americans participate in a lovely Easter eve candlelight ceremony. Around midnight the church is darkened and the priest comes from the altar with a lighted taper to pass a flame from candle to candle, symbolizing the Christian re-birth and unity.

The participants return to their homes and continue with the Easter observance with special foods. The Greek Easter Bread is one tradition. This coiled, sweet loaf is adorned with a yellow dyed hard-cooked egg, with the egg as a sign of life.

Our Greek Easter Bread is made with lively fresh orange juice and sprinkled with orange rind before baking.

Hot Cross Buns take us to another part of Europe. Long time favorites of the Lenten-Easter season, Hot Cross Buns were originated in 14th century England for churchgoers who had to travel great distances to worship and needed some nourishment along the way.

We've made fruity, sweet and fresh tasting Orange Hot Cross Buns by adding orange juice to the yeast dough mixture. The buns are baked, then cooled and drizzled with the typical simple glaze made with confectioner's sugar and water.

Serve both these breads during your Easter celebration and mark the occasion with rich, time honored traditions from Europe. They're nice as breakfast breads spread with butter, or as evening snacks served with mugs of hot coffee.

GREEK EASTER BREAD

2 packages active dry yeast
¼ cup warm orange juice
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
½ cup sweet butter, softened
2 tablespoons grated orange rind, divided
1 hard-cooked egg in the shell, dyed yellow with vegetable food coloring
1 egg yolk, lightly beaten

Dissolve yeast in warm orange juice in a small bowl or cup. Combine 1½ cups flour, sugar and salt in a deep mixing bowl. Gradually stir in the yeast mixture and the eggs. Beat until well mixed. Beat in the softened butter and 1 tablespoon orange rind; add remaining 1 cup flour to form a soft dough. Form into a ball (the dough will be sticky) and place on a lightly floured surface. Knead for 10 minutes or until the dough is smooth and elastic. Form into a ball and place in a greased clean bowl, cover and let rise in a warm, draft-free place for 2½ hours or until the dough doubles in bulk. Punch down and turn out on a lightly floured surface. Shape the dough into a spiral loaf by rolling it into a thick rope about 2 inches in diameter and 24 inches long. Starting at one end, loop the rope into a circle about 6 inches in diameter, and then into smaller concentric circles. Transfer to a greased baking sheet, cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 1 hour. Press the dyed egg gently into the center of the loaf and brush the top of the loaf with the beaten egg yolk; sprinkle remaining 1 tablespoon orange rind on top. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes, or until golden brown and crusty. Cool completely on a rack before serving.

YIELD: 8 to 10 servings.

ORANGE HOT CROSS BUNS

¾ cup hot orange juice
½ cup margarine or butter, softened
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
2 packages active dry yeast
½ cup warm orange juice
3 eggs
1 cup light raisins
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour

Pour hot orange juice over softened butter, sugar, cinnamon and salt in a large bowl. Cool to luke warm. Dissolve yeast in the ½ cup warm orange juice. Add to the butter mixture with eggs and well. Add raisins and grated rind. Gradually beat in enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on a floured surface and knead until smooth. Place in a greased clean large bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place until double, about 2 hours. Punch down and turn onto floured surface. Shape the dough into 18 round balls. Place on 2 greased baking sheets, cover and let rise until double, about 1 hour. With scissors or a razor blade cut a cross in the top of each bun. Bake at 350 degrees oven for 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove to a rack and cool slightly. Drizzle Glaze over cross on top of each bun.

Yield: 18 buns.

GLAZE

1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon boiling water

In a small mixing bowl stir sugar and water until creamy.

Holiday salad

Arrange canned pineapple slices on crisp lettuce. Top with cubes of jellied cranberry sauce. Drizzle with French dressing.

Cocktail Salad

This interesting blend of flavors and textures taste good so many ways. It's perfect as a salad, a main course, or with crackers or hot buttered bread. Or serve small portions as an appetizer. Combine pineapple chunks, apple or pear slices, orange segments, thin celery slices, chopped green onion, cooked small shrimp and delectable California Walnuts, toasted for extra crispness. Serve with a mayonnaise and catsup dressing perked with a little horseradish and lemon juice. Spoon onto leafy lettuce or glass serving dishes.

Introducing the Thomas E. Wilson Masterpiece Ham.

So lean and juicy, it truly is "a masterpiece."

THOMAS E. WILSON What makes our new boneless ham a masterpiece?

First, we start with the very heart of the ham – the tender, inner filet. Then we trim away all the excess fat to make it as lean as it can be. Next, we cure it in a new way that seals in the natural juices making it tender, moist and juicy. The result is a boneless ham that's both lean and juicy at the very same time. We invite you to try our new Masterpiece Ham while this special introductory offer lasts. Save 50c when you buy it. And get a $3.00 refund coupon that is good for your next purchase.

Once you do, we think you'll agree that Thomas E. Wilson's new lean and juicy ham really is "a masterpiece."

Save $3.50 on the Thomas E. Wilson Masterpiece Hams.

Fruit bars, concord fizz energy-giving 'goodies'

Children use up a lot of energy when they play, but that energy can be restored with nourishing food and beverages. Fortunately, most energy-giving foods are delicious and easy to eat and drink. Concord grape juice, for example, is a delicious, refreshing beverage with natural fruit sugars. Young children love the flavor of purple grape juice. Their parents love it also and frequently mix grape juice with ginger ale or club soda for an energy-giving boost after a strenuous game of golf or tennis. This combination of concord grape juice and soda is commonly called a "transfusion."

Here are two delicious, energy-giving treats that are perfect between-meal snacks. They will replenish energy used up during play and provide happy nibbling that won't spoil supper appetites.

FRUIT BARS
(Makes 2 dozen cookies)
1 cup finely chopped dried apricots
1 cup raisins
½ cup currants
½ cup finely chopped pecans
1 cup concord grape jam
2 eggs
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon allspice
2 cups unsifted flour
Confectioners' sugar

Combine all ingredients, except flour. Blend well. Sprinkle flour over mixture and mix thoroughly. Spread mixture into greased and floured 10 x 15-inch baking pan. Bake at 300 degrees F. for 35 minutes. Cut into bars or desired shapes. Return to oven for 5 minutes longer to dry out cut surfaces. Cool on wire rack. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

CONCORD FIZZ
(Serves four)
2 cups concord grape juice
1 cup apple cider
1 cup orange-grapefruit juice
2 cloves
1 cinnamon stick
¼ teaspoon chopped candied ginger
1 bottle (12 ounces) ginger ale, chilled
Orange slices

In saucepan, combine all ingredients except soda. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Strain and chill thoroughly.

Just before serving, combine grape mixture and ginger ale. Garnish with orange slices. Serve over ice.

Pie Perfection

Spoon eggnog pie filling into a chocolate cookie crumb crust; garnish with toasted sliced almonds.

Down east haddock st-oup body warmer

Old man winter being in no hurry to leave this year, these hearty generous "st-oups" make a body warming complete meal just right for blustery weather.

A new idea combining soup and stew — "st-oup" — these recipes use simple basic ingredients — fish, poultry, vegetables, nothing exotic. The seasoning is liquid all vegetable gravy seasoning and browning sauce giving more natural taste and flavor without adding artificial ingredients.

DOWN EAST HADDOCK ST-OUP
2 large onions, thinly sliced
2 leaks, trimmed and halved lengthwise
1 large carrot, sliced
3 tablespoons shortening
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup kernel corn
½ cup slices mushrooms
2 potatoes, sliced
5 cups beef or chicken broth, or stock
1 tablespoon Gravy Master
Salt and pepper to taste
Pinch crushed thyme
1 pound package frozen haddock fillets, thawed
Parsley

Cook onions, leeks and carrot in hot shortening 5 minutes. Sprinkle with flour and stir in. Stir in remaining ingredients, except fish. Cook, covered, over moderate heat about 25 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Separate thawed fish fillets and add to st-oup. Cook about 10 minutes until fish flakes easily with fork. Garnish with parsley and serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

SPANISH VEGETABLE AND BEEF ST-OUP
1 pound beef chuck, cut in 4 equal chunks
1 ham bone or ham hock
2 large onions, chopped
2 large carrots, cut in chunks
1 white turnip, diced
1 clove garlic
2 potatoes, quartered
About 2 quarts cold water
1 tablespoon Gravy Magter
3 leeks, sliced
1 can (8 oz.) chick peas, drained
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper

Combine beef, ham bone or hock, onions, carrots, turnip, garlic and potato in large kettle. Add cold water, using using more than 2 quarts if necessary to cover ingredients. Bring to a boil, skim; reduce heat and simmer, covered, for about 1 hour. Add remaining ingredients and continue to simmer, covered, for an additional hour. Test beef for doneness.

Buttermilk fruit bread contribution from past

As we enter the third century of American iving, there is still much to be gained from the contributions and heritage left behind by those who proceeded us.

They had to rely on ingenuity, wisdom, nature and the true spirit of adventure just to meet their bare necessities. While the patriarch cleared away the underbrush and trees, or broke the sod with his crude plow, or accomplished any one of the 100 and one necessary chores -- the colonial homemaker relied on her own wit and inventiveness to spin, weave, sew and cook — to give her family the kind of nourishment and protection needed to build a farm in the wilderness.

The early American kitchen was the heart of the home — the room where most of the living was done, often endowed with eight to 10 feet fireplaces. Drafts and cold filled the corners of the house.

But the colonists used the uncomfortable housing to their benefit. They aged sides of bacon and ham in the rafters, stored fruits and vegetables in rootcellars, corn in the crib and wheat in the granary. They knew the security of food to cook and eat when the cold winds and blizzards covered their terrain with snow. The man of the house qualified as a good marksman to provide fresh meat and fowl, and a butcher as well to dress and cut either his game or domestic animals.

A hard life, indeed, but it provided the basis for our American enterprise — right down to the food we eat today.

Even though today's household staples come in a much different and convenient way — they are similar to those of the 18th century.

Milk, butter, flour, salt and sugar served as a mainstay for simple breads and baked goods. Today we supplement these with fresh and frozen meats, vegetables and fruits all year around. Two hundred years ago, Americans relied on wild game, fresh fish, smoked and salted meats they prepared, roots and squash that kept well several months in a cool place.

Bread in the very earliest years of the United States was still made with the Indian staple that greeted the first settlers — corn. Corn meal and Boston brown breads both utilized this life-giving food that made it possible for the very first Americans to weather their initial winter in the new world.

Only when wheat began growing bounteously on the great plains did the breads of Europe began making their way into the frontier homes. But the first of these were baked from whole grain flours with butter, milk, salt and sugar.

Much of the bread talked about in frontier days qualified as hard tack — really just a mixture of water and flour — baked into a brown crusty flat bread. People also relied on pancakes or flapjacks — the food of the lumber jack. "Starter" for sourdough and other breads became the prized possession of the housewife, and later the special treasure of prospectors, hunters and the "gold rushers."

Even with today's wide variety of ingredients, it is still possible to bake these age-old favorites. But the making and baking is much easier and tailored to streamlined life-style.

BUTTERMILK FRUIT BREAD

- 3 cups enriched flour
- 2 cups whole wheat flour
- 2 packages dry yeast
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup water
- 1/3 cup butter
- ½ cup buttermilk
- 2 eggs, room temperature
- 1½ cup chopped candied fruit or golden raisins

Stir together flours. In large bowl place 1¾ cups flour mixture, yeast, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Heat water and butter to warm (120 degrees to 130 degrees). Remove from heat; stir in buttermilk. Add liquid to flour mixture and beat 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Add eggs; continue beating 2 minutes more. Stir in candied fruit. Add enough more flour to make stiff dough. Rest dough 5 minutes. On floured board knead dough 5 to 8 minutes. Cover with bowl and let rest 30 minutes. Shape into 2 oblong loaves. Brush with oil. Let rise 30 minutes. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 25 minutes. Cool. Drizzle with confectioners' sugar icing, if desired.

COLONIAL SPICE CAKE
(1 cake)

- ¾ cup butter, softened
- 1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 3 eggs
- 3 cups enriched flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon ground allspice
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 cup apple cider or apple juice
- ¾ cup milk

Cream together butter and sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Stir together dry ingredients. Combine cider and milk. Thoroughly blend flour into creamed mixture alternately with cider mixture, beginning and ending with flour. Pour into 3 greased and waxed paper lined 8-inch round cake pans. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes, or until done. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pans. Cool completely before frosting with Vanilla Frosting.

Vanilla Frosting

- 1 cup butter, softened
- 4 cups confectioners' sugar
- 1/3 cup dark corn syrup
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract

Beat together butter, sugar, corn syrup and vanilla until smooth. If necessary add more sugar until proper spreading consistency is reached.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD
(2 one-pound loaves)

- 1 cup enriched flour
- 1 cup rye flour
- 1 cup corn meal
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 2 cups buttermilk
- ¾ cup dark molasses

Stir together flours, cornmeal, soda, salt, raisins and nuts. Combine buttermilk and molasses; add all at once to dry mixture. Mix well. Fill 2 well greased coffee cans or 1-pound molds with batter 2/3 full. Cover molds with double thickness of aluminum foil; fasten securely. Put two to three quarts of water in large covered pan with rack in bottom. Bring water to a boil. Place molds or cans in pan; reduce heat and steam for 1½ hours. When finished, remove bread from molds immediately.

RAISIN BARS
(24 bars)

- 1 pound seedless raisins
- 2 cups water
- 3 cups enriched flour
- 4½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ½ cup butter or shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup chopped nuts, optional

Simmer raisins in water 15 minutes. Cool slightly. Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Cream together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add raisin mixture with water. Thoroughly blend flour mixture into creamed mixture. Fold in nuts. Pour into greased 15½ x 10½-inch jelly roll pan. Bake in preheated 325 degree oven 30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan. Cut into 2 x 3-inch bars.

BUTTERMILK BISCUITS

- 2 cups enriched flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup shortening
- ½ to 3/4 cup buttermilk

Stir together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Blend in enough milk to make soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead gently 30 seconds. Roll out ½-inch thick. Cut out biscuits with floured cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in preheated 450 degree oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned.

Manhattan fish soup-stew set

It's easy to tell whether clam chowder is pointing toward Manhattan or New England. The latter boasts a milk or cream base while the former shouts Manhattan in bright red tomato. By that easy rule, a "Manhattan Fish Soup-Stew" points red loud and clear.

This soup-stew is a hearty meal-in-one, especially appropriate for the colder days of March and the end of winter. Not only is the soup-stew a delicious treat but it's an economical one, just right before tax time.

It begins the economy drive because the recipe calls for fish fillets, fresh or frozen. Almost any species of fish will do and when there's a special on one, it's the star to use, making the recipe even more economical than usual. Included in the recipe, developed by the National Marine Fisheries Service, are vegetables, potato soup, and evaporated milk. Of course tomatoes are a necessary part of the soup-stew, both for flavor and to make it a genuine Manhattan-style chowder. Onion salt and thyme season the stew delicately.

Because the meal is complete in individual bowls, all that's needed is a simple salad such as head lettuce wedges with a favorite dressing and biscuits, crackers, or crusty bread. Dessert? An interesting choice would be gingerbread squares with lemon pudding sauce.

Fish does go a long way as far as flavor, nutrition, and economy are concerned. The National Fishery Education Center in Chicago brings the news to every kitchen by way of its booklet, "A Little Fish Goes A Long Way." The booklet, filled with many interesting, economical recipes and complete menu suggestions, is available by sending check or money order for 65 cents for each booklet, along with name, address, and zip code to: Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Please list the number of the booklet, 003-020-00074-6, and give the title, "A Little Fish Goes a Long Way."

A hearty meal-in-one points the Manhattan way as Manhattan Fish Soup-Stew is served on a very cold day. The budget can relax since the dinner is interestingly economical. Try it and see.

MANHATTAN FISH SOUP-STEW

- 1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen
- 1½ cup sliced carrot
- 1 cup water
- 1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of potato soup
- 1 package (9 ounce) frozen cut green beans, thawed
- 1 can (10 ounce) tomatoes
- 1 can undiluted evaporated milk
- 1½ teaspoons onion salt
- ¼ teaspoon thyme

Thaw frozen fish; cut into 1-inch pieces. Combine carrot slices and water in saucepan; cover and simmer about 15 minutes or until carrots are almost tender. Stir in potato soup, green beans, tomatoes, milk, salt and thyme; heat until hot and bubbly. Add fish; cover and cook about 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork and beans are done. Serve with hot biscuits, crackers or crusty bread. Makes about seven cups, four dinner-size servings.

Smoked Pork

Pork is becoming a more popular market choice once again since pork production is making a strong comeback after last year's scarcity. As supplies increase, both fresh and smoked pork cuts become an increasingly better buy, according to the Pork Industry Group of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Smoked cuts, a favorite at many dinner tables, add to the variety pork provides. Not only are hams cured and smoked, but often pork shoulder as well. This cut is most often marketed as a neat, compact boneless roll that can be roasted or cooked in liquid. Coupled with white or sweet potatoes plus a green vegetable, it makes a pretty platter packed with flavor and nutrition to satisfy winter-sharpened appetites.

Add a flair to family fare

Add some chopped raw cranberries to a waldorf salad or cole slaw.

* * *

Roll stuffed dates in dry, flavored gelatin instead of sugar and enjoy the tart tang it adds.

* * *

Sprinkle coconut over cake batter before baking. Comes out browned and tasty.

* * *

Just the tiniest amount of Tabasco sauce adds flavor interest to boiled eggs. Just go easy!

* * *

Onions will stay whole in cooking if you'll punch a hole in the center of each.

* * *

Half-teaspoon caraway seeds used in cooking cabbage, broccoli or cauliflower will add a spicy touch and minimize cooking odors.

* * *

Cakes which are not to be frosted will not dry out if while they are cooling, you'll cover them with waxed paper and a clean towel.

* * *

If a turkey is to be served cold, roast it with a carrot, a stalk of celery and two green onions, tops and all, in the cavity instead of usual stuffing. Adds a subtle flavor. No change in baking time.

* * *

Cook dried prunes in pineapple juice and the juice will be rich and the prunes nice and plump.

* * *

Try slices of orange and tomatoes on lettuce with a bit of mayonnaise for a surprisingly good salad.

* * *

Foods fried in bubbling fat absorb more grease than if the fat is not bubbling.

* * *

A few small crisp flowerettes of broccoli adds color and flavor to a tossed salad.

Orange macaroon cake tasty Passover treat

The Jewish celebration of Passover is one of the most ancient on the Hebrew calendar and commemorates the exodus of the enslaved Jews from Egypt.

The Bible tells us that the Jews, led by Moses, demanded they be let free from Pharoah but were refused. For their cruelty, the Egyptians were punished by God with ten plagues, the last being the death of the first-born. When the Angel of Death claimed these sons and daughters the children of the Jews were untouched, or passed over, thus, the name Passover.

As in most holidays today, food plays a role in the Passover observance. The first two nights are observed with the special dinner, the Seder. At these meals and during the entire celebration the Jews observe special dietary laws, including abstinence from unleavened bread or any food containing in whole or part any of the five species of fermented grain. This commemorates the flight of the Jews who in their haste to leave Egypt took only unleavened dough for food.

The modern Passover holiday is a festive one with special homecooked meals and treats and friends visiting each other's homes. Our Orange Macaroon Cake is nice to have in the house as a family dessert or to serve friends who drop by for coffee and cake.

Orange Macaroon Cake uses potato starch in place of regular flour, in keeping with the dietary laws. The chewy sweet macaroon character is always popular in passover desserts and the tangy frozen concentrated orange juice lends a sweet, delicate, fruity flavor to the cake. Top this coconut crowned dessert cake with an orange sauce with freshly sectioned oranges. The sauce is made from frozen concentrated orange juice reserved from the cake recipe so there's no extra bother in making this elegant dessert fit the occasion.

Passover Orange Wine is so impressive and unusual but really a cinch to make. Just combine a red wine approved for Passover with frozen concentrated orange juice, reconstituted, and refrigerate until serving. Orange Passover Wine is so convenient and simple you'll want to replenish the supply often during the Passover season, and probably long after this holiday has ended.

ORANGE MACAROON CAKE

Rind of 1 orange
1 can (4½ ounces) blanched whole almonds
7 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, divided
½ cup sifted potato starch
¾ cup flaked coconut, divided

Remove rind from the orange in thin strips with a vegetable peeler. Place in container or electric blender, add almonds, cover and process at high speed until almonds are ground. In large mixing bowl, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in sugar. Beat until very thick. Stir in salt and 1 tablespoon concentrated orange juice. Reserve remaining concentrated orange juice for sauce. Stir in orange rind and ground almonds. Gently fold in potato starch and ½ cup coconut. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Add a small amount to batter and mix well. Gently but thoroughly fold in remaining egg whites. Turn into ungreased 9 x 3½-inch tube cake pan. Sprinkle top with remaining ¼ cup coconut. Bake in 325 degree oven 55 to 60 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in cake comes out clean. Invert pan and let cake hang to cool completely. Remove from pan and serve with orange sauce.

YIELD: One 9-inch cake; 10 servings.

ORANGE SAUCE

Frozen concentrated orange juice (1 16-ounce can minus 1 tablespoon)
1¾ cups water
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons potato starch
1 teaspoon grated orange ring
1 cup orange sections

In large saucepan mix concentrated orange juice, water and sugar. Place over medium heat and bring to a boil. Mix a little with the potato starch and stir into remaining orange juice mixture in saucepan. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat and stir in orange rind and orange sections.

PASSOVER ORANGE WINE

1 can (6 ounces) concentrated frozen orange juice, reconstituted
1 bottle (3 cups or 4/5 quart) red wine

In large bowl mix orange juice and wine. Pour into decanter. Chill until ready to serve.

YIELD: 10 to 12 servings.

Zesty main dish

'Tagliarini' with turkey picadillo

Picadillo, that south-of-the-border meat sauce specialty, is known for its unusually delicious combination of ingredients, from almonds and raisins to green pepper and chocolate. Although the sauce is often served with rice and eggs or as a filling for tacos and tamales, picadillo in this version teams up with noodles for a zesty main dish.

The intriguing "Tagliarini with Turkey Picadillo Sauce" is easy to prepare. Sauteed ground turkey, seasoned with chili powder, onion and garlic, is simmered in a savory tomato sauce, and enriched, in true South American style, with a little unsweetened chocolate. The addition of toasted almond slivers gives the appealing crunchy accent.

Served with tagliarini noodles, this picadillo is an attractive yet economical main dish. Accompanied by a cool, crisp green salad, you have a simple but satisfying supper for any season.

BROWN RICE PEPPERS

6 medium green peppers
6 slices bacon
1 cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes, well-drained and cut small
1 cup parboiled brown rice, cooked according to package directions
1 cup grated medium-fine Swiss cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut tops from peppers and remove seeds and membranes; cover with water and bring to a boil; boil for 5 minutes; drain. In a large skillet cook bacon until crisp; drain and crumble. Remove all but 2 tablespoons of drippings from the skillet; add onion, celery and tomato to skillet and cook gently until there is no excess moisture; off heat stir in bacon, rice, cheese and salt and pepper. Place peppers in a shallow pan and pile rice mixture into them; cover pan tightly with foil. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

JOHNNIE ROSS'S SUNFLOWER COOKIES

Grownups like these as much as youngsters!

1 and 1/3 cups whole wheat pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup margarine or butter
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
2 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
3 cups old-fashioned oats
½ cup wheat germ
¾ cup sunflower seeds

Stir together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream margarine, sugar and vanilla; beat in eggs until blended; gradually stir in the flour mixture and then the remaining ingredients. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls, 2 inches apart, onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a pre-heated 375 degree oven until browned — 8 to 12 minutes. Remove at once to wire racks to cool. Makes about 5 dozen.

TAGLIARINI WITH TURKEY PICADILLO

1 tablespoon oil
1 pound ground turkey meat
½ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons raisins
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ ounce unsweetened chocolate
½ teaspoon sugar
1/3 cup toasted slivered almonds
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 package (12 oz.) tagliarini

Heat oil in 10-inch skillet. Add turkey, onion, chili powder, garlic, salt, pepper and cinnamon. Saute until browned, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in tomato sauce, green pepper, raisins, vinegar, chocolate and sugar. Simmer on low heat 5 minutes. Stir in almonds and parsley. Meanwhile, cook noodles as package directs. Serve picadillo over drained noodles. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Chili verde quiche recipe

Is quiche a favorite in your house? Or, is it one of those recipes you just haven't tried yet? Here's a quiche recipe with a surprise flavor combination; Chili Verde Quiche.

Nice for brunch, lunch or dinner, Chili Verde Quiche stars protein-packed chunk light tuna and spicy green chili.

Chunk light tuna blends nicely in this elegant quiche. Tuna's robust flavor mellows when combined with crispy bacon and Swiss cheese. A bit of spicy hot diced green chili adds a south-of-the-border accent.

Quiche is best served warm. You can make it early in the day and just heat it up when you are ready to eat.

CHILI VERDE QUICHE

1 9-inch pastry shell
1 can (6½ oz.) chunk light tuna
3 strips bacon, diced
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon diced green chiles
1 cup light cream, scalded
3 eggs, lightly beaten
½ teaspoon sweet basil, crumbled
¼ teaspoon salt

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Bake pastry shell 10 minutes until partially set. Drain tuna. Saute bacon until crisp. Drain on absorbent towels. Drain bacon drippings reserveing reserving 1 tablespoon. Saute onion until soft. Combine with tuna, bacon, ¼ cup cheese and chiles. Spoon into pastry shell. Combine cream, eggs and seasonings. Pour over tuna mixture. Top with remaining cheese. Bake in preheated oven 30 to 35 minutes until set. Cool 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Go-with-anything lentil salad is treasure from Old World legume

If you haven't tried lentils in any of the many ways of serving them, you have a treat in store. Just in case you have not made their acquaintance, lentils, an Old World legume, are round like a pea but small, flat and thin, varying in color by variety.

They are found on your grocer's shelves along with yellow and green split peas and whole dry peas, nicely packaged, readily available the year-round, at low cost. Different than all of the legumes in which the water is lost in drying, no soaking is necessary for Lentils, cookbooks to the contrary. Unfortunately, many recipes insist on this, also in draining off the soaking water, thereby losing many valuable nutrients. So do, please, adapt the recipes you may find.

Thousands of years old, lentils are perhaps the first of the convenience foods. With no coddling at all, they cook to puffed tenderness in a mere half hour. With this short cooking period, the use of a pressure cooker is not advised. If the cooked lentils are to be drained, as in making salad, do save some of the cooking liquid to use for a cup of luncheon soup or in gravies and stews.

Popular as salads, soups, meat accompaniments, whole-meal casseroles, lentil dishes are hearty, nutritious, and always good eating. Because of their large amount of high quality vegetable protein, they need only a little meat, fish, poultry or cheese to round out their body-building ability.

By way of other virtues, lentils supply energy and contain worthwhile amounts of B vitamins along with calcium and other essential minerals, with a real bonus in iron. But no need to add these up, when lentils taste so good in dishes such as this salad, a good round-the-calendar, indoor-outdoor treat, sufficient in itself.

GO-WITH-ANYTHING LENTIL SALAD

(Makes 12 servings of ½ cup each)

- 1 pound lentils, cooked and drained (6 and 2/3 cups)
- ¾ cup olive or other salad oil
- ¼ cup red wine vinegar
- 1 fat clove garlic, minced
- ¾ teaspoon chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon coarse-grind black pepper
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce

For garnish-topping: snippets of crisp cooked bacon and slices of stuffed green olives or hard-cooked egg or chopped parsley.

To put together: while lentils are still hot, put in salad bowl and carefully stir in salad oil. Cover and cool to room temperature. Add remaining ingredients along with a little more oil and salt if needed. Cover with aluminum foil or bowl cover; place in refrigerator several hours or overnight. Garnish as desired.

To serve: place bowl on large plate with tomato slices and crisp thin rings of sweet Spanish or red Italian onions. Have a choice of dressings for these and, if desired, to top the Lentil Salad as served. These may be a tomato-free French dressing, a Sour Cream Salad dressing made by combining 1 cup each mayonnaise and dairy-soured cream, 1 tablespoon snipped chives, and 1 teaspoon dill weed (optional). This amkes 2 cups. (Refrigerate for added flavor)

Menu suggestion: use for a buffet luncheon or supper with or without thin-sliced cold meats, ham, turkey or chicken, hot French bread, dry red wine and/or coffee. This salad is an excellent partner for barbecued and oven-roasted meats, fish or poultry. Fresh fruit and cheese makes an excellent dessert.

To cook lentils: wash 1 pound (2 and 1/3 cups) lentils. This is easy measuring, since lentils are usually in 1-pound packages. Place in heavy saucepan. Add 5 cups cold or warm water, 2 teaspoons salt. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat to simmer. Cover tightly. Cook 30 minutes. Makes 6 and 2/3 cups cooked lentils with 1 cup liquid.

Zucchini and beef minceur

More and more busy Californians are cooking beef in microwave ovens. And no wonder! This new kitchen wizardry turns out beef dishes with great flavor, flair and speed. When developing new ideas for the microwave oven, the California Beef Council home economists worked out recipes so as shown here only one cooking container is used.

And many recipes are appropriate for cooking and serving in the same container. The emphasis is on convenience, efficiency and combining just the right ingredients for the juciest most flavorful beef.

Definitely juicy and flavorful, this unusual recipe is streamlined in calories and technique. Called zucchini beef minceur, it combines lean ground beef with assorted fresh vegetables, cheeses and seasonings. It's terrifically nutritious and economical. The cooking is effortless.

Simply crumble the beef into a baking dish, layer on herbs and vegetables and pop into the microwave oven. It cooks in about 7 minutes — stirring once insures even doneness throughout. Spoon onto a bed of crisp lettuce and let the delisious pan juices serve as a hot dressing. Grated cheese, avocado and orange slices make colorful garnishes. With dependable beef recipes and a microwave oven, even the most rushed people have time for hot, healthy and appetizing meals.

Those new to microwave cooking will want to keep in mind that ground beef as well as beef cut into small pieces cooks very quickly. In fact, some vegetables require longer to cook than the beef. In this instance the zucchini, onion an tomato cook in the same amount of time as the ground beef. Cooking with full power is recommended for this colorful creation. Whatever the cut of beef, remember that the emphasis is on undercooking for best results.

ZUCCHINI BEEF MINCEUR

- 1 pound lean ground beef
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1¼ teaspoons oregano, crumbled
- ½ teaspoon chili powder
- 1 medium zucchini, diced
- ½ cup chopped green onion
- 1 large tomato, cubed (½ pound)
- 1 quart shredded iceberg lettuce
- 4 ounces provolone cheese, grated (1 cup)
- 1 avacado, sliced
- 1 orange, sliced

Crumble beef into 2-quart rectangular ovenproof glass baking dish. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, oregano and chili powder. Layer zucchini, green onion and tomato on top. Cook uncovered with full power in microwave oven 3 minutes. Stir. Cook, stirring once, 4 minutes longer or until beef is cooked. Make a bed of lettuce on individual dinner plates. Top with hot beef and vegetables. Sprinkle with cheese. Garnish with avocado and orange slices. Pass sour cream if you like. Makes 4 servings.

Cheddar

Cheddar cheese that has mild flavor usually is cured for 2 or 3 months. Cheddar cheese with very sharp flavor needs much longer curing — 8 to 12 months.

Claremont

Bach's Mass set

Bach's Mass in B minor will be performed by the 140-voice Pomona College Choir, the Pomona College Symphony Orchestra, and student soloists in Bridges Hall of Music, Claremont, on April 16, at 7:30 p.m., and April 17, at 2:30 p.m. William F. Russell, chairman of the music department, will conduct.

All seats will be reserved. Tickets are now on sale at the Thatcher Music Building office, Fourth Street at College Avenue, at $2, and $1 for all students. Telephone orders may be made at 626-8511, ext. 2242. Mail orders should specify the preferred performance and enclose return envelope.

Solosits include sopranos Anne McMillan and Mary Hart, alto Emily Davidson, tenor Bernard Yim, and basses Frank Farris and Jim Busterud. Faculty members performing with the orchestra include Roy Poper, trumpet, Terry Row, oboe, Paul Gregory, string bass, John Steele Ritter, harpsichord, and Chris Lengefeld, Scripps, violin.

Area students participating in the performances include: Joseph Ognibene, Renata Bratt, Sandra Fenton, Alicen Clark, Lauren Fowler, Lydia Henry, Susanna Kohn, Rima Snyder, and Jennifer Young. Patrice Doub, Chris Johnson, Kevin Sly, Sarah Hohnson, Jeff Isenberg, Frank Farris, Thomas Koller, David Vilter and Paul Kua.

Star to play lawyer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard Chamberlain will star in "The Last Wave," a feature film which will start shooting in Australia next month.

Chamberlain will play an attorney who defends an aborigine accused of murder.

Center Theater Group

Annette O'Toole to star in play

Annette O'Toole has been signed to star opposite Richard Thomas in the Center Theater Group/Ahmanson production of "Merton of the Movies," it was announced today by Managing Director Robert Fryer. Miss O'Toole replaces Cindy Williams who has been forced to withdraw because of illness.

Miss O'Toole began her professional career at the age of 13, dancing with Danny Kaye on his television program. Her subsequent television credits have included guest appearances on numerous series, as well as roles in two films for television, "The Entertainer" and "The War Between the Tates." Most recently, Miss O'Toole starred in the feature films, "Smile" and "One on One," the latter to be released this summer.

Directed by Burt Shevelove, "Merton of the Movies" will play from April 22 through June 4.

Ostrich anyone?

A restaurant at Oudtshoorn, in the heart of South Africa's ostrich farming region, offers such delicacies as ostrich wing tip, ostrich eggs boiled for two hours and served with anchovies, stuffed ostrich leg and ostrich gizzard with sour cream sauce.

Almanac

Today in History
By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, March 30, the 89th day of 1977. There are 276 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1867, U.S. Secretary of State William Seward and the Russian minister to the United States reached agreement on the American purchase of Alaska for $7.2 million.

On this date:

In 1822, a territorial government was established in Florida.

In 1842, ether reputedly was used as an anesthetic for the first time by a doctor in Long Jefferson, Ga.

In 1870, Texas was readmitted into the Union after the Civil War.

In 1940, Japan established a puppet government in occupied China.

In 1957, the U.S. Navy's second atomic powered submarine, the "Seawolf," was commissioned at Groton, Conn.

In 1966, France ordered the closing of American military bases on French soil within 12 months.

Ten years ago: The North Atlantic Treaty Organization formally closed its military headquarters in France.

Five years ago: Britain imposed direct rule over Northern Ireland after more than half a century of semi-autonomous status.

One year ago: A general strike by Arab citizens in northern Israel erupted into violent clashes with security forces in more than a dozen villages.

Today's birthdays: President McGeorge Bundy of the Ford Foundation is 58. Former CIA Director Richard Helms is 64.

Thought for today: The worst vice of a fanatic is his sincerity. — Oscar Wilde, Irish writer, 1854-1900.

Clydesdale horses to be at Busch bird sanctuary

The famed Anheuser-Busch team of champion Clydesdale horses will appear daily at the Busch bird sanctuary in Los Angeles during Easter Week, April 2-10.

The eight-horse hitch can be seen from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Old St. Louis section of the sanctuary where the team will pull a 3½-ton antique Budweiser beerwagon through a series of intricate maneuvers. To maintain control over each horse, which weighs an average of 2,300 pounds, the driver holds eight separate reins through the fingers of both hands.

Each of the distinctive Scottish-bred Clydesdales with their white feather stockings stands 17 to 19 hands high, or about six feet tall.

In addition to the Clydesdales, the 21½-acre wildlife preserve in Van Nuys offers a variety of exciting activities for the entire family. A monorail tour of the Anheuser-Busch brewery, an hourly show humorously presented by a troupe of trained cockatoos and macaws, and a scenic guided boat tour through a waterway exhibit of unusual bird species in their natural habitat are among the many park attractions.

Admission is free for adults and children, and park hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Parking is $1. Busch Bird Sanctuary is located at 16000 Roscoe Blve., in Van Nuys near Interstate 405 (San Diego Freeway).

Actress dies of cancer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Diana Hyland, whose new ABC television series "Eight is Enough" had premiered just this month, has died of cancer. She was in her late 30s.

Private funeral services will be held for Miss Hyland, who died in her Westwood home Sunday after a brief illness. She was nominated for an Emmy for her role in "The Voice of Charlie Pont."

Miss Hyland had played more than 100 television roles, including the permissive wife of a clergyman in "Peyton Place" and the wife in "Young Dr. Malone." She had been featured in Tennessee Williams' "Sweet Bird of Youth" on Broadway.

In her new series, she played the mother of eight children.

Four-day week

About 10,000 companies with a million employes are currently on a four-day work week, the Conference Board reports. Most of the companies retain the 40-hour work week, however, by establishing a 10-hour work day. The goal: To create more flexible hours for workers. Many firms using flex-time systems have found that a majority of their workers like the change.

Citrus College

'Sound of Music' rehearsals started

Rehearsals are under way at Citrus College for "Sound of Music," the next production of Citrus College Musical Comedy Theater which will be presented at the college May 20, 21 and 22.

The lilting musical tells the story of the famous Trapp Family of Singers and includes some of the most memorable tunes by Rodgers and Hammerstein — "Climb Every Mountain," "Do Re Mi" and "My Favorite Things."

Many members of the "Sound of Music" cast will be playing roles in sharp contrast to the ones they filled in "Man of La Mancha," the group's last production.

Ali England, who delighted Citrus audiences with her portrayal of the slovernly tavern maid in "Man of La Mancha," will play Louise, the 14-year-old Trapp daughter. The lead role of Maria, the novice in a convent who becomes governess to the seven Trapp children, will be played by Renee Long, who was the aged housekeeper in "Man of La Mancha." Susan Gilbert will play the part of the haughty Austrian aristocrat — a far cry from her last role as a mule in "Man of La Mancha." "Man of La Mancha's padre (John Cavazos) becomes a shy 15-year-old boy in "Sound of Music," and Laura Bachwansky changes from an Arabian dancer in the former show to a nun.

Also staring in the Citrus College production will be Calvin Coker as Captain Georg von Trapp, Vicki Gale as Mother Abbess, Kim Littlejohn as Liesl, Karen Anderson as Brigitta, Erin Davidson as Kurt, Kathleen Lindsay as Marta, Tobrina Van Buskirk as Gretl and Ronald Mangham as Max Detweiler, concert manager and friend of the captain.

Stage sets will be designed by Bill Raoul, Citrus College set designer whose dramatic set for "Man of La Mancha" brought Valley-wide acclaim.

Director is Fred Vaugeois.

Television briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Does Father still Know Best? The answer may be found on a forthcoming NBC special that will bring back the Anderson family headed by Robert Young and Jane Wyatt.

Columbia Pictures Television is producing the 90-minute "The Father Knows Best Reunion," which will feature a 35-year wedding anniversary of the Andersons. Their children, played by Elinor Donahue, Billy Gray and Luaren Chapin, will return for the event.

"Father Knows Best" ran for nine seasons starting in 1954. The reunion marks the first time the cast has performed together since the series went off the air.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Henry Winkler is broadening his movie career with a comedy love story for his television employer, Paramount.

Paramount and First Artists will co-produce an as yet untitled film written by Steve Gordon with Carl Reiner as director. Winkler, the Fonz of the series "Happy Days," will first star in Universal's "Heroes."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peter Falk, who once announced he was through with "Columbo," is starting a new episode for the series' 1977-78 season on NBC.

Before starting his next movie, "The Cheap Detective," Falk is appearing in his series, The title of the show: "The Bye-Bye Sky-High I.Q. Murder Case."

EASTER — Ray McKinley and his orchestra along with Paula Kelly and the Modernaires will be showcased nightly at Disneyland April 3-9. The park's Easter week salute will feature show twice each night on the Rivers of America, combining music and pyrotechnic productions.

Claremont pianist at Caltech

For her recital in Caltech's Ramo Auditorium, tonight at 8 p.m., pianist Donna Turner Smith of Claremont will play the Toccata in D major, BWV912 by Bach; Novelette in F sharp minor, Opus 21 by Schumann; Third Sonata (1936) by Hindemith; Valses Nobles et Sentimentales by Ravel; and Andante spianato and Polonaise, Opus 22 by Chopin.

Tickets may be obtained one hour before performance time at the Ramo Auditorium Box Office. There is ample, free, off-street parking in the Beckman-Ramo parking lot.

Program for senior citizens

Opera a la Carte will present "The Best of Gilbert and Sullivan" April 2, as the fourth segment of Music Center Presentations' current senior citizen series, "The Grandpeople's Concerts," in the Pavilion at 2:30 p.m.

The six-part series "brings the senior citizen to the theater" in 45-passenger buses for free-of-charge concerts produced for various senior citizen groups in the city and county of Los Angeles from March 12 through April 16.

A specialist in G&S, Opera a la Carte is under the direction of Richard Sheldon, and regularly is on tour throughout the Southwest.

Music Center Presentations has developed this project with a desire to place a priority on senior citizen programming.

Seating for all performances now is fully subscribed by prior arrangement with various senior centers, and no other seating is available.

The series included the Baroque Jazz Ensemble, with vocalist Irene Kral last March 12; the Aman Folk Ensemble last March 19; and the Civic Light Opera Musical Theater Workshop last March 26. Opera a la Carte continues on April 2; the Los Angeles Philharmonic Chamber Music Society on April 9, and, the Los Angeles Master Chorale on April 16.

Aiding MCP in the coordination of this project are the Department of Senior Citizens Affairs and Committee on Affairs of the Aging, County of Los Angeles; Senior Citizens Unit, and the office for the Aging, Office of the Mayor, City of Los Angeles.

Senior citizens to be invited to attend are being coordinated through the various senior citizen organizations serviced by the city and county offices listed above.

The concerts are staged in the Pavilion's Grand Hall.
